Syria 'attack plan' reunites Golda, Dayan... A-2

Area voters oust 4 incumbents

Four incumbents, including the longtime mayor of Ontario, were defeated Tuesday in eight municipal elections throughout the Pomona Valley.

In La Verne, voters elected the first mayor in the history of the city—he'd been appointed by the council up to now—and in Claremont, they chose a former councilwoman to serve them on the board of trustees of Citrus College.

Voters also ended a six-year trend against financial issues. In the Walnut area, they gave a resounding 74 per cent approval to a $5 million school bond issue. And in Upland, they passed a $2½ million water bond and a 5½-cent tax increase to improve the police retirement plan, by more than 2 to 1.

In all, 23 positions were filled by the electors out of the total of 51 candidates who were running for offices. But the turnouts were inconsistent.

Fifty-six per cent of the eligible voters went to the polls in the Walnut School District to vote on the bond issue, and more than 53 per cent voted in Walnut itself. And more than 42 per cent cast ballots in La Verne.

For details, see B-1, B-3

But elsewhere, the turnout was disappointing, running 20 per cent in Montclair, 25 per cent in Chino, and 26 per cent in Claremont.

The biggest surprise of the elections was the defeat of Ontario Mayor Howard Snider by rookie Councilman Paul Treadway, who has held his post for less than two years.

Snider blamed the poor voter turnout—about 33 per cent—in Ontario, and the apathy of the voters.

"A lot of people thought I would have no problem being elected," he said. "And so they didn't bother to vote."

He also said he was bucking a trend in seeking a third four-year term as mayor. No one has held the office of mayor in Ontario for more than eight years.

"Across the country the trend is to change," he shrugged. "People are always looking for the new candidate."

Snider's point of view may have been reflected in San Dimas where the voters defeated Loyd Salisbury, a veteran of eight years on the council, in Montclair where Councilman Leonard Soper lost after the same length of service, and in Upland where Councilman and former Mayor A. M. Hawkins Jr. was knocked out of office by Mrs. Ina Petokas, the only challenger, after 12 years of service.

In La Verne, the voters went to the polls to elect Mike M. Morales as their first mayor. Morales, a 12-year veteran on the council, has served as mayor of that city the past two years by the vote of the council.

The municipal elections were held in Walnut, San Dimas, La Verne, Claremont, Ontario, Upland, Montclair and Chino. Pomona, the only charter city in this area, will hold its municipal election next year.

REPUBLICAN PULLS A SHOCKER

Robert Lagomarsino gets victory kiss from wife, Norma, after he defeated seven Democratic candidates running for California's 13th Congressional District seat in special election to fill position left vacant by death of Republican Charles Teague. Lagomarsino was only Republican in race.

Demo wins in Ohio, but GOP pulls shocker in state

By United Press International

Democrat Tom Luken captured an Ohio congressional seat that slipped out of the Republican grasp only three other times in a century but a Republican outpolled the combined total of seven Democrats to keep a California House seat in GOP hands on Tuesday.

Democrats hailed Luken's victory in the Cincinnati area as further proof that a Democratic landslide victory is in the offing in the fall national elections because of Republican Watergate troubles.

Republicans conceded that Watergate in general, together with President Nixon's low popularity, played a major part in Luken's victory but expressed delight over Robert J. Lagomarsino's win in California's 13th District —even though he disclaimed it as any party victory.

Democratic National Chairman Robert S. Strauss said Luken's victory, the Democrats' third in recent weeks in House districts that Republicans had held for 25 years or more, showed that voters were turning more and more to the Democrats because of "Republican failure to come to grips with the serious problems of this nation."

In his prepared statement, Strauss did not mention Watergate or Nixon, although others in the party had said in advance that a Luken victory over Republican Willis Gradison would be a further sign that Watergate had soured voters on Republicans, even in longtime GOP strongholds. Democrats previously won seats in formerly solid GOP districts in Michigan and Pennsylvania.

Luken refused to pinpoint Watergate as the principal reason for his win, nor did Gradison blame it as the principal factor for his loss.

In California, Democrats sought to link Lagomarsino to the President as well as his two top former aides, H. R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman, who were indicted by the Watergate grand jury Friday.

Lagomarsino said his foes made "a serious error" and that voters in the district rejected their arguments.

Luken said on the NBC-TV Today Show that Gradison's campaign position showed that Republicans would do better if they "put distance" between themselves and the Washington administration, and Lagomarsino indicated in one of his California victory statements that this was part of his strategy.

Lagomarsino declared that his win "was not a victory for the Republican party as such," but showed that "a Republican can win under the right circumstances."

Republican National Chairman George Bush said on the CBS-TV Morning News program that however Lagomarsino characterized his triumph, "I consider it a victory for the party."

Luken polled 57,171 votes to Gradison's 51,057, in unofficial final returns in the Ohio 1st District.

With all but 2 per cent of the votes tallied unofficially in California's 13th District, Lagomarsino had better than 53 per cent, a comfortable cushion in a race where 50 per cent was needed to avoid a runoff. Lagomarsino had almost three times as many votes as his closest pursuer.

Gradison and Bush made clear they felt the fall elections where all 435 House seats as well as 34 Senate seats are at stake could turn on issues that have not yet surfaced.

To submit extensive material to impeachment probers

Nixon is willing to answer all questions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's Watergate attorney said today the President is willing to turn over extensive material to House impeachment investigators and is prepared to answer both written and oral questions if necessary.

Attorney James D. St. Clair, however, quickly opposed a suggestion by U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica that the House Judiciary Committee put off its proceedings until after completion of Watergate coverup trials which he said would begin in September.

St. Clair's disclosure of Nixon's readiness to cooperate with the House committee came early in a public hearing called by Sirica to help him decide what to do with a sealed Watergate grand jury report and a briefcase of other secret material submitted with it.

The material was said to deal with the grand jury's opinions of Nixon's handling of the scandal.

St. Clair told Sirica he had been "authorized and directed by the President" to pledge Nixon's cooperation with the committee inquiry.

"The President is prepared to turn over to the House committee all the materials he has turned over to the grand jury without limitation and to answer all written interrogatories and participate in oral interviews if it is deemed necessary," the President's attorney declared.

As for the secret report given Sirica on the same day it indicted seven former aides and associates of Nixon's, St. Clair said the President was making no recommendations to the judge on whether he should turn over the report to the House panel.

John Doar, special counsel for the impeachment inquiry, formally requested that the report and the briefcase of material be turned over to the committee.

John J. Wilson, representing John D. Ehrlichman and H. R. Haldeman, Nixon's former top lieutenants who were among those indicted Friday, strongly opposed any such move. He declared he would appeal the action if Sirica decided to give the committee the report.

It was during Doar's presentation that Sirica suggested that the committee postpone impeachment proceedings until after the trials are completed.

He asked if the committee had given any thought to such a delay to insure fair trial for the seven defendants. Doar said the committee had not and added that he could not speak for the House group on the proposal. The committee is seeking to make its recommendations to the full House by April 30 on whether it feels grounds exist for impeachment.

St. Clair told Sirica: "The President would not be in favor of delaying the impeachment proceedings."

As for turning over the sealed grand jury report, St. Clair said that whatever Sirica decided would be acceptable to the President.

Will last until summer

Spread of odd-even gas system seen for state

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Mandatory odd-even gasoline sales limitations probably will spread to other California counties and will remain at least until early summer, state Energy Coordinator Wesley Bruer said today.

"I think you'll see a domino effect outward from those counties that have already gone on the plan. More counties will come on out of necessity as their neighbors do," Bruer said in an interview.

"If they don't, it's going to be driving their citizens into neighboring counties on their 'off' day to gas up."

The Reagan administration's No. 1 full-time energy official also said the earliest the mandatory program could be lifted would be June, depending on when and if the Arab nations lift their oil embargo.

"From the day they lift the embargo you're about two months away from seeing the gasoline showing up at the pump, and then it will come in incrementally, so if they lift it April 1 you really won't see any significant increase in gasoline until June," he said.

Bruer added that it might take motorists another "several weeks" before they become accustomed to more plentiful gasoline supplies and stop lining up at stations to top off their tanks.

But even lifting the oil embargo will not end California's gasoline woes, he cautioned.

Because of limited refinery capacity and a whopping increase in industrial use of fuel oil, Bruer estimated that a resumption of unrestricted oil imports "will solve only 60 per cent of the problem."

For motorists, that means 8 to 10 per cent less gasoline than they had last year, compared to 22 to 23 per cent less now, he said.

Nixon vetoes energy bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon vetoed the energy emergency act today, charging that the measure would "undo the progress we have already made" and force gasoline rationing on the nation.

"The amendments, counter amendments and parliamentary puzzles which have marked the stumbling route of this bill through the Congress must make Americans wonder what has been going on in Washington while they confront their own very real problems," the President said.

U.N. unit drafts world plan to limit population

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — A United Nations commission is putting the finishing touches on a worldwide plan to halt the population explosion before the earth runs out of resources.

The U.N. Population Commission, working on the final draft of the proposal, was scheduled to present the plan to a world population conference in Bucharest, Romania, Aug. 19-30.

In the rough draft, the commission said world population was growing twice as fast now as in the first half of the 20th century. It projected 6.5 billion people for the year 2,000 compared to 2 billion in 1950.

"Since Earth offers only a finite space, the growth of population and of material goods will ultimately have to cease," the commission said. "In fact, long before such physical limits are reached, many serious social and economic problems would have emerged."

Nixon plans news parley on TV today

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon will hold a news conference at 4:30 p.m. PDT today, his second in eight days, a White House spokesman announced. It will be broadcast nationally on television and radio.

Deputy White House Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said in making the announcement:

"I cannot predict what the President will say this evening."

Nixon met with newsmen Feb. 25 in his first news conference in four months. Tonight's will be the 37th of his Presidency.

Warren said Nixon was spending much of the day conferring with aides apparently in preparation for the news conference.

Hearst group won't press hijack probe

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Leaders of the food program set up to secure the release of Patricia Hearst agreed today to refrain from asking for an investigation into the hijacking of a truck laden with 12,500 pounds of meat, poultry and produce.

Sources said the coalition of activist groups named to direct the People in Need program felt a police investigation might antagonize the Symbionese Liberation Army, which kidnaped the daughter of Randolph A. Hearst, president and editor of The San Francisco Examiner, on Feb. 4 from her Berkeley, Calif., apartment.

A lone man toting a shotgun hijacked the truck as it headed toward a distribution center in the city's Hunter Point section Tuesday. He pointed the weapon at the driver's head and ordered him to drive a short distance.

The driver was then released and the hijacker drove away. The truck was found later but with the foodstuffs missing. PIN officials said the truck had been loaded with enough food for as many as 4,000 per sons. The food's value was placed at between $34,000 and $60,000.

The hijack was the only incident to mar the third time food was distributed in the $6 million program devised by the Hearst family to meet the SLA's demands. The operations at the San Francisco Bay Area's 12 centers ran smoothly.

Patty's parents had hoped the continuation of the program, which started Feb. 22, would elicit some response from the kidnapers who have not been heard from the past 13 days. However, the SLA failed to issue another communique.

Minor earthquake causes no damage

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A minor earthquake shook three suburbs in the northwestern part of the city Tuesday evening, causing no damage.

Seismologists at Caltech in Pasadena said the tremor, centered in the Highland Park area, hit at 6:45 p.m. It registered 2.25 on the Richter scale.

Rain may come, but rain may go by race time

The National Weather Service is forecasting unsettled weather that may bring showers late Thursday and Friday but the weather is supposed to clear for the big race in Ontario this weekend.

The storm is expected to pass through the area Friday and shouldn't disrupt the California 500 events this weekend.

The unsettled weather will also threaten farmers and citrus ranchers in colder areas of the Pomona Valley where temperatures are expected to dip to the upper 20s Thursday and Friday nights. The Fruit Frost Service has issued frost warnings for both nights.

Syria 'attack plan' reunites Golda, Dayan

TEL AVIV (UPI) — The Israeli national radio said today intelligence information indicated Syria was planning an attack to try to recapture the salient taken by Israeli forces in the October war and that this led to a reconciliation of Prime Minister Golda Meir and Defense Minister Moshe Dayan.

Israeli newspapers and radio reports spoke of heightened tension on the Golan Heights front and Syrian troop buildups led to the sudden change of mind by Mrs. Meir to scrap all other political considerations and form a new government.

Transport Minister Shimon Peres said the change in the security situation prompted him and Dayan to change their stands and to join Mrs. Meir's new government. They had pledged to stay out unless a national unity government was set up.

Peres said after the Egyptian and Syrian surprise attacks in October, Israel was taking no chances.

"Israel had intelligence information that the Syrians were planning aggressive action," the national radio's military correspondent said, apparently from information based on a military briefing. Israeli forces captured 325 square miles of Syrian territory in the war.

"Such an action could be an attempt to recapture the salient captured by Israeli troops in the Yom Kippur war," the correspondent said. "The purpose of this would be to create military pressure to influence diplomatic activity now going on.

"In any case, Syrian troops are so deployed on the ground as to enable them to attack at any time."

"After what happened on Yom Kippur, I think that every Israeli must accept every piece of information in its most grave and serious dimension," Peres said in a radio interview. "We have learned our lesson once.

"It is better that we see the worst premonitions dispelled than react frivolously to such possibilities."

The Israeli national radio said Dayan decided to join the government because of "a redeployment of Syrian troops" necessitating "quick action."

The Israeli newspaper Davar, quoting foreign press reports, said some elements in Syria's ruling Baath party apparently were seeking to foment tension out of unhappiness with strides toward peace worked out by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

"It has become known that a great deal of tension exists on the line with Syria," the newspaper Yedioth Ahronoth said.

The military command reported quiet on the northern front. A military spokesman declined to comment on whether Israeli forces have been put on alert along the front or if any reserves have been mobilized.

The Egyptian and Syrian surprise attacks Oct. 6 caught Israeli forces unprepared, with later reports that troops on the Syrian front had been washing their laundry when the assault came.

The reported tension came less than a week after mediation efforts by Kissinger to secure troop disengagemen between Israel and Syria. Israeli an Egyptian forces completed their dis engagement Tuesday.

The turnabout in the nation's politic al situation, which occurred about mid night, ended a two-week crisis over the formation of a government that will include Dayan and Transport Ministe Shimon Peres despite their earlie pledges to walk out.

"Reports about the new situation dealt with at yesterday's cabinet meeting have convinced me that I can no longer refuse the office of minister of defense," Yedioth quoted Dayan as saying.

STAGE FIGHT

San Francisco's Board of Education voted four to two to adopt an oft-modified integration plan for grades kindergarten through 10th. Today's vote came after a young member of the Jewish Defense League, Roger Pavlov (back to camera), socked a Nazi on the jaw and was arrested for battery. Alan Vincent, Nazi Bay Area commander, left, was on the podium when Pavlov jumped up and punched him.

Your guess good as ours assessing gas situation

By United Press International

The latest statistics from the Automobile Association of America show last week was the worst ever for gasoline supplies, and in other gasoline development today, Oregon announced its odd-even gasoline rationing system will become mandatory next week.

The AAA suggested things would get better in March. Already, filling station lines in the Northeast have begun to dwindle. Lines in New York City were short or nonexistent Monday for the first time in weeks, and the AAA said shorter lines were prevalent throughout New England Tuesday, especially in Boston.

But some stations have not survived the overall impact of the fuel shortage. Hartford, Conn., reported 36 per cent of its gasoline stations have gone out of business since July. The city used to have 163 filling stations and now it has only 104.

The AAA said one of every five service stations it checked in its weekly survey were out of gasoline, but most operators were optimistic conditions would improve at least by the middle of March.

The AAA's "Fuel Gauge Report," consisting of a check of 5,071 stations, showed increased allocations to some states had reduced waiting lines at the pumps but "overall fuel supplies appeared to be the tightest since the energy crunch began."

The weekly report said Southeastern states "were experiencing deteriorating fuel conditions," with 36 per cent of the stations contacted out of fuel. The national average for closed stations was 20 per cent.

A six-state area including the Dakotas and several Rocky Mountain states was reported in the best shape as far as gasoline was concerned, with only 2 per cent of the stations reporting forced to close.

The AAA reported increasing numbers of stations were either operating on a self-imposed daily quota or were staggering their operating hours between early morning and afternoon shifts.

One fourth were limiting purchases, a decrease from the 30 per cent figure of the week before.

Ehrlichman asked Mitchell to act in Vesco's behalf, witness testifies

NEW YORK (UPI) — John Erlichman, President Nixon's domestic affairs advisor, in 1972 asked John N. Mitchell, then attorney general, to call "certain embassies" in financier Robert L. Vesco's behalf, a witness testified at the Mitchell-Stans trial today.

The government witness, Harry L. Sears, a New Jersey attorney, Republican leader, and Vesco employee, was testifying for the second day as a star for the prosecution in the trial of the former attorney general and Maurice H. Stans, former secretary of commerce.

They are charged in federal court with trying to obstruct a major federal investigation of Vesco, now a fugitive, in exchange for his $200,000 cash gift to the 1972 Nixon campaign.

Sears testified that he believed it was Jan. 4, 1972 when he got a phone call from Mithell in Washington.

"He inquired about a memo he got from John Erlichman which asked Mr. Mitchell to make calls to certain embassies in Mr. Vesco's behalf," Sears testified.

"He said he didn't have enough detail and didn't understand the memo and asked me to bring some details as to what was wanted in that regard.

Vesco at that time was under a vigorous investigation by the staff of the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC).

Sears said that at a midafternoon meeting on Jan. 12, 1972 with Mitchell in the attorney general's office he informed Mitchell that Vesco and his executives were "deathly afraid not only because of the emotion involved in the conduct of the staff but also because of abrasions of Vesco lawyers with the staff that there was going to be a precipitious staff report that would recommend a suit (against Vesco) with an injunction and the commission would approve it."

The mention of Erlichman and his memo was not further explained.

The government has told the eight-man, four-woman jury that the "heart of this case" is the charge that the two lied under oath to the grand jury about their alleged criminal acts.

Sears, a New Jersey lawyer, friend of Mitchell, and former State Senate Republican leader, had known Vesco since 1969, he testified.

On March 18, 1971, the Securities and Exchange Commission began an investigation of Vesco and his companies. Vesco, Sears said, enlisted his aid to try to get Mitchell to help by getting Vesco's side of the affair to SEC Chairman William Casey.

In May, Sears wrote to Mitchell, and in a phone talk with Mitchell in June, Sears testified, "Mr. Mitchell indicated to me that at some point he'd check with Bill Casey about it." Vesco had complained he had not been able to get beyond the staff level to the chairman.

Sears said he and Mitchell chatted on the phone about Vesco, how he "considered himself a friend of the Nixon family—a friend of Edward and Donald—and Mr. Mitchell said, 'I'll pass it along to Bill Casey.'"

Nixon preparing election campaign reform package

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon, whose supporters raised an estimated $60 million for his re-election campaign in 1972, is preparing a federal campaign reform package which will limit contributions candidates can accept but would not involve public financing.

A high ranking White House official said Tuesday that the President's proposed legislation, which would also limit the duration of campaigns, would be presented to Congress Friday.

It would run head on into a Senate proposal which would fully finance presidential elections with federal funds, underwrite Senate and House elections and help finance primary campaigns.

Nixon, the White House official said, proposes no limitation on the amounts campaign committees could receive. But a candidate for Congress would not be able to accept more than $3,000 from an individual contributor, and presidential candidates would not be able to accept more than $15,000 from one individual contributor.

Organizations — for example, labor or business groups—could not contribute to campaigns, but their members could do so individually.

No cash contribution above $50 would be permitted. All amounts above $50 would have to be made by check.

President Nixon's re-election committee received hundreds of thousands of dollars from corporations and individuals, some of it allegedly "laundered" or passed secretly through Mexico, the Bahamas and elsewhere.

Each candidate, under the new Nixon proposal, would designate one authorized campaign committee and one depository in a federally authorized bank for contributions.

The proposed legislation would also:

—Prohibit any presidential primary election before May 1 and ask the two major political parties not to hold their national conventions until September to shorten the campaign.

—Reject postcard registration.

—Repeal the equal time amendments so that networks could provide time for candidates.

—Avoid any arbitrary limit on campaign expenditures on grounds there is no way to do this fairly.

The law already provides a partial system for public financing of campaigns—the $1 writeoff available on income tax forms with varying amounts going to candidates.

Pope ill, cancels Lenten activities

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul VI is ill with influenza and has cancelled all activities for the week, including Lenten retreat exercises, Vatican sources said today.

On Sunday, the Vatican announced the Pope suspended public engagements, including today's weekly general audience, because he was beginning a six-day Lenten retreat with other members of the Vatican hierarchy.

But Vatican sources said today doctors advised the Pope to rest because of his illness.

Jury goes to YTS

CHINO — A West Valley Superior Court jury was transported to the Youth Training School here Tuesday in the conspiracy-to-commit-assault trial of seven school inmates and a former counselor.

Sex case jury rules against woman trapped in sauna

SANTA ANA, Calif. (UPI) — A Superior Court jury of eight women and four men did not believe that being trapped in a sauna bath for 30 minutes could turn a devout Catholic mother into a sex-starved barroom pickup.

The jury Tuesday found for the defendant in the "sauna bath nymphomaniac trial," brought by Maria Parson against the Holiday Health Spa of Orange.

Mrs. Parsons, 49, a shapely redhaired housewife, sued the health spa for $1 million. She maintained that the emotional trauma of being trapped in the spa's sauna bath by a faulty door handle caused her to become a promiscuous woman.

Mrs. Parson, who attended the three-month trial only on the day she testified, was not present. Her husband Bud, an aerospace engineer turned carpenter, and two of their seven children left the courtroom in tears after the verdict was read.

When polled, only two of the jurors said they accepted Mrs. Parson's case. One juror was undecided and nine voted in favor of rejecting the suit.

Mrs. Parson maintained that before the sauna bath incident on March 3, 1970, she was a devout Catholic, and devoted wife and mother.

Afterwards, she and her psychiatrist said, she developed a split personality. One of the personalities is promiscuous, she said, and prowls bars and dance halls in miniskirts and low cut blouses, picking up strange men and having sex with them.

Bodies of Yanks held captive in Hanoi returned

UTAPAO AIR BASE, Thailand (UPI) — U.S. military authorities today brought back from North Vietnam the remains of Americans who died in captivity in Hanoi and expressed hopes it would lead to an accounting of all GI's still missing in action.

No names will be released until medical experts establish the identities and the next of kin have been notified. There was no indication how long this would take.

Flag-draped aluminum containers bearing the remains were unloaded from an Air Force C130 transport plane with solemn ceremony and placed aboard a blue and white ambulance bus. An honor guard made up of officers from the four services snapped to a salute in the glare of floodlights.

Brig. Gen. Joseph R. Ulatoski, senior officer aboard the flight, said that he told North Vietnamese officials, "I was pleased to accept the remains of the men who died in captivity and I stated our hope that this exchange would lead to an accounting of all our men missing in action."

Miss Kitty quits saloon business

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Marshal Dillon will just have to find a new girl. Amanda Blake, the redhaired actress who has played Miss Kitty on the "Gunsmoke" television series for 19 years, announced Tuesday that she will not be back when the series begins filming for the new season.

She told CBS-TV that she is tired of commuting to Hollywood from her home in Phoenix, Ariz., where she lives with her husband, businessman Frank Gilbert, and she wants more time for "outside activities."

Tammy, a blonde girl who wears a crutch on one leg, smiled up at the First Lady. She was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Kenneth I. Bryant, of Key West, Fla., formerly of Albany, Ga.

Tammy gave the first lady a huge badge with the Easter Seal cross on it, the first sheet of the 1974 Easter Seal stamps and a gold key to the city of Key West.

Tammy suffered brain damage in an automobile accident at the age of 20 months. Mrs. Bryant said doctors believe she will be back to normal by the time she enters her teens.

Shockley shouted down by blacks

ATHENS, Ga. (UPI) — Dr. William Shockley, who advocates controversial genetic theories about blacks, was shouted down by about 100 protesters at the University of Georgia Tuesday night when he tried to speak at a debate.

Wild shoving matches erupted on the small platform where Shockley was to have debated Dr. Lyle Schoenfeldt, associate professor of psychology at the University of Georgia. The demonstrators, most of whom were black, chanted "To hell with Schockley."

Douglas warns of decline in nation

HAVERFORD, Pa. (UPI) — Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas said Tuesday the nation is in a decline which can only be corrected by citizen participation in public life.

"Public involvement is necessary to change social and economic ills," the 75-year-old Douglas said in an interview with Haverford College president Johnn R. Coleman before 650 students. "There is no ready-made vehicle for public involvement. You have to invent it."

Douglas said America's young people "could play a significant role in reversing the downward spiral" in the United States.

Wallace trying to soften image

'Don't have to shout anymore'

By RANDALL H. HARBER

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Gov. George C. Wallace, who "stood in the schoolhouse door" in 1963 in an attempt to block racial integration at the University of Alabama, says he has been misunderstood on the issue of race.

"I was for segregation because that was the law and that's what the people of Alabama wanted. "Well, it's not the law any more.

"They may still want it, but we don't have it any more and the question is moot. Now it's time for all of us to go on together."

Wallace, who is eyeing a fourth presidential bid in 1976, said in an interview with UPI, "If the people interpret me as being against people just because of who they are they are misinterpreting me."

Wallace was the symbol of resistance to racial integration in the South during the 1960's, but he said he was never against blacks, only big government.

In recent months, Wallace has crowned a black homecoming queen at the University of Alabama and made a special appearance at the Southern Conference of Black Mayors were he said, "I am the governor of all the people."

Wallace is thought to be trying to soften his image on race to make himself more attractive to blacks and labor voters when he runs for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1976.

George Meany, head of the ADL-CIO, said after a meeting three weeks ago that Wallace had "mellowed" on race, but Wallace said Meany did not understand his previous position.

"I have never been anti-anybody because of who they were," he said. "I have been anti-big government. My whole philsophy has been against big government, not against people."

But Wallace has not dropped his objection to busing to achieve racial balances, which he says is another example of big government interference.

"Busing ought to be contested," he said, "but added he would not defy the law to oppose busing.

Wallace said if busing is challenged and found to be constitutional, "Then we're going to have to live with it."

Wallace maintained that he never defied a federal court order despite his frequent clashes with federal officials.

"Opposed orders, yes, but I nver defied an order," he said.

Asked why he stood in the school house door, Wallace said, "I used to have to shout to be heard. I don't have to shout any more."

Suspect is arrested

Cucamonga man is knifed

CUCAMONGA — A Cucamonga man seriously injured in a knife fight with another man Monday night remained in fair condition this morning at San Antonio Community Hospital with multiple face and neck wounds.

Marshial Lucero, 8836 Center St., was admitted to San Antonio Community Hospital shortly after the fight was reported at his home about 7:20 p.m.

The second man allegedly involved in the fight, Richard Mena Laguna, of 10394 24th St., was given emergency treatment for facial lacerations Monday, booked in the West End Jail on suspicion of attempted murder, and arraigned in West Valley Municipal Court Tuesday.

Sheriff's deputies said that the fight erupted between Lucero and Laguna on 24th Street, and ended on the front porch of Lucero's residence. When an ambulance and firemen arrived at the scene both men were still struggling on the front porch of Lucero's residence according to witnesses.

Deputies said they had yet to determine why the two men were fighting. Deputies said Laguna and Lucero had an argument earlier in the evening. Lucero returned home and then left again. A short time later several residents in the 24th Street and Center Avenue area head the fighting. Deputies said it appeared that a 10-inch bloody butcher knife found at the scene belonged to Laguna. Deputies believe that Laguna and Lucero began struggling and somehow Lucero got the knife away from Laguna and stabbed him several times.

Car, truck crash; both drivers okay

POMONA — A small sedan and a pickup truck ran off Phillips Boulevard together Tuesday night and crashed into an apartment building wall. Both drivers were unhurt.

The driver of the sedan, Kevin L. Wright, 19, of 1306 S. San Antonio Ave., later told police that the pickup driver had been banging into the rear of his car as both drove west in Phillips Boulevard. Pickup driver Ralph A. Deleon, also 19, of 4969 G St., Chino, said, however, that he lost control of his vehicle as he attempted to make a U-turn.

One wall of the building at 1068 E. Phillips Blvd. sustained cracks over an 8-foot area. Three 8-foot shrubs also were damaged.

Tuesday morning a motorcyclist fell with his bike after a motorist pulled in front of him in Mission Boulevard west of Westmont Avenue and drove away without stopping. Charles E. Blana, 27, 1463 W. Grand Ave., said he would see a doctor later, if necessary.

Police theorized that the motorist pulled in front of Blana from the General Dynamics Pomona parking lot, was blinded by the sun and drove away without knowing he had caused the victim to lose control of the motorcycle.

POMONA — Police Tuesday reported arresting three young men they found burglarizing National Electronics at 206 E. Mission Blvd.

Officers, answering a burglary alarm, said they found the one-story, television and stereo store and warehouse had been entered through a window. Nearby they reported finding Walter Wade Hammock Jr., 19, of 1577 Viscay Way, hiding under a parked car, and Lamont Wayne Visor, 18, of 2123 Mountain Ave., crouched on the floor of another car with a 17-year-old juvenile boy. All three were arrested.

Inside the car containing Visor, officers said they found two television sets and phonograph players. The three suspects were booked on suspicion of burglary.

Witnesses testify in Beaty trial

LOS ANGELES — Two prosecution witnesses testified Tuesday they met California Institution For Men escapee Ronald Wayne Beaty in the company of one of the two defendants on trial for murder in the Oct. 6, 1972, Chino prison case.

Sylvia B. Stead, Los Altos, and Laura Taulbee, Saratoga, testified to avoid jail sentences for contempt. They had refused earlier to answer questions about visits to their homes by Mrs. Jean Hobson, 46, and Beaty after he was freed in the ambush of two CIM prison guards.

Mrs. Stead said that early in October of 1972 the two arrived at her home "about eleven in the evening" and stayed overnight. She said Beaty was introduced as "Sam" and that two subsequent visits were made.

Mrs. Taulbee testified Beaty spent a week at her mountain cabin. She said Mrs. Hobson introduced him as "Chatto."

On trial with Mrs. Hobson is Robert Seabock, 22, accused of firing the shot that killed one of the guards, Jesus Sanchez, 24.

Bay Area players coming to Valley

POMONA — The American Conservatory Theater of San Francisco which is turning away playgoers in the Bay City is coming to Claremont this spring in a uinque on-campus program of professional theatrical productions, according to producer-director Paul Gregory in a talk before the Rotary Club on Tuesday.

Gregory said that ACT will stage two productions, "Taming of th Shrew," and "The Cherry Orchard" in the Garrison Theater starting May 20. He stated that there would be four performances of each play.

An organization known as the Southern California Friends of ACT is now being formed to provide financial support for the nonprofit theater group. Gregory said that the Friends group had already received an endowment of $20,000 from a couple of foundations and that the goal now is to enroll 200 people willing to pledge $100 each.

Gregory said that ACT chose to associate with the Claremont Colleges because it wanted to stay away from commercial theater organizations such as the Ahmanson Theater in Los Angeles.

ACT is receiving such raves in San Francisco that ticket reservations four to five months in advance of the performance are required, according to Gregory.

Guests at the Rotary meeting included four contestants in the Miss Pomona Valley Pageant, Debra Gutierrez, Judy Stallings, Lucianne Buchanan, and Linda Mattier.

They were introduced by Sheldon Wellins, executive director of the pageant, the finals of which will be held Friday at 8 p.m. in the Garrison Theater.

New ballet group forms

NEW YORK (UPI) — Choreographer Eliot Feld has formed a new ballet company, Eliot Feld Ballet, which will have its inaugural season in June at Joseph Papp's Public Theater complex on Lafayette Street.

It is the second time around for Feld, who founded a company in 1968 but gave it up in 1971 after creating 10 new ballets because of funding difficulties.

Chrysler told to recall '73 models

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) ordered Chrysler Corp. today to recall 825,000 1973 model passenger cars— about half of its total output—to correct a defect in the air pollution control system.

The action also affected 1,000 1974 model trucks, bringing the total recall to 826,000 vehicles.

In the first large scale recall ordered by the EPA, Administrator Russell E. Train said that "virtually all" the cars would emit nitrogen oxides "considerably above the federal emission standard."

The defect cited by the EPA is a temperature sensing device that activates an exhaust gas recirculation system designed to reduce nitrogen oxide emissions.

In a letter to Chrysler Vice President Sidney L. Terry, Train said that "it is my conclusion that sufficient data has been provided by the Chrysler Corp. to determine that within their useful life of 50,000 miles, virtually all vehicles equipped" with the defective sensing device "will emit nitrogen oxide considerably above" the Clean Air Act standards for auto emissions.

The recall covers all cars produced after March 15, 1973, or about 50 per cent of Chrysler's total 1973 production, the EPA said.

Chrysler recognized the problem in time to remove the defective sensing devices on 1974 cars, and on all but the 1,000 1974 model trucks.

Citizens to have say on S.D. area's future

SAN DIMAS — A special meeting will be held tonight at 7:30 at city hall to give residents in a 35-acre area south of Bonita Avenue an opportunity to tell the city what kind of development they want in the area in the future.

The area is bounded on the east by San Dimas Avenue, on the south by Arrow Highway, and on the west by Eucla Avenue. A total of 187 property owners have been invited to the meeting along with downtown businessmen who own shops on the south side of Bonita Avenue.

Planning Director Mark Goldberg said tonight's meeting will not be a discussion of the controversial San Dimas Elementary School which is located in the area, but will be a general discussion of what uses residents want in the total area.

Goldberg said the school which residents want torn down, is a "glaring but short-ranged problem that will be taken care of."

He said the area was set aside for furthr study in the general plan instead of giving one blanket zoning designation. The area is now what he defined as a "checker board zoning" with mixed use as residential, commercial and industrial.

"We don't at the present time know what the residents there want. Of course, some people will want for the area to remain residential," Goldberg said.

BILLY de WOLFE

Comic actor Billy de Wolfe dies; cancer

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Billy de Wolfe, vaudeville dancer turned dapper mustachioed comic actor in movies of the 1940s, died Tuesday at UCLA Medical Center.

Death was believed caused by lung cancer, a hospital spokesman said. He had been hospitalized since Feb. 26.

De Wolfe was believed to have been in his late 60s. He apparently went to some trouble to conceal his age, which is not listed in any of the standard reference works giving biographical details of celebrities.

However, one reference book, "The Filmgoer's Companion," lists his birth year as 1905.

De Wolfe was born Bill Jones in Walliston, Mass., and got his start in the entertainment business as a theater usher there. He joined the Jimmy O'Connor band as a dancer, and toured Europe with a dance team.

He appeared on the London stage in "Revels in Rhythm," and toured the United States and Canada as a comic.

His early movies included "Miss Suzy Flagle's,""Our Hearts Were Growing Up," "Perils of Pauline" and "Isn't It Romantic?"

He appeared in "Dear Ruth," "Dear Wife," and "Dear Brat," "Tea for Two," "Lullaby of Broadway" and "Call Me Madame."

Heart attack fatal at 85

Impressario Sol Hurok dies

SOL HUROK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Impresario Sol Hurok, America's "artistic ambassador," who introduced the Bolshoi Ballet to America and took pianist Van Cliburn to Russia, died of a heart attack Tuesday. He was 85.

Hurok, who never retired was stricken while in the office of banker David Rockefeller, a long-time friend. He was pronounced dead a short time later at a hospital. Earlier he had had lunch with Andres Segovia, the Spanish classical guitarist.

Hurok used to say, "So long as you dance and sing together, there is no bloodshed." He sent American performers on triumphal round-the-world tours and brought cultural talent from Europe and the Far East to the United States.

He presented more than 1,800 performers during his career. The list reads like a roster of the world's leading musicians, dancers and singers in the 20th Century: Anna Pavlova, Isadora Duncan, Marian Anderson, Arthur Rubinstein, Roberta Peters, Isaac Stern, Jan Peerce, Van Cliburn, Margot Fonteyn, and many others.

As a measure of his fame, he often took marquee billing over artists, with the legend "S. Hurok Presents."

His last big promotion was the return U.S. tour of soprano Maria Callas, who appeared in New York City Tuesday night.

Hurok was probably best known for his promotion of cultural exchanges between the United States and the Soviet Union, including the Bolshoi Ballet.

He gambled his own money on first bringing over the Bolshoi in 1959, but was the envy of the business and cultural worlds when he reaped a handsome profit from the effort. He defended such U.S.-Soviet cultural exchanges as "a silk thread that brings people and people together."

Hurok, a short, rotund, owlish-looking man, was born in the small town of Pogar in Czarist Russia. At the age of 15 he left for America, arriving in New York in May, 1906, with three rubles ($1.50) in his pocket.

He first worked bundling newspapers for the old Philadelphia Press. A reporter, Lincoln Martin, later a music critic, invited him and other boys home after work to listen to music.

"It was the first time I'd ever heard Wagner," recalled Hurok in a 1961 interview. "It was the beginning really of my period of listening to music."

Hurok later moved to New York, began attending the opera and arranged musical programs for labor clubs and worker's organizations. He broke into big-time promotion in 1913 when he rented the New York Hippodrome, since torn down, for a series of Sunday afternoon concerts called "Music for the Masses," at which well known performers appeared.

By the 1920's, he was managing famous artists, including Anna Pavlova, considered the greatest prima ballerina of her time, and dancer Isadora Duncan. In the following decade, he brought in more exotic imports, such as an Indian dancing troupe and an Italian puppet theater.

Among his triumphs during the 1930's were presenting the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo, which helped popularize ballet in New York, and bringing singer Marian Anderson, then unknown in the Uinted States, back from Paris.

His shows have also included the Kirov and Moiseyev ballets from the Soviet Union; the British Royal Ballet; the famed Old Vic theater company of London and the London Royal Ballet, and the Danish Royal Ballet.

Hurok, who lived on Manhattan's East Side, was twice married and separated from his second wife, Emma, and also is survived by a daughter, Ruth.

Income tax time again

By ERMA BOMBECK

A bachelor recently received six months' probation after pleading guilty to a federal charge that he falsely claimed ten dependent children on his federal income tax.

Listing his age as 20 probably wasn't the brightest cover-up in the world, but the kid showed some imagination and I like that.

More and more I have noticed that the average citizen is bucking the IRS. It isn't a mass mutiny, just a few isolated attempts at rebellion. Like the man who filled in his name and address and said the remainder of the questions was an invasion of privacy. (He was ordered to Missouri for psychiatric examination.) And the citizen who paid his taxes with 85 pounds of pennies. And on a smaller scale, the man who sends his return in every year with postage due.

"Boy," said my husband, "I'd like to have the guts to pull off something like that."

"Are you carzy?" I shouted. "Do you know what happens to people who get cute with their tax returns? They audit them and make them public."

"So, what have we got to hide?"

"Nothing, but if they made our tax return public, we'd be the laughing stock of this country."

"How do you figure that?"

"Do you want the world to know that we spent $7.61 last year on entertainment?"

"$7.61," he repeated numbly.

"That's right. Clifford Irving spent more on entertaining and he was serving time. And can you imagine the humiliation of people discovering we have only reduced our loan $126.30 in 12 months. And have earned $3.10 in interest on our savings?"

"That's unreal," he said.

"Not only that. Do you know what we had to list under major expenditures last year? A new toaster at $23.95."

"That bad," he mused.

"Look at these gifts to charity. Beside us, President Nixon looks like Santa Claus."

"Then were did the money go?" he asked.

"Bad habits."

"Like what?"

"Like feeding and clothing our exemptions."

My husband didn't say anything for a moment. Then he grabbed his jacket and headed for the door. "A guy two blocks over has a skull and crossbones with IRS in big black letters on it waving from his flagpole. I'm going over and salute it!"

I trembled as I embraced him. "Don't let anyone see you," I said.

French nuclear vows to Arabs called vague

By ALINE MOSBY

PARIS (UPI) — France's plans to sprinkle the Middle East with nuclear energy plants in exchange for oil appear to be mainly political fireworks, according to nuclear experts and diplomats.

The experts say the French government may have enhanced its domestic political position and come out as the new protectors of the Arabs, but probably could not export a nuclear energy plant for at least another five years.

Diplomats and the Paris press call France's go-it-alone agreements with Iran, Libya and Saudi Arabia "fuzzy" and vague.

France has promised to build five nuclear plants in Iran to produce electricity and an unspecified number in Libya to power sea-water distillation factories. It has pledged undisclosed technical aid which could involve nuclear energy in Saudi Arabia.

After the oil crisis hit, the French government launched a program to construct six or seven nuclear electricity plants in France each year in order not to be dependent on ordinary fuel to generate electricity.

Marcel Boiteuy, director of the government-owned electricity company, said they could not go into operation until between 1978 and 1982.

In addition, a group of European nations decided to build a joint uranium enriching plant in the Rhone valley of France. Boiteuy said it will be necessary to make at least four nuclear reactors just to feed this plant with electricity.

Experts at the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD), which guides the economies of 24 industrial nations, and other science experts said France's existing targets for domestic nuclear plants already stretched resources to the limit.

They said it was not clear how it could build for export to Iran and Libya. Such projects could onle be in the far future, they said.

OECD is preparing a report on the capacity of member countries to make nuclear energy plants. The unpublished report shows that Western Europe set a target of producing 40,000 megawatts in nuclear energy plants by 1975 and they are barely going to make 26,500.

The experts said Europe plans to reach 81,300 megawatts by 1980, meaning building 11 or 12 nuclear energy plants a year, "and Europe does not have the capacity to do that let alone France making plants to send to the Arab world."

France builds its nuclear plants from U.S. patents with most of the work done by Westinghouse and General Electric's French companies at an investment of about $250 million per plant.

Those for the Arab lands would cost more. France already is borrowing $500 million to finance its own plants.

The French press, too, has questioned whether France's scramble-for-oil deals are solid.

"The Libyan-French agreement really just reconizes the will of the two countries to reinforce economic relations," said Le Monde after that deal was signed Feb. 19.

The Libyan-French agreement did not mention any time, deliveries or price of the Libyan oil to be delivered to France. In return, Libya gave France a shopping list of all the things it would like to buy in France including a nuclear energy plant.

"But the actual hard sales French industries will get out of this probably will be very limited," is one diplomat's assessment.

"France can buy the oil, but at what price? and will the Arabs really spend their money in France—or buy from another country?"

Another diplomat's belief is that the oil deals "were made with one eye on the internal French political situation—the people think the government is doing something about getting oil. Also, it helps French foreign policy because France now looks like the new protectors of the Arabs, helping them industrialize."

Despite less driving

Right to hike car insurance rates okayed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Cost of Living Council has given the auto insurance industry permission to raise rates but ordered it to consider the fact that motorists are apparently driving less because of the fuel shortage.

Deputy director James W. McLane said highway deaths fell 23 per cent in January, an indication that motorists are driving slower and less frequently because of the shortage.

The council, in a two-page statement, also said a factor in its decision to end the moratorium on higher rates, begun Jan. 17, was evidence indicating auto insurance rates are actually lower when inflation is considered.

The National Association of Insurance Commissioners, in a task force report to the council, said auto insurance costs to policyholders have remained relatively stable. Insurance rates have increased, the task force said, because of "external costs such as those of medical and surgical treatment and automobile repairs."

Although ending the moratorium on increases, the council said it has written into Phase IV insurance regulations a requirement that any rate increase after March 4 must give "consideration to the effect of the energy situation on claim frequency."

The NAIC task force in its report to the council indicated that the reduced claims would not result in lower insurance rates. The claim reduction, however, would probably prevent any increases expected because of the higher cost of medical treatment and auto repairs.

Clergyman jailed in land embezzlement

NEWPORT NEWS, Va. (UPI) — The minister of an interdenominational church in Hampton has been arrested here on an Arizona warrant charging him with fraud and embezzlement in a multimillion dollar land sales operation, according to police.

The suspect was identified Monday as the Rev. James H. Cornwall, 38, minister of the Peninsula Rock Church and Proclaim Center. Cornwall had been in Virginia since September, 1973, when he took over the church.

He was one of eight persons indicted by a Phoenix, Ariz., grand jury Friday on charges of fraud and embezzlement and conspiracy. As many as 65 counts against Cornwall were returned by the grand jury, according to Lt. Glenn Sparks of the Phoenix Police Department.

Cornwall was listed as president of the Great Western Land and Cattle Co., which went out of business last year.

The indictments charged that lots were sold to more than one person and that cancelled contracts were sold to investors at discount prices.

Cordwall was arrested on Saturday and released on $15,000 bond pending a March 20 yearing on extradition.

The indictments charged that sales of the company totaled as much as $5 to $7 million. But Sparks said there was no way of knowing how much of the sales were fraudulent.

Two cements promise great bonding power

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Southwest Research Institute says two cements it has developed show great promise for use in the oil and road-building industries.

A cured hydrothermal cement achieves adhesive strength of more than 1,000 pounds per square inch when bonded to steel, and can resist exposure to temperatures up to 1,000 degrees Fahrenheit, the institute said.

The second cement is a fast-setting, non-shrinking mixture which allows traffic to be restored within one hour after it is used to fill a pot hole.

A-D League sees a new anti-Semitism

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith said today a new form of anti-Semitism is appearing in the world.

The conclusion was drawn in an ADL-sponsored report written by Arnold Foster, the League's associatie director and general counsel, and Benjamin R. Epstein, ADL's nativnal director.

"A clear potential for Nazi-like devastatiion does not exist in contemporary America," the ADL report said. It added that even in the Soviet Union, "perhaps the world's greatest purveyor of anti-Semitism today, the situation of the Soviet Jews, onerous as it is, is a far cry from the mass physical destruction of European Jewry in the thirties and forties."

But Forster and Epstein concluded that there is a new form of anti-Semitism, different from traditional in that it is not necessarily deliberate and is often "expressed by respected individuals and institltions here and abroad people who would be shocked to think themselves, or have others think them, anti-Semites."

The study cited these examples in the United States of what it called a new "insensitivity" to Jews and Jewish concerns: A piece in the Christian Science Monitor which the ADL report saw as a defense of the Arab stand during the October war; columns by syndicated writers Rowland Evans and Robert Novak, which it said were "consistently hostile" to Israel, and a sermon by Washington National (Episcopal) Catherdral Dean Francis Sayre labeling Israelis as "oppressors."

The report cited for "hostility and insensitivity" to Jewish concerns, the American Friends Service Committee, for its report "Search of Peace in the Middle East;" Rev. Daniel Berrigan, for a speech before an Arab group in which he denounced Israeli policies; a Department of Health Education and Welfare grant to the African-American Teachers Association, Brooklyn, N.Y.; and Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., for suggesting Israelis control Mideast policy in Congress.

Fish hooked on love for college coed

SHAWNEE, Okla. (UPI) — Oscar, a 1 ¼-inch long blue-green Siamese Fighting Fish, has fallen in love with a freshman coed at St. Gregory's College, Karol Kluge.

Miss Kluge said she feels honored, but was a little confused.

Whenever she enters the room, he swims as near to her as he can, waves his tail and swims back and forth when Karol calls his name. He is not a fickle fish. The Rev. Victor Roberts, a faculty member and Oscar's owner and provider, said the fish reacts with no enthusiasm to him.

"I guess he recognizes her and likes her," Roberts said.

He said Karol feeds Oscar, which could explain part of the attraction, but he and other students also feed him and they just get fishy glances.

Father Roberts said he brought Oscar's terrarium fishbowl to his office after the Christmas vacation. Karol began feeding the fish daily and a few weeks ago Father Roberts suggested she call the fish.

She did and Oscar's romance began.

Karol has tried hiding behind a door and calling him. Apparently he recognizes her voice because he still responds.

"We're still trying to figure it out," Karol said.

Met will hold final auditions

NEW YORK (UPI) — The annual Metropolitan Opera National Council's final auditions will be held at the opera house on March 24 with nine young singers chosen through regional auditions competing.

The winners will be heard in concert March 28 at noon at St. Thomas Church with the church choir and organ.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

"Hilter's Secret Conversations" (1953) alleges Hilter said: "The organization of our press has truly been a success. Our law concerning the press is such that divergencies of opinion between members of the government are no longer an occasion for public exhibitions, which are not the newspapers' business. We've eliminated that conception of political freedom which holds that everybody has the right to say whatever comes into his head."

No bonus for first trick

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Even with inflation and high interest rates it doesn't mean that you should rush to win tricks. There is no bonus for taking the first trick.

If East plays third hand high he can win the first trick and the second trick also but after that he will sit helplessly while South romps off with his contract.

If he Analyzes the lead he can he sure that his partner has led a singleton or the top of a doubleton. In the first case failure to win that first trick may mean that East won't take any tricks at all. In the second case a duck may lead to eventual defeat of the contract.

East shouldn't really play low. He should carefully put his nine of spades on his partner's eight to show strength in the suit he has bid.

South will win that first trick and probably cash all dummy's diamonds. Then if he tries the club finesse and if West has remembered to hang on to his five of spades, South will be down two.

If South has seen the handwriting on the wall he will cash his ace of clubs and get out for down one.

This last difference is relatively unimportant. The important thing is that East's third hand low play has resulted in deafeat of the contract.

Dixie belle has crush on 2 boys

By JEAN ADAMS

WHICH? (Q.) Is it possible to be in love with two boys at the same time? I am sure I love Robert very much. I may not live Clint that much, but each time I have a date with him I like him more.

I have known Clint four years but just started liking him a few months ago. I have been liking Robert more than a year.

Robert is the one I go out with most, but I have been having dates with Clint too. — 17 in South Carolina.

(A.) Yes, it is possible to love two people at once. But I think your feelings for Robert and Clint are not final, lifelong love.

You have plenty of time to make up your mind which of them is the right one or even to decide that it is some other boy.

Do not hurry yourself. Enjoy being with each boy when you are with him and let time help you find your way.

U.S. will fly out bodies of 12 pilots missing in war

SAIGON (UPI) — The remains of 12 U.S. servicemen who died in Hanoi prison camps will be returned to their families this week, a spokesman for the North Vietnamese delegation in Saigon said today.

"We hope this is a first step in accounting for all missing in action in North Vietman and repatriation of all remains," an American spokesman said.

Official figures show 1,060 American military personnel reported missing in Indochina. Most or all are presumed dead during the decade of war which saw more than 500,000 American troops fighting Communist troops and guerilla elements in Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos.

The official said there were 430 Americans missing in North Vietnam, about 300 in Laos and another 360 in Viet Cong controlled areas in South Vietnam.

A spokesman for the North Vietnamese delegation to the Saigon-based Joint Military Team (JMT) said members of the team—Americans, North and South Vietnamese and Viet Cong — would be invited "to witness the return and the reception of the above mentioned remains."

The remains of the 12 pilots who died in the so-called "Hanoi Hilton" will be flown out of Gia Lam airport, near Hanoi, Wednesday in a huge C130 cargo aircraft directly to the U.S. Central Identification Laboratory at Samaesan, Thailand. The Pentagon presumably will release the names after next of kin are notified.

The plane will carry 14 American members from the Thailand-based Joint Casualty Resolution Center (JCRC) and will be led by Brig. Gen. Joseph Ulatosky.

A second C130 plane will fly from Saigon to Hanoi with 16 representatives of the JMT.

Both the JMT and the JCRC are an outgrowth of the Paris peace agreement responsible for the accounting of the dead and missing in action in the Indochina war.

The permission to retrieve the 12 remains was the first since the Jan. 28, 1973, cease-fire agreement. North Vietnam considered it a "good will and humanitarian policy."

North Vietnam returned all American POWS detained in North Vietnam by March 28, 1973, but balked on the issue of the dead and missing in action.

The battlefield around Saigon heated up Sunday with government troops suffering heavy casualties, the Saigon military command said Monday.

A command communique admitted 25 government troops were killed and another 67 were wounded in two clashes 26 miles north and 59 miles southwest of Saigon. The clashes involved battalion size troops on both sides.

The northern clash took place at sunset Sunday near Lai Khe district town. Communist troops retretreated leaving behind 18 dead after inflicting fatal casualties to 17 government troops and wounding 38, the command said.

The second happened close to Kien Van district town with 14 government troops killed and 29 wounded. Seven Communists were killed, the command said.

The command said Communist gunners unleashed another barrage of 126 ournds of 82mm mortars into the besieged camp of Ton Le Chan, 60 miles north of Saigon. The camp is defended by a government range battalion but the shelling caused no casualties.

Communist gunners also shelled another ranger position in An Loc city, 65 miles north of Saigon and seven miles east of Tong Le Chan. Communists fired 32 rounds of mixed artillery and mortar fire, killing two and wounding 13 rangers. Government troops returned fire and killed five, the command said.

Electric trucks tested by U.S. Postal Service

CUPERTINO, Calif. (UPI) — The U. S. Postal Service Monday sent its first fleet of electric trucks out delivering the mail in this suburban city south of San Francisco.

Thirty all-electric trucks began experimental service on routes ranging up to 15 miles.

They are expected to save 23,000 gallons of gasoline annually and run at a cost of .025 cents per mile in electricity.

Morales is first elected L.V. mayor

LA VERNE — Mike M. Morales, 49, who has served as mayor for the past two years at the discretion of the City Council, became the first elected mayor of La Verne today.

Riding the crest of a strong vote from the Mexican-American community and Hillcrest Homes, Morales defeated Harrison Sanborn 1,710 to 1,212. A third candidate, Mrs. Danita Peterson, received 156 votes.

Morales said his victory was a "response from the people that I did a good job during the past two years. I'm grateful for their approval, and pledge to continue to do my best for La Verne."

Also elected to council posts were incumbent Frank Johnson, for his fourth term, and D. Allen Mackay who had run for a council seat unsuccessfully four years ago.

Johnson received 2,009 votes, to Mackay's 1,923. Mrs. Carlina Griffiths polled 1,263 ballots.

The ovte was heavier than the 35 per cent expected. Of the 7,259 eligible voters, 3,140 cast ballots for a turnout of more than 42 per cent.

Morales, a production coordinator for Lockheed Electronics in Azusa, appeared stongest in Precinct 7, the Mexican-American community, where he drew 270 votes compared with Sanborn's 70, and in Precinct 10, the Hillcrest Home, a Church of the Brehtren retirement community, where he was given 207 votes, compared with 32 for Sanborn.

Sanborn's strength came from Precinct 8, the Foxglen area, and 9, La Verne Heights.

The vote will be certified and the new city officials will be seated next Tuesday night.

City Manager George Caswell said he interpreted Tuesday's vote here as a mandate for no deviation from the present philosophy of city government.

"I think the people are saying 'We like La Verne just the way it is' ", he explained. "They don't want any basic changes."

Two incumbents returned to Walnut council

WALNUT — Voters returned two incumbents to posts on the City Council here Tuesday and approved a $5 million bond issue for the Walnut School District.

Mayor Richard Laughter and Councilman William Wentworth rolled up sizeable vote counts in defeating challengers Jack Ayers and William Daley. both the victors are returning for their second 4-year terms on the council.

Tallies for the bond issue, which required a two-thirds margin for success, were overwhelmingly in favor in precincts outside the city limits but only a tiny fraction above the magic 66 per cent inside the city.

Of 1,414 ballots cast in the council race, Laughter won 810, Wentworth 748, Ayers 501, and Daley 600. The battle had been a low-key conflict over city growth patterns and recreational facilities until this past weekend when flyers endorsed by Councilmen William Cotten and Robert Lovemark appeared on the streets backing Ayers and Daley. Counter-charges by Laughter and Wentworth were quickly circulated in the suddenly-escalated race.

In five precincts outside the city, voters cast 928 ballots in favor of the bond issue and 173 against. City voters were much closer, marking 895 "yes" ballots against 459 "no" for a percentage of 66.10. The overall tally of 1823 "yes" to 632 "no" gave the bonds a 74.25 margin.

With the funds, the district will finance a five-year construction program to provide more classroom space for an expanding student population.

Compulsive act calls for professional help

While I was looking at some ashtrays in a Pomona Valley department store, a man of about 19 or 20 got down on all fours, took hold of my leg and kissed the top of my foot. The police call this a battery or unlawful touching.

I yelled for someone to stop him. No one called the security guards although there were two at the front door. One boy did go to the door that the man left by but by this time the man had run away.

The store manager was called. He said he was sorry but seemed very unconcerned, telling me that the store had no jurisdiction in matters such as this.

I wanted the police called. The manager was paged three more times and never answered his call. I felt quite helpless and upset.

A telephone was right in front of me. I said I would use it and call the police. The boy who supposedly was handling the situation walked into the office and came out saying that I would have to use my own dime in the pay phone at the rear of the store.

As I left, I talked to the security guards. They agreed that they should have been called but also said that things happen like this. It was mentioned that a week before some man had dropped his pants in front of the store!

I did call the police from the place where I work. Had the police been called right away the chances of catching this man would have been good.

When store personnel won't even let people use their phone during such an incident, I feel that it is an invitation for people like this man to come to the store. —P.N., Pomona.

You told us that you had filed a complaint with the police.

We asked Chief Forest P. Wallick about the potential hazard to the community of a person who commits acts such as the one you described.

He said his staff is not qualified professionally to comment and suggested we direct the question to the Pomona Valley Health Center.

Carolos Martinez, psychiatric social worker at the center, said that whether the man is potentially dangerous would be hard to determine without knowing all the details.

He had some advice for any victim of a similar incident. He said the victim should be willing to file a complaint and give a full description of the offender, as you did.

If police were able to apprehend the offender, he could be referred to Pomona Valley Health Center so that his condition could be evaluated.

He also had advice for the person with a compulsion to commit an act like the one you described: Seek professional help.

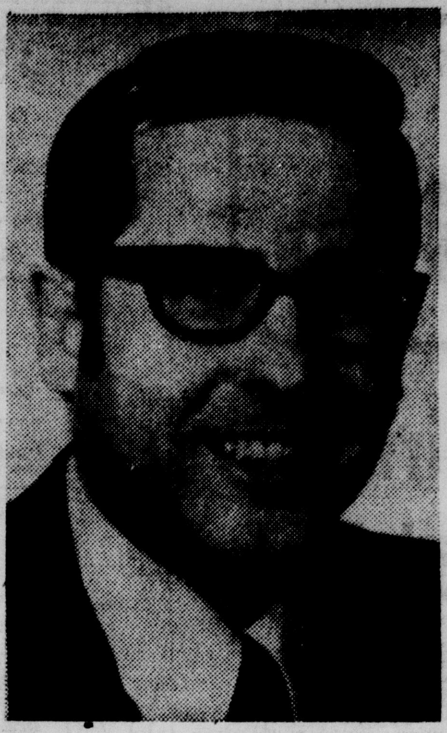
The registration is being conducted from 5 to 8 p.m. in the administration building for classes which begin April 1.

Interested persons should bring copies of transcripts of prior college or high school work when they come to register.



JAMES LOUGH

MARVIN ERSHER

Via Verde resident S.D. voting leader

SAN DIMAS — Voters here returned James Lough to a second 4-year term and elected Marvin Ersher of Via Verde and downtown businessman James McLean to the two other vacant seats on the City Council.

The voters turned incumbent Loyd Salisbury out of office after two terms on the council.

Voter breakdown is Ersher, 1,116; McLean, 1,088; Lough, 1,081; Julian Lobosky, 833; Salisbury, 767; Terry Dipple, 760; and Howard F. Adams, 284.

City Clerk Barbara Henderson said only 31.6 per cent of the 7,107 registered voters in the city cast votes. Voting was heaviest in the Via Verde precincts where 65 per cent of the registered voters there turned out at the polls.

Ersher, a West Covina physician, is the first council representative from the Via Verde area. "We called at every home and knocked at every door up until 6:59 p.m.," said the election's top vote-getter about the area's heavy turnout.

Ersher said he was delighted with the way the election went and said it had been a "good campaign."

Lough commented on the closeness of the voting and said two late issues in the campaign, the Lone Hill Park controversy over construction of a Little League ballfield there and the demolition of San Dimas Elementary School, hurt voting for the incumbents. He said the light turnout also didn't help.

McLean said he is a "happy man" and will do all he can to improve communications between the city and citizens as he promised in his campaign.

The winning candidates and their supporters all gathered at the McLean campaign headquarters in downtown San Dimas to celebrate Tuesday night.

No-surprise election in Claremont returns 3 incumbents for new terms

CLAREMONT — The three incumbents in the City Council race retained their seats for another four-year term Tuesday in a rather dull campaign which attracted only 26 per cent of the community's voters.

Gene Block easily outdistanced the field to garner the top number of votes — 2,598 to fellow councilmen Claire McDonald's 2,403 and 2,345 votes for Mayor Bertye Smith.

A strong showing was registered for political newcomer Douglas A. Scott who gained 1,654 votes in his first attempt for public office. Pitzer College student Lawrence Little received 577 in unofficial returns.

Block said he was surprised to be top vote-getter, and was very pleased with the results. He remarked that he didn't have too much money for his reelection campaign, but had "a lot of manpower."

"I hope the next four years go as smoothly as the last four," the victorious Block said.

There was a happy, but relieved mood at the McDonald home at midnight after the last precinct had reported into city hall. Mrs. McDonald called the election race "a lot of hard work, but I received heartening support."

"I hope Claremont can go ahead in the next four years while maintaining its leadership in environmental concerns and regional cooperation," she commented.

Mayor Smith who is at the mayor's conference in Washington, D.C. by telephone said that "I'm glad the incumbents won. Claremont's citizens want to see a continuation of the government they've had."

Mrs. Smith noted that it was 2:45 a.m. in the nation's capital, and "I couldn't sleep until I heard the results."

Group to discuss flags for streets

POMONA — The Avenue of the Flags Committee will meet Thursday to further discuss plans for flying American flags on Mission Boulevard, Holt and Garey avenues on holidays.

The meeting will be held in the City Council Chambers and will start at 7:30 p.m. Persons interested in the project are invited to attend.

Further information may be obtained by calling Fred Klein at 985-5005.

MARGARET GIBBS

Margaret Gibbs easy winner

CLAREMONT — Mrs. Margaret Gibbs, a former councilwoman and civic leader, garnered over 66 per cent of the votes to win a seat on the governing board of Citrus Community College.

In extremely light voting, Mrs. Gibbs received 2,227 votes, overwhelmingly outdistancing four other candidates for the one-year unexpired term of Ralph Lewis, who moved out of the district.

The final vote count for the other candidates was Paul Leos, 301; John A. Munger, 191; John E. Murphy, 230; and Ted C. Trzyna, 414.

A total of 3,611 votes was cast in the election, or slightly less than 25 per cent of the district's 13,146 registered voters.

EDITORIAL Opinion

School opening to learning-disabled

According to the U.S. Office of Education, more than 4.5 million school-age children suffer from some form of handicap that affects their capacity to use or understand language.

These handicaps range from minor learning disabilities to aphasia, the impairment or loss of language faculties, and dyslexia, the impairment of the ability to read due to brain defects.

"Without the ability to grasp the basic tools of language, a child's future academic success — and social development — will almost invariably be seriously jeopardized," points out George Stern, president of Monterey Learning Systems, one of the nation's pioneers in special education programs for learning-disabled.

Yet up to only a few years ago, such children were expelled or virtually excluded from public schools. Their education was considered a privilege rather than a right, and the responsibility of their parents rather than of society.

Then in 1970, efforts to integrate learning-disabled and handicapped children into the mainstream of public education reached a climax when parents in Pennsylvania took legal action. They actually sued the state to provide educational services — within the public school system — for their children, regardless of the severity of their handicaps.

In a landmark federal-district court decision, a consent decree was issued which mandated Pennsylvania to provide special education programs and services for handicapped children. This mandate — and more significantly, Pennsylvania's response to it — has set a precedent that is being followed in school districts across the country.

The Pennyslvania project is the largest educational program for learning-disabled children in the nation. It was developed by Monterey Learning Systems through research conducted by the Behavioral Sciences Institute, a nonprofit educational research and therapy organization. More than 29 school districts covering the entire state and more than 1,000 speech and hearing personnel are involved in the project.

Parents in other states are following the example of their counterparts in Pennsylvania. As a result, at least a dozen similar consent decrees have been issued by federal courts across the country and educators in some 30 states have chosen to integrate Monterey's program into their public school systems.

Consideration for cash customers

Strange to relate in this day of the ubiquitous credit card, some people still prefer to use cash in their everyday business transactions. Peculiar as this habit may be, they should not be penalized for it, contends at least one consumer group.

Or to put it another way, merchants who accept credit cards should be allowed to give discounts to cash customers.

This is the brunt of a suit that has been filed in U.S. District Court in Washington, D.C., by Consumers Union. The organization wants the court to outlaw provisions in credit card contracts that bar merchants from offering such cash discounts.

The suit argues that merchants honoring the cards must absorb what amounts to a service charge of from 2 to 8 per cent of the sales price — which, of course, is tacked onto the sales price — and that they should be permitted to offer an equivalent cash discount to customers who pay cash and thus save them the service charge.

If the suit is successful, that green stuff we used to carry in our pockets could become fashionable again.

Constitution stands

The federal constitution has for some time now been the talk of the town. And the state. And the nation.

There are those who want to ease its restrictions; those who want to add more. There are accusations that President Nixon has been usurping power not granted him by the basic law; and those who charge the judiciary with going beyond its ordained limits to the extent of encroaching upon the legislative prerogatives.

Its provisions for impeachment are being hotly debated and interpretations of "high crimes and misdemeanors" range the full spectrum.

The Constitution still stands, however. And its 185 years of existence, which it will achieve on the March anniversary of its going into effect, are an indication of its flexible strength, not of senility. Despite abuse, despite chippings away at its fundamental guarantees, it still stands as a monolithic symbol of a governmental process built upon the high principle of the sacredness of those unalienable rights of all mankind . . . life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

THE LINES ARE GETTING SHORTER.

JACK ANDERSON

Behind the Nixon-press feud

WASHINGTON — The hate affair between President Nixon and elements of the press is poisoning the flow of information to the American people.

Presidential press conferences deteriorated last year into shouting matches. The efforts to control tempers at the latest give-and-take last week scarcely concealed the underlying hostility.

Yet 80 per cent of the nation's newspapers endorsed Nixon for President in 1968 and an overwhelming 92 per cent supported his re-election in 1973. Why has the relationship gone sour?

Richard Nixon came to power with the conviction that he had gotten there by circumverting the working press and could govern successfully only so long as he continued to do so.

Reporters were to be given comfortable accommodations, fed with daily trivialities and occupied with diversions. But they were to be kept away from the news.

The Nixon presidency drew a curtain of secrecy between its internal operations and the outside world unprecedented in the memory of Washington observers. The President did not want the acts and policies of his Administration to reach the people through what he considered the distorting prism of the press. What he wanted known, he would communicate directly via television talks or other tightly controlled mechanisms.

Not only was the press distrusted. The Millions who composed the permanent government were suspect, too. The highest military officers were denied the kind of critical information it was previously considered essential they have.

Even the President's own appointees, the top few thousand in government, were given minimal initiative and not trusted with sensitive information in their areas. This denigration of the regular institutions of government was, in part, aimed at the press. What officials did not know they could not leak.

Deep suspicion and a sense of lifelong grievance — all too often confirmed — were accompanied in President Nixon by a desire for solitude and a craving for an orderly environment undisturbed by trivial interruptions or internecine discord.

In the past, he made mistakes and lost elections by trying tto direct everything personally. He was determined never again to spread himself too thin.

He would encapsulate himself from unnecessary turmoil, dealing regularly only with those select few who had learned not only to resolve conflicts but to modulate their personalities so as not to jar his sensitive vibrations.

And so he came to act through other men who aped him and tended, in the way of young men, to out-Nixon Nixon.

The trouble with all this was that a seething enterprise like America cannot be compartmentalized, cordoned off and led from a glass bubble. Bureaucrats who are denied trust will become untrustworthy. Officers who are sealed off from information they need will find ways to acquire it.

Subordinates blocked from access to the President will grow uneasy and begin to connive at office politics. Suspicion and hostility at the top will at length permeate an organization with apprehension, jealousies and moral rot.

It could not work for a more important reason. There is a fundamental conflict between uniformity and diversity, between politician and press, that is built into the American character and system.

It is the mission of the press to give the people an alternative to the official version of things, a rival account of reality, a measure by which to judge the efficacy of rulers and whether the truth is in them, an unauthorized stimulus to action or resistance.

Long before Americans could vote directly, in effect, for their presidents or their senators, before the vote was given to the poor, to women, to blacks, the role of the village editors and dissenting pamphleteer — as monitor, arbiter, critic and rival of the politician — was imbedded as a fundamental of the American system.

From its primitive state when any wanderer, if he was cantankerous enough, might set up his press and begin to assail his townsmen, the press as an institution has evolved through alternating chapters of disgrace and sublimity, of prostitution and martydom, of somnolence and vigilance, taking form in a thousand press rooms, in billions of miles of teletype tape, in the numberless newsrooms nf radio and television, gradually assuming the role and shape that confronted Richard Nixon as he sought and finally won the presidency.

He came to think he could stand against or outside of that historical process. He thought he could play to the friendly press and put the hostile press in a bottle. For a while, it seemed to be working — on the surface.

THE LIGHTER SIDE

Energy-saving products not new

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government has compiled yet another list of ways to save energy at home.

Recommendations include washing dishes by hand, rather than automatic dishwasher, and using wind-up clocks instead of the plug-in type.

I don't doubt these measures would conserve a great deal of energy. But the list doesn't begin to cover all the things that might be done around the house to cut back consumption of electricity.

Just the other day I was looking over some of the energy-saving products being developed by The Future Is Yesterday Foundation, a privately endowed research center and "think tank."

Sam Harkenback, the executive director, showed me a marvelous invention that provides hot lather for shaving without using any current.

It is called a "shaving mug."

Wonderously simply, the device consists of a container that looks like a coffee mug. At the bottom is a circular cake of soap.

"I don't see the switch," I said. "Where do you turn it on?"

"That's the beauty of it —you don't have to turn it on," Harkenback replied. "You turn on the hot water spigot instead. Wet the soap with a small amount of hot water, work up a lather and spread it on your face.

"Bingo! Your whiskers are ready for shaving without a single kilowatt."

I said, "Where's the aerosol valve that spurts the creamy, foaming lather into your hand?"

"It doesn't have one," Harkenback cried triumphantly. "You spread the lather with a brush."

Well, it may take awhile for anything that radical to catch on. But you'll have to admit it's ingenious.

Harkenback also showed me something, still in the experimental stage, that could be a substitute for electric clocks.

"The government wants us to use hand-wound clocks," he said, "but there is one big drawback. Most of us need an alarm clock in our bedrooms, and a lot of hand-wound alarm clocks tick so loudly they keep you awake."

So saying, he led me into a dark room, walked to the window and raised the blind, letting the sunlight stream in.

Almost immediately in one corner of the room there was a rustling of feathers followed by a loud "cock-a-doodle-doo."

"I can't reveal the details because it isn't perfected yet," Harkenback said, "but how would you like to be awakened in the mornings by a noise like that?

This could be the breakthrough the Federal Energy Office has been waiting for.

Remembers Spokane falls

The story in last Saturday's P-B quoting the president of the Washington Water Power Co. as stating that there is enough potential energy in the world's ocean to keep mankind going forever interested me because I was born in Spokane.

I remember the Spokane falls and the Washgton Water Power Co. that supplied Spokane with electric power.

We have dams built in the San Dimas Canyon as well as others. A power plant could be built there. If falls are necessary an artificial falls could be built with a huge pump, pumping the water up and over the falls continuously day and night.

Spokane's Expo '74 scheduled to open in May is just east of the Washington Water Power plant. What will happen, however, to Expo '74 if there's still a gasoline shortage? Maybe they'll get their $1 a gallon by then and then we'll have plenty again. True? —Mrs. Ralph E. Lunneborg, Pomona.

Pay raise averted

You probably know that a Congressional pay raise was averted by Senate action last week. Under existing law, such raises take effect automatically unless prevented by action of either House of Congress.

Salary increases are always welcome but when they feed inflationary pressure they often must be foregone. It is also incumbent on those who have the power to effect their own pay raise to refrain from abusing that power. It is especially important in times of rising prices.

I believe every Congressman must be fully accountable for each benefit he gives himself, and I will continue to work toward making sure he is. — Victor V. Veysey, Member of Congress.

In spite of the best efforts of our birth control experts, world population has increased from 800 million to 3.6 billion in less than two centuries.

U.S. faces costly metric conversion

By RICK GOTCHER
P-B Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Proponents have the U.S poised to take the plunge into the metric system. It could prove to be a costly dip.

According to a study by the General Accounting Office, national conversion to the metric system will cost $45 billion to $100 billion. What GAO does not say is that bill will be passed on to an already overburdened consumer.

The metric system is lauded as the key to improving America's export trade. Other countries, we are told, hold an edge because their shipping clerks and dock workers are able to sort and deliver by meter, liter and decameter, a system they have grown up with.

GAO says conversion to the metric system would make U.S exports even more costly and "place these products at even more of a competitive disadvantage vis-a-vis the products of foreign firms that are already metric."

There are some other little known facts about the metric everyone should be aware of, before mass confusion sets in.

All retail gasoline pumps in the nation would have to be recalibrated or replaced. Think about that while you wait in line for your turn to "fill 'er up."

An estimated 60 per cent of the population does not know the first thing about the metric. Less than 20 per cent know the correct relationship between standard units and the metric.

Metric bathtubs would not fit standard drains and bathtubs of current vintage would not fit metric drains. This would force suppliers to keep costly dual inventories.

All municipal building codes and regulations would have to be changed.

Temperature measuring devices, including thermometers and thermostats would be changed. Is 37.5 degrees good or bad for a person with a cold? Simply multiply by nine, divide by 5, add 32 and find out.

Road signs and maps would have to be changed. And unless all vehicle speedometer and odometers are changed also, the signs and maps will be virtually useless.

Deeds and property descriptions in legal documents would become obsolete. Standard identifying terms like acres and feet would become hectares and meters.

And how would O.J. Simpson's assault on the ground graining records last year read under the metric? Indecipherably.

It is a certain amount of obstinance that keeps most people from adapting to change. It has been proven that children can be taught the metric as easily as the standard as part of their school studies.

However, people involved in the everyday struggle of earning a living find it more difficult to change a lifelong line of thought. The psychology of the metric system could seriously disrupt familiar points of reference for individuals.

Some figures, at least, indicate there is no worldwide inclination to use the metric. The world's capital investment in traditional units-feet, pounds, etc.—has exceeded investment in metric units over the past several years. This shows a faster growth rate for the use of standard units.

Congress will take up the metric system bill soon. Very careful study should be given to the priority level it will be given.

Incumbents win in Chino voting

CHINO — Incumbents Angel Martinez and Leonard Frketich and planning commissioner Eileen Carter were swept into three council seats Tuesday in a light, 25 per cent voter turnout.

Martinez ran a strong first with 953 votes and Mrs. Carter came in second with 893 supporters. Frketich narrowly edged out challenger Nick Medina with 697 votes, falling off somewhat from his high percentage of votes in Mexican-American areas in 1970. Medina received a total of 576 votes, with 131 from the precinct at Gird Elementary School which has a large number of Spanish-surname voters.

The tally showed challengers Robert Bertschinger getting 565 votes and Joseph Lunetto, 125.

The winners are all former members of the planning commission. Counting councilman Ed Lynch, the new council will include a quartet of planming commissioners who served together for several years.

Mrs. Carter, in her victorious first bid for elected office, said:

"I never thought I'd be speechless. I hope to serve well those who put their faith in me with their votes."

Martinez stated:

"I'm very happy with Chino citizens and that they're happy with my performance. I'll keep it up and try to do better. I know I've made mistakes. The person who doesn't make mistakes isn't doing anything."

Frketich stated: "I'm glad 697 thought I'd done a good job the last four years. I feel that I've voted for and gone along with what's good for the people. I now will have the enjoyment of continuing to deal with a working council for the benefit of the community."

The turnout in the 1974 campaign was a meager 25 per cent, with response lowest in precinct 1 in northeast Chino at the Magnolia Junior High School poll. Only 109 persons, or 14 per cent of the 737 registered voters for that precinct, came to the poll.

Precinct five at Gird Elementary School, drawing largely from the Barrio area nearby, represented the highest voter participation with 41 per cent, of 198, of the total 483 voters casting ballots.

In the 1972 campaign for a council seat and the mayor's position, there was a voter turnout of about 49 per cent, according to Chris Wilson, city clerk.

Mrs. Carter, Martinez and Frketich will be sworn into office by Mrs. Wilson during a special adjourned meeting of the council on Tuesday night at 7:30.

Woman is elected to Upland council

UPLAND — Mrs. Ina Petokas, the only challenger against a field of three incumbents, scored an upset victory Tuesday to become the second woman ever to win a seat on the City Council.

Mrs. Petokas, with no prior governmental experience, beat out incumbent Councilman A. M. Hawkins Jr. by 138 votes to join incumbents Harold Bailin and John E. McCarthy on the council for the next four years.

While the tallies seesawed back and forth between Hawkins and Mrs. Petokas early in the voting counting, final results from several larger precincts in the northern part of the city gave Mrs. Petokas the final edge with 2,809 against Hawkins' 2,671 votes.

In the final totals Bailin placed second with 2,968 votes, while McCarthy led the field with 3,540 votes.

Commenting on her victory, which surprised many observers, Mrs. Petokas simply said, "Everybody did all the work and helped. I couldn't have done it without them."

Bcth Bailin and McCarthy were appreciative of the confidence voters expressed in them and looked forward to working with Mrs. Petokas.

Two revenue measures on the ballot passed by nearly 2 to 1 margins. The $44,000 police retirement plan which will result in a 5.5-cent increase in the general tax rate was approved 2,960 to 1,502. The $2.5 million water bond measure which will help finance two new 10 million gallon storage tanks was approved 2,966 to 1,407.

A total of 4,567 votes was cast in the election. This represents 29.37 per cent of the city's 15.548 registered voters and was one of the lighest turnouts ever recorded.

Montclair incumbent loses to challenger

By ED PRATHER
P-B Staff Writer

MONTCLAIR — Despite a low voter tournout, City Council candidate Nelson Gentry was able to unseat incumbent Leonard Soper in Tuesday's municipal election and finished only four votes behind incumbent Ernest Rowley, who was elected to the council for a third term.

Also re-elected was Mayor Harold Hayes, who was running unopposed.

The final vote count for the four council candidates was 832 for Rowley, 828 for Gentry, 807 for Soper, and 383 for John Randall III. Hayes' total was 1,305.

From the outset, Rowley lead in the count with Gentry and Soper trailing by a narrow margin.

All the candidates expressed disappointment over the election turnout. Unofficial figures indicated that only 20 per cent of the city's registered voters went to the polls.

"I think the low turnout hurt me and I think it hurt Councilman Soper," said Rowley. "I'm surprised more people didn't vote even though there weren't any issues at stake."

Gentry disagreed with that assessment, claiming that the low turnout hurt all the candidates.

"When a candidate is elected he wants to have a majority behind him. With these results there's no clear indication what the people want," he said.

The election was Gentry's second try for the council, he finished fourth among seven candidates two years ago.

PAUL A. TREADWAY

Snider defeated by Treadway for Ontario mayor

ONTARIO — Less than 40 per cent of Ontario's registered voters cast ballots Tuesday in an election in which Councilman Paul A. Treadway upset Mayor Howard Snider who was seeking his third consecutive four-year term as mayor.

Treadway, a teacher in Ontario, was elected to the council in 1972. He resides at 860 N. San Antonio Ave.

In the race for the council seat vacated by Walter E. Stewart, Robert K. Abel of 415 E. Hawthorne St., defeated six other candidates. Abel is a businessman. Stewart did not run for reelection.

Treadway led in the voting throughout the tabulation Tuesday night. He received 4,810 votes to Snider's 4,286.

In the council race, candidates received the following votes: Abel, 3,735; Arnold D. Anderson, a realtor, 1,867; Emery Brewer, a San Bernardino County social worker, 321; John Hahn, a janitor, 494; Anthony Rizzo, a construction forman, 1,356; Hugh W. West, a retired school administrator, 855; and William R. Winters, a manager of materials, 256.

Measures seeking to make the office of city clerk and city treasurer appointive failed, and a measure to authorize the sale of $1,800,000 in water district bonds passed.

Gas dealer halts all appointments

CLAREMONT — Due to what he termed "overexposure," a Claremont service station operator has been forced to abandon a program of selling gas by appointment only.

"The phone's been ringing off the hook here and at my home," said Ladd Roberts, operator of Shell station at Bonita Avenue and Indian Hill Boulevard. "If I handled everyone wanting appointments, I'd been booked until Christmas or New Year's.

Roberts said a story in Sunday's Progress-Bulletin about the new plan was a factor in the "overexposure." Since then Roberts has been "swamped with calls."

Roberts said he will handle appointments already made, through March 11, but he is making no new ones as of today.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — "The market remains locked in a trading range that has now lasted for three months," according to Standard & Poor's Corp. The firm says the market has exhibited a tendency to retreat from the upper limit of the range despite the fact it already has discounted an economic slowdown and the energy crisis. "The bulk of funds should be kept on hand against the possibility that the list may back down again, affording better buying opportunities," it adds.

The market is moving toward a "spring thaw" as America comes out of "its long winter of discontent," says the Predictor, a West Hartford, Conn., letter. "Like the seasons, you can't rush the market," it continues, "and it is possible that another late-season storm or two will emerge before the rosy hue of springtime is firmly established." It urges investors to guard against premature selling.

Federal Reserve Board chairman Arthur Burns' recent comments on interest rates created a turnabout in the short term money market and sent commercial paper and most other instruments sharply higher, according to Short Term Money Memo. The Baltimore, Md., letter says in the coming week it expects "a continued firming of rates as market forces struggle toward a temporary equilibrium in the vicinity of the trading ranges currently in effect." Uncertainties in the money market may cause most banks to delay dropping the prime to 8 ½ per cent as one New York bank has, it adds.

Federal Reserve Chairman Arthur Burns' recent statement that the Fed was "not going to open the spigot" and his subsequent Congressional testimony suggests it may be shooting for a six per cent growth rate in money supply, according to Lionel D. Edie & Co. "Our calculations tell us that money supply will have to grow fast in the next six months—at about a 10 per cent annual rate—to get back on that 6 per cent track," the firm continues. Predicted jump in the money supply and a falling off of business loan demand "leads us to expect further sharp declines in short-term interest rates between now and mid-year," it adds.

MT. BALDY ON SEAL — Mrs. Evelyn Barrett, chairman of the board of directors of the Claremont Convention and Visitors Bureau, and Karen Hooper, associate director of the bureau, admire the bureau's new emblem, designed by Tom Jamieson.

Claremont group adopts first seal

CLAREMONT — It is customary for an organization to have a seal or emblem, and the Claremont Convention Bureau has accepted a suggestion from a Claremont graphic design consultant for its first symbol.

Tom Jamieson and Chamber of commerce manager Alex Turner agreed that such a symbol should be simple and distinct.

Jamieson came up with a symbol which contains three basic elements. The outside shape suggests a Spanish archway, through which is seen a very simplified contour of Mt. Baldy with foothills in the foreground. The sun, one of Claremont's distinct attributes, is seen overhead, although not in the precise location within recall of most citizens, since it normally rises in the east.

The logo now appears on convention badges, stationery, and other bureau literature.

Musical is no comedy

By JOSEPH FIRMAN

The news media these days are yawningly laden with the details of that 20th Century phenomenon, The Great Gas Search, photos of jammed service stations, interviews with oil company presidents and greasy mechanics, editorials on rationing and odd-even and topping tanks and other gaseous topics. It's a drag.

Since no sociological crisis is assured its proper place in history until it has been immortalized on the musical comedy stage, I am at present busy on a multi-million dollar song-and-dance spectacular based on the gasoline shortage and set in that once-ignored palladium of petroleum, the gas station, now second in popularity among American institutions only to the welfare office.

"Hello, Ethyl!" (book by J. Firman,music by Learner and Running Loewe) asks the question "can a simple millionaire's daughter find happiness with a tiger in her tank?"

At curtain's raise we see a service station at dawn, lights out, doors locked. It is surrounded by 41 cars bearing licenses ending in an add number. Drivers are dozing, drinking coffee, reading newspapers, knitting. The scene doesn't change for an hour. This is the New Realism in the theater—it may have to be cut to 45 minutes when the show goes on the road. If it can get gas.

Now the lights go on in the gas station, a chorus of nattily clad attendants appears, and the orchestra strikes up the opening number, "Topping Off the Tank." The cars begin to move forward, crunching fenders, the drivers sweating and swearing at each other. The pumps whir into action, gasoline gushes into the tanks, and a Brink's armored car backs up to the office.

The fourtheenth car to edge up to the pumps is driven by our heroine, Joan of Arco, daughter of a wealthy investment banker. She is a voluptuous blonde driving a Cadillac convertible with its top down. She also has her top down, but the hot pants and knee-length white boots give promise of her allure. The handsome young attendant Ron Chevron, oils his way to her side. "Regular or ethly?" he moans. It is love at first sight. (Comic love ballad: "I'm Shell-shocked by You!)

Joan responds with the romantic aria, "You're Supreme With Me." A crisis arises when he discovers that she has more than half a tank of gas already. He is torn between love and duty. "I'm sorry, my beloved, but I cannot serve you." Heartbroken the stumbles off to the grease-rack. Joan is enraged, but she admires his integrity. She sings "How Can I Bridge the Gulf Between Us?" (country-western).

The young lovers must part. With tears in her eyes, Joan puts the car in gear—then suddenly gives a sob of relief. She has been singing so long so long that her gas gauge is now down to a quarter of a tank. Her lover rushes to her side, and they join in the duet, "You Really Charge My Battery!" The other motorists get out of their cars and do a ballet sequence to "I'd Like To Strip Your Gears." The orchestra reprises "You're a Credit to Your Card," and Joan drives off, flattening Ron between the hi-test and the empty oil cans.

Nixon asks $432 million hike for vets' disability

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has asked Congress to increase veterans' disability benefits by $432 million a year.

In a letter to the chairmen and ranking Republicans on the Senate and House Veterans Committees, Nixon recommended a 12 per cent increase in veterans disability payments and a 14 per cent increase in payments to the dependents of disabled veterans.

Nixon also recommended inclusion of an automatic cost of living increase in disabled veterans benefits based on the Consumer Price Index, as well as structural changes in the disability rating system whereby severely disabled former servicemen would receive higher benefits.

The President estimated the total cost of the increases would be $432 million in the first full year.

Paintings going on exhibit tonight at MSAC gallery

WALNUT — Six purchase awards and 47 other paintings and drawings will go on exhibit in the art gallery of Mt. San Antonio College at the opening of the fourth biennial exhibition of paintings and drawings at 8 o'clock tonight. The prizewinners will be announced at the reception.

Artists whose works appear in the exhibition will be on hand to greet visitors and discuss the many works and styles of art presented.

Jessica Jacobs, gallery director, said the entires offered this year represent a dramatic cross-section of the work being done by the many outstanding artists in Southern California today.

The paintings and drawings submitted last month were juried by Barbara Haskell, curator of painting and scultpure for the Pasadena Museum of Modern Art. She has been with the museum since 1969, following her graduation in art history and philosophy from UCLA.

She has shown her own work throughout the area and has received several awards including the Mademoiselle award for achievement in the field of contemporary art, and the Los Angeles Soroptimist award to encourage leadership among business and professional women.

She selected 53 pieces to be presented in the exhibition and chose the six works for purchase by the college. Awards totaled $975.

The exhibit runs to April 4. Gallery hours are 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. on weekdays.

Add-on sign for inn nixed in Claremont

CLAREMONT — The Architectural Commission by a 6-0 vote has turned down a request from the Rodeway Inn for an additional sign below its freeway-orientd one to advertise its new Valley Racquet Club.

The new club is part of the Rodeway Inn compelex at 840 S. Indian Hill Blvd.

Previously the commission had denied a request from Shell Oil Co. to attach its sign to the Rodeway sign.

Steve Miller, general manager of Rodeway Inn told commission members that when Rodeway Inn was built there had been no idea of putting in a tennis club. He said that there is a possibility that he might drop the Rodeway Inn franchise and rename the development the Valley Inn and Racquet Club.

Commissioner John Esterline was sympathetic to the applicant's problem, but felt the sign was put together hastily.

Commissiner Adele Schoene said there could be a second sign, but it should look like one unit, using the same background color and block letters as the Rodeway sign.

Commissioner Dorothy Goldberg was opposed to the "tack-on kind of sign."

Miller tol dthe commission he did not think it would be possible to redesign the present sign and have it legible.

In other action, the commission denied an application by Stater Bros. for a 15-foot-high, 17-foot-wide free-standing sign at the Towne Avenue entrance to the shopping center.

The city staff had recommended that the proposal be tabled so that applicant could consider relocating the sign from the Towne Avenue entrance to the Foothill Boulevard frontage for greater visibility, but the commission denied the application 6-0.

The commission approve a proposed addition to Manor Lodge at Claremont Manor, 650 W. Harrison Ave.

The present lodge has seven rooms, and after expansion will have 24 rooms and a second story.

The commission denied by a 5-1 margin a request by Thomas Quinn, 234 W. Bonita Ave., for an identification sign over the rear entrance to his office The sign would say his name and "Entrance on Bonita Avenue."

Car hits pole, passenger hurt

CLAREMONT — A passenger was injured slightly Sunday night when the vehicle she was in hit a curb and a utility pole at Sixth Street east of Brooks Avenue.

Veronica Hart, 54, of 4523 Orchard Ave., Montclair, was released after treatment at San Antonio Community Hospital, Upland. The driver, the Rev. Zachary J. Mbuya, 43, of 435 Berkeley Ave., wasn't hurt. Police reported that Mbuya was brushing an ash from his clothing when the car drifted into the curb.

SCOTT H. JENKINS, son of Ivins T. Jenkins, 1027 W. Hollowell Ave., Ontario, has completed the aircraft mechanic course conducted by the Air Training Command at Sheppard AFB, Tex. He has been assigned to Norton AFB for service with a unit of the Military Airlift Command. Jenkins was graduated in 1973 from Chaffey High School.

Chamber urges more gas for West End

MONTCLAIR — The Montclair Chamber of Commerce, fearing a serious loss of profits among small businesses due to the gasoline shortage, has called for increased fuel allocations to the West End communities.

In a statement sent to local congressional representatives, county supervisors, city councils and West End chambers of commerce, the Montclair chamber's board of directors urged that fuel supplies for the West End be increased immediately.

Failing that, the chamber asked that vehicle smog control devices be disconnected by permit to allow increased mileage.

The chamber's action apparently stems from the belief that the fuel shortage is already crippling small businesses and that the controlled sales system in Los Angele County will heighten the supply problem.

Tom Watson, manager of the Montclair Chamber of Commerce, explained that small businesses are being hurt two ways by the fuel shortage. First, the smaller stores are suffering a drop in the volume of customers as West End residents curtail their shopping trips.

Secondly, he explained, small businesses that depend on their own small vehicle fleet for pickup or delivery of goods are unable to conduct business because of the unavailability of adequate fuel supplies.

Because of the even-odd sales system now in effect in Los Angeles County, Watson said, some businessmen believe that gasoline lines in the West End communities have lengthened as Los Angeles County residents cross over the county line in search of fuel.

"We're urging that all of the chambers of commerce in the West End combine with us in an all out effort to get some action in this drastic situation," said Watson.

World's most boring work

What's the most boring job in the world? That's what researchers at Harvard's Institute for Policy Studies wanted to know. Their intensive investigations resulted in a list of these five jobs as the most boring of all: 1. Assembly line worker. 2. Elevator operator. 3. Pool typist. 4. Bank guard. 5. Housewife. Also listed by this outfit as the most boring of occupations are those of key puncher, copy machine operator and highway toll collector.

BABYFACE

The good guy is called "the babyface" in the lingo of the professional wrestlers.

Stride of the average woman today is four inches shorter than her husband's stride. About 25 years ago, it was seven inches shorter. How do you account for this change?

How much do you have in your savings account sir? Don't answer, it's nobody's business. Merely mean to mention that two out of three families hereabouts have savings accounts now. And the balance in half of them exceeds $1,300.

Dina Shore, Pat Nixon and Elizabeth Taylor are Pisces. The stargazers say Pisces people are dreamers. That leads them toward success. The hard facts don't tend to discourage them, because they rarely recognize said hard facts when confronted with same. They prefer their own imaginative notions.

Rarely does a woman's snoring rattle the window panes the way a man's snoring does sometimes. But the medical men who make a study of such nighttime noise say the snoring of a woman tends to be pitched higher than the snoring of a man, so therefore carries farther.

A variety of foods make balanced diet

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 55 and have been a heart patient for the past year. I take Coumadin and other medicines. I walk a mile a day and do my housework.

A year ago I weighed 155 pounds, now 140 pounds. I have to limit myself to 1,000 calories per day to control my weight. What I need to know is, how many of these should be protein, carbohydrates and fat? I know I have to keep the fat low, but I'm afraid I'm getting too much carbohydrate. I drink three glasses of one per cent skim milk a day and eat very few starchy foods. My carbohydrates come from vegetables, fruit, cereals, skim milk and one slice of bread a day.

DEAR READER — You are getting over 150 calories of protein, or about 40 grams, from your skim milk. The new 1973 Recommended Daily Dietary Allowances (from the National Research Council) for women over 51 is only 46 grams a day. So, you can see that you are getting about all the protein you need from the milk alone. I would think, though, that you should get some additional protein from other sources, including some lean fish, poultry and meat. In general, though, I would guess you are already getting enough protein.

The new values for protein requirements have actually been lowered on the basis of the most current research. I'm inclined to think that when you are trying to control your weight, it is wise to have a little more protein, but otherwise, apparently most normal adults don't need more than 60 grams daily (240 calories of protein).

The rest of your calories can, and should, come from carbohydrates and a limited amount of fat. Vegetables, fruit, and cereal are fine foods. I would hope that your condition will permit you to be a little more active and a little less restrictive on your calories intake. A 1,000 calories a day diet for a prolonged time is a marginal intake. I don't recommend this except under a doctor's supervision.

For more information on keeping a balanced diet write to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10022, and ask for the "Balanced diet" booklet. Send 50 cents to cover costs.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Kindly tell me what causes the pressure when one has glaucoma? My doctor said no cataract. I am 75. He told me to use eye drops. Could there be cancer? Should I follow a diet?

DEAR READER — The eye normaly produces a certain amount of fluid inside the eyeball all the time. It should gradually seep out. The balance between the amount of fluid formed and the amount that is leaked out determines how much pressure is inside the eye.

Some people have a defect in the normal drainage mechanism from the eye. It can be caused by many different things. This causes the pressure to increase and results in glaucoma. You do not need to have cataracts to have glaucoma. They are not the same thing.

Anyone who has glaucoma should follow his doctor's advice to the letter. It can make the difference between keeping your sight and losing it.

No, glaucoma is not caused by cancer.

Grouper must work off excess energy

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: The latest addition to my 140-gallon marine tank is George, a sea bass, a grouper. He's got a pleasing personality but he is a terrible pest because he plows up the gravel in the bottom of the tank like a bulldozer. He makes a mess of the tank and keeps the other fish stirred up, too. How can I get them all — George especially — calmed down? — I. N.

Dear I. N.: A grouper has to find some way to work off excess energy on occasion. Even so, George would undoubtedly be more content with aquarium facilities if he is provided with a grouper house of his own. He needs some secure muddy place to call home. This could be stacked chunks of coral or a scattering of clay flower pots creating a secluded corner. Even with this addition, other aquarium inhabitants couldn't be expected to relax completely. If George outweights them at all. Almost any fish not his equal in size is in continual danger of being gulped down. (He has a large mouth and plenty of guts to go with it.)

DEAR DR. MILLER: The only problem we ever had with our cat was her scratching up everything. It took us a year and a half and two sets of furniture before we finally did it, but when we had her declawed it was the answer.

We are going to get her a playmate soon, a puppy, and want to know the best age for having a puppy declawed? — D. J.

Dear D. J.: There are a few circumstances when declawing a cat is the best of the alternatives available. A puppy's declaws (the high, inner claws on the foot) are frequently removed for aesthetic and, occasionally, for practical reasons. This is as far as the declawing process ever goes in a dog. Remember, the canine's claws do not retract and dogs are much more dependent on the nails for support and traction. It is about as common for a dog to be destructive with his nails as it is a cat to tear up things with its teeth.

Puppies and kittens are both capable of learning to use teeth and claws in a nondestructive fashion. Begin this training for your new puppy by keeping safe chewables always convenient and immediately discouraging extracurricular chewing. Also, provide plenty of exercise and immediate discipline to avoid digging into lawn, garden, or even carpet.

Patrolmen study brand inspection

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — Nevada highway patrolmen will attend classes on brand inspection in an enfort to catch cattle rustlers.

Patrol Chief James Lafbert said his men will study administration of brand laws and will learn about techniques modern rustlers use. Ranchers say thieves commonly shoot a cow, drag it into a van and butcher it while the van travels to the nearest possible market. Patrolmen routinely will record pertinent information on vehicles and drivers involved in livestock shipments.

When
means everything

There are times when care, and care alone,
means everything.

That's why at Rose Hills we are not just another mortuary. We stress the importance of care and understanding above all else.

It was a care for beauty that led to the creation, more than a half century ago, of the world's most naturally beautiful memorial park.

It was an understanding of people's needs that led us to establish a mortuary. We offer every needed service — mortuary, cemetery, chapels, flower shops, mausoleums and crematory — all at one convenient location.

Care . . . and understanding. At Rose Hills, we think they mean a lot.

Novel racing idea

Kids like Krisiloff

By CURT WEBSTER
P-B Correspondent

ONTARIO — Steve Krisiloff is a race driver without a sponsor, but one with a lot of potential fans.

Krisiloff, a 27 year-old qualifier for Sunday's California 500 at Ontario Motor Speedway, explained his predicament for the 1974 season during last weekend's qualifying for the March 10 500-miler.

"We didn't come up with a sponsor this year," Krisiloff related. "So what we decided to do was to dedicate it to the kids. It's for all the kids out there who would like to be race drivers some day."

Hence the title of the No. 18 Eagle, The American Kids Racer. It's a novel publicity idea that's bound to draw some added parade lap cheers for the Parsippany, N.J. native.

The pink, blue, and silver car is owned by Richard Beith and, while it does carry an "associated sponsorship," there is litte of the financial clout that backs the Olsonite Eagles or the Vel's-Parnelli "super Team."

Thanks to a third place finish in the second of Sunday's Twin 100 qualifying races, Krisiloff will be within striking distance of the lead when the green flag drops (though it's goinng to take some kind of mistake by pole-sitter A. J. Foyt before the rest of the field can begin to think of victory.)

Under the complicated qualifying procedure, Krisiloff will be making his start in the middle of the second row—or the fifth best spot of the 33-car field.

It's understandable, perhaps, that Krisiloff would feel an affinity for the Soap Box Derby set. His extremely youthful appearance leads one to believe he just came off the sandlots of Parsippany himself.

Yet, in the short time that Krisiloff has competed on the USAC Championship trail, he has logged a pretty fair amount of mileage.

Some of Krisiloff's bigger moments have come at Ontario. After early magneto failure relegated him to 29th at the inaugural California 500 in 1970, Krisiloff came back in 1971 in a King TCO that almost carried him to victory before a long, late pit stop pushed his final standing all the way back to fifth.

Running in a new Grant King-Kingfish Offy in the '72 500, Krisiloff was in one of 10 cars still running at the end of the race, good enough for an 11th place showing.

Krisiloff had his best Indianapolis finish ever last year, placing sixth in the rain-shortened 500.

In the intervening months since last September, Krisiloff has left the King stable to venture forth in his new Kids Racer. His respectable finish last Sunday will give him his best starting position ever.

And while Krisiloff is only one of a number of young drivers that various publicity machines assure us is "on the verge of superstardom," he is, by the same token, in the best position of any to enhance his reputation on Sunday.

He's sure going to have the kids on his side anyway.

Lakers don't lose ground despite loss

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — After the Los Angeles Lakers lost a 107-102 decision to the struggling Portland Trail Blazers Tuesday night, they received some good news from San Francisco.

The Golden State Warriors, the Lakers' rival for leadership in the Pacific Division, dropped a 95-93 decision to Detroit, keeping the Lakers only one-half game back of the all-important race.

The Lakers had a seven-game winning streak snapped by the Blazers, the last place team in the Pacific Division. Sidney Wicks paced the Portland attack, scoring 12 of his 28 points in the final period.

The Lakers held a 55-50 lead at the half, and were still ahead 73-71 at the end of three periods. Paced by Wicks and center Lloyd Neal, the Blazers pulled away with seven minutes to play in the half and then held off a late Laker comeback.

The Lakers, trailing 101-94 with little over two minutes left, reduced the margin to 101-98 with 1:25 to play. Guard Geoff Petrie then came down the floor, faked his way past Jim Price and calmly sank a 19-footer that put the Lakers away.

Wicks also had 14 rebounds while Neal had 19 points and 17 rebounds. Happy Hairston had 19 for the Lakers, reserve Stan Love added 16 and Gail Goodrich, who averaged 32 points in his previous meetings with Portland this year, was held to 14. Jerry West, still recovering from an abdominal muscle injury, watched the game from the sidelines.

"We're just going to have to run more plays for Gail (Goodrich)," he said. "Gail has to score 25 or so for us every night if we're going to win."

The Lakers are now 39-31, with 12 games remaining, while the Warriors are 38-29 with 15 left. The winner of the Pacific Division will probably be the Western Conference's last playoff representative.

Los Angeles begins a grueling eight-game span against Boston at the Forum tonight. They meet the Celtics, the New York Knicks and the Warriors twice each between now and March 17.

Bonita product looking sharp in Angel camp

HOLTVILLE, Calif. (UPI) — Three rookies—Bob Allietta, Morris Nettles and Sam Ashford—accounted for the only score in the California Angels' first intrasquad game of the spring Tuesday.

The game was a scoreless tie going into the bottom of the ninth when Allietta and Nettles singled. Allietta scored on an infield grounder by Ashford.

Nine pitchers worked an inning apiece in the contest. Angel manager Bobby Winkles said he was pleased with the work of Bill Singer, Dave Sells, Bruce Heinbechner and Frank Kenyon of Bonita High. Mickey Rivers had two hits, a double and an infield single.

"The youngsters looked good, especially defensively," Winkles commented.

After normal workouts here Wednesday and Thursday, the Angels open their Cactus League schedule at home Friday against the Chicago Cubs. The team moves its camp to Palm Springs on Saturday, to host the world champion Oakland A's.

49ers sign Troy's Moore

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The San Francisco 49ers have announced the signing of USC fullback Manfred Moore, a ninth round draft choice.

The 6-1, 189-pound Moore failed to show up for rookie orientation two weeks ago and the 49ers feared he had signed with the World Football League's Hawaii franchise.

"However," a club spokesman said, "he got in touch with us later and we finished negotiations today."

Azusa, Poets clash tonight for K.C. trip

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

LA MIRADA — Will Azusa Pacific College finally make it to the NAIA national basketball playoffs at Kansas City or will the Whittier jinx prevail again?

Those questions will be answered tonight when the Cougars (27-4) clash with Whittier College (20-7) tonight at 8 p.m. in the final round of the District Three Playoffs at Biola College.

The Poets have turned back APC bids four times in playoff competition. But the situation may have begun to change last year when the Cougars knocked Whittier out of the playoffs with an 82-69 victory last year. That marked the first time APC had beaten the Poets in the playoffs.

But it was Whittier again this year that dealt the Cougars their first loss, a 78-69 defeat at Whittier, in the fourth game of the season.

In that game, Dennis Vanzant was recovering from an ankle injury and scored just six points in a part-time roll. Vanzant finished the regular season with a 19.8 average and scored 24 Monday night as APC defeated Westmont.

Whittier was without the services of Paul Caldweil in that game. Caldwell had a knee injury at the time. The 6-5 forward went on to lead the SCIAC in scoring with a 17.5 points-per-game average.

Both Vanzant and Caldwell are at their peak now.

"We're going to have to hold Vanzant and (Rick) Reed to 20 points apiece in order to win," said Whittier coach Dave Jacobs.

Reed averaged over 25 points a game for APC and tossed in 28 Monday night against Westmont.

Reed and Vanzant both are all-district first team selections.

"Defense will be the key," continued Jacobs. "We've got to play the same type of tough defense we played against Fresno Pacific Saturday."

Whittier defeated Fresno Pacific 70-63 to earn the right to play in the finals. Bernie Hoskin, who has been bothered by a sore ankle, scored 17 points against Fresno. Guards Jack Smoot and Al Hardin played the FP guards extremely well.

APC coach Cliff Hamlow is already on record as saying, "We have to contain Smooth and Hardin. If we don't we're in deep, deep trouble."

The Poets backcourt aces are excellent penetrating guards. Both are two-time first-team all-conference. Hardin, who averaged 13.5 points per game this year, is also an all-district selection.

Hoskin was all conference last year but slipped to the second-team this year.

"Whittier is a guard-oriented team," said Hamlow. "We can't allow them to penetrate and then pass off to one of their big men inside."

Whittier's front line of the 6-5 Caldwell, 6-4 Rod Van Vliet at center, and the 6-6 Hoskin is much shorter than the Cougars front line of the 6-9 Vanzant, 6-8 Roger Cahoon, and 6-7 Mike Leatherby.

Digger Phelps Coach of Year

NEW YORK (UPI) — Richard "Digger" Phelps, an energetic, dapper young man who in only three seasons has raised Notre Dame's basketball program from the doldrums to national prominence, today was named Coach of the Year by the United Press International.

The 32-year-old Phelps, who guided the Irish to a 24-2 regular season record, including a stunning 71-70 upset of UCLA that snapped the Bruins' record 88-game winning streak, was an easy winner in a balloting of 241 sports writers and sportscasters across the nation.

Phelps received 107 votes to easily outdistance six-time Coach of the Year John Wooden of UCLA. Wooden, whose club was beaten three times this season after going undefeated the previous two years, polled 43 votes. Buzz Ridl of Pittsburgh was third with 23 votes followed by Roy Skinner of Vanderbilt with 18 and Norm Sloan of top-ranked North Carolina State with 17.

Others receiving at least two votes were Lute Olson of Long Beach State, Eddie Sutton of Creighton, Ted Owens of Kansas, Johnny Orr of Michigan and Bob Boyd of Southern California.

Phelps is the first Notre Dame basketball coach ever to be awarded UPI's Coach of the Year honor, and he achieved it by combining high-powered recruiting with an abundance of court knowledge.

When Phelps arrived at Notre Dame three seasons ago after one outstanding season as the head coach of Fordham, everyone agreed that it would just be a matter of time before he turned the Irish into a national power.

"If anyone can rebuild your basketball program, Digger Phelps can. He is one of the best young coaches in the country," said Marquette Coach Al McGuire at the time Phelps took over.

In Phelps' first year the Irish, young and inexperienced, suffered through a 6-20 campaign, but Phelps' recruiting and patience began to pay off last season as Notre Dame finished with an 18-12 record that included a second place finish in the National Invitation Tournament.

This year the Irish blossomed into one of the nation's most powerful clubs and pulled off the biggest victory in college basketball over the last three seasons when they upended UCLA at South Bend, Ind. A week later UCLA avenged the loss by beating Notre Dame at Los Angeles, but the Irish then reeled off 12 straight victories before losing their season finale to Dayton.

Phelps, who took Fordham to a third place finish in the NCAA East regionals in 1971 before walking out on the remainder of a five-year contract to take the Notre Dame job, will lead the Irish into action in the NCAA Mideast regionals Saturday.

Phelps, regarded as one of the best recruiters in the country, has concentrated his recruiting efforts largely to the East coast — considered a hotbed of talent—and has corralled such stars as All-American John Shumate (Elizabeth, N.J.), Gary Brokaw (New Brunswick, N.J.), Adrian Dantley (Washington, D.C.), Bill Paterno (Lincroft, N.J.) and Ray Martin (Long Island City, N.Y.).

Kings just edge Seals but enjoy fourth place

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — After a tense 2-1 win over the lowly California Golden Seals Tuesday night, Bob Murdoch offered an explanation.

"We seem to have problems getting motivated against the lower teams in the standings," said Murdoch, whose 40-foot goal with 2:18 left to play won the game. The win pushed the Kings into sole possession of fourth place in the NHL West, two points ahead of idle St. Louis.

"At this point we shouldn't have this trouble, because every point counts," Murdoch added.

It appeared the Kings were headed for a tie when Murdoch, while both teams were a man short, slapped in the long-range shot. The puck went between the legs of goalie Marv Edwards.

Mike Corrigan gave Los Angeles a 1-0 lead early in the second period. While the Seals were a man short, Corrigan took a pass from Frank St. Marseille and scored from four feet out.

Kings goalie Gary Edwards, making his first start since Dec. 15, made the goal stand up until seven minutes remained in the game when Walt McKenchie knocked in a rebound of a shot by Hilliard Graves.

The Kings remained one point behind third-place Atlanta. The Flames knocked off Boston 4-1.

Murdoch expects no motivational problems this week with the Kings next two opponents, the Chicago Black Hawks on Thursday and the Bruins on Saturday, both at the Forum.

"We'll have no trouble getting up for Chicago and Boston," he said. "It's not tough to get up for teams like that."

The Seals, who still have won only two on the road, come home tonight to host Chicago. A rested Gilles Meloche will be back in the nets for that one.

Rick Auerbach impressive in Dodgers' practice game

VERO BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Rick Auerbach, acquired last October as a backup man for Los Angeles Dodger shortstop Bill Russell, slammed a triple and a double in an intrasquad game Tuesday.

"If I can pick out the best looking player, I'd have to say Rick Auerbach has pleased me," assessed manager Walter Alston after the drill. "Also a couple of youngsters —Hector Cruz and Ivan Dejesus-have looked good too."

Auerbach, a 24-year-old native Southern Californian, came to the Dodgers in a deal with the Milwaukee Brewers. He is expected to play behind Russell, who played in all 162 games for the Dodgers last season.

Auerbach's hits sparked a team coached by Tommy Lasorda to an 8-0 comp over squad coached by Jim Gilliam. His triple started a two-run rally off Greg Shanahan in the first inning. His run-scoring double kept alive a four-run rally in the second inning. Tom Paciorek contributed a two-run double in the inning.

Just how good is Long Beach?

By United Press International

One of the sad aspects of this basketball season is that the fans will never know just how good the Long Beach State team is.

The 49ers lost a couple of close games early in the season but as frosh flash Clifton Pondexter adjusted to the big time, they became just about unbeatable.

But while Long Beach compiled its best-ever season record, it also drew the full wrath of the NCAA for alleged recruiting violations and cannot play in post-season action for the next three years.

Long Beach blasted Fresno State 84-61 Tuesday night to finish 12-0 in the Pacific Coast Athletic Association, 24-2 for the season, and extend its home court win streak to 77.

A team linked to Long Beach State also finished in fine style. Nevada-Las Vegas, which lured away Coach Jerry Tarkanian from Long Beach, wound up with a 20-6 record by taking Loyola 84-73 in the last WCAC contest. Bob Florence scored 23 to take over second in the all-time conference scoring derby with 895 points in three seasons. Only William "Bird" Averitt of Pepperdine tallied more.

In the Big Sky playoff at Missoula, Mont., Idaho State took a 60-57 win over Montana with frosh center Steve Hayes leading the way. Idaho State meets Western Athletic champ New Mexico and independent Dayton faces PCAA representative Los Angeles State Saturday night at Pocatello.

The winners must play West Coast Athletic Conference king San Francisco and the Pac-8 champ, which will be determined by Saturday night's UCLA-USC confrontation at the Sports Arena.

Far Western Conference co-champ Sonoma State got 21 points and a dozen rebounds from Bill Belander in a 60-54 win over San Diego, which saw Neil Traub score 16 and grab 17 rebounds.

That sets a Friday field in the NCAA College Division regionals of Chico State (18-8) against UC Riverside (19-7) and Sonoma (17-9) against Cal Poly-San Luis Obispo (17-9).

Central Washington earned a trip to the NAIA with a 75-60 win over St. Martin's despite Ron Sheets' 30 points for the losers. Grand Canyon, now 27-1, also will go to the NAIA after a 62-48 win over Southern Utah. Azusa faces Whittier at La Mirada tonight for another NAIA berth and Oregon Tech won the West's other spot in the small school playoffs Monday night.

Meanwhile, latest Pac-8 scoring statistics with one game to go show Ron Lee of Oregon pulling ahead in the scoring derby with a 19.5 average to 17.7 for runnerup Rich Kelley of Stanford. When all games are considered, Lee is averaging 18.96 and Bill Walton of UCLA 18.95.

Walton and Kelley are 1-2 in rebounds while Dan Anderson of USC is tops in free throws at .884 and Walton the most accurate shooter with 81 for 120 from the floor for .675.

UCLA is tops in five departments out of six with 75.9 points per game, 58.9 points allowed, for a difference of 17, along with a .735 free throw per cent and a 10 rebound margin per game. The Bruins are hitting half their shots from the floor but arch-rival USC is at .513.

Skidding Sharks can't hold lead

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Ray Clearwater ignited a four-goal burst in the second period Tuesday night that carried the Cleveland Crusaders to a 6-3 World Hockey Association win over the floundering Los Angeles Sharks.

It was the sixth straight loss for the Sharks, who have now dropped 15 of their last 16 games.

After Cleveland's Jim Wiste and the Sharks' Gary Veneruzzo traded goals in the first period, Los Angeles spurted ahead early in the second period on goals by Steve Sutherland and Marc Tardif, taking a brief 3-1 lead.

Two minutes afer Tardif's goal, Clearwater scored from in front of the net to ignite the Crusaders' rally. His goal was followed by scores by Russ Walker on a breakaway, Gerry Pinder on a shot from the point and a short shot from in front of the net by Skip Krake.

Tom Edur slammed in a 40-footer in the final period to end the scoring.

WESTERN SHOOTER — Western Christian guard, Bruce Sider, the team's top scorer, shoots for two points in Lancers' 70-65 win.

WC heads to semi

GLENDORA— The Christians scored another victory over the Lions (Panthers) Tuesday night, but it took a miracle.

Norm Moline, Sam Shumaker and Bruce Sider sparked a fourth-quarter rally that saw Western Christian hit eight of nine from the floor en route to a 23-12 advantage in an exciting 70-65 come-from-behd victory over Perris in the quarterfinals of the CIF 1-A basketball playoffs.

Coach Les Holstein's Lancers, now 24-2 on the season, will play undefeated Elsinore, a 69-64 winner over Banning, Friday night with the site to be decided today.

The contest was a strangely played see-saw battle that saw the Panthers maul the Christians in the first half only to have the hosts dominate second half play.

Perris (15-11) shot 50 per cent (25 for 50) over the first three periods, holding a 53-47 lead entering the final eight minutes of play.

Then Moline, Shumaker, Sider and the defense of guard Ken Neilson took its toll.

The Lancers rattled off 11 straight points to take the lead for the first time in the game, 58-53.

Moline and Shumaker collaborated for most of the scoring with 'Stormin' Norman scoring five points, grabbing three steals and contributing three assists — all to Shumaker for six points in the four minute span.

Perris' Anthony Battle hit the first points of the period for the visitors on a pair of free throws to cut the deficit to 58-55.

Moline and Shumaker hit buckets to extend the lead to seven points.

The Panthers, Western's 20th consecutive victim, took a final run by scoring five straight points to make it 62-60 with 1:09 to play.

The 6-1 senior hit a bucket to extend the lead to four again only to have Perris' Ken Nipper hit a field goal with 21 seconds left to make it 64-62.

In the next four seconds it was give and take.

Perris gave away a foul that resulted in a four-point play and the Lancers gladly took it.

Panther Ron Hooks committed a foul and was charged with a technical for disputing the call.

Sider sank the charity toss, Moline sank the technical, the Lancers got the ball out of bounds, Moline was fouled again — sank two more free throws — and the Panthers were sunk.

Sider added two more free throws with 11 seconds left give the Lancers a 70-62 le

The final three Pe voints were put in by Sw ney.

The Christians look doomed in the first half the visitors sprinted to a 37- lead, 22 of those came in t first period as Jimmy Bry tallied eight points and Ba added three markers and fo assists.

Sweeney, who coach H stein feels is the best opp ing player the Lancers ha faced this year, tallied points, 19 through the fi three periods. Hooks added and Bryant finished with markers.

Sider paced Western with points, 11 rebounds, four a sists, three steals and blocked shot. Moline had markers, six assists, six stea and a blocked shot. Shumake had 18 points eight in th fourth period, and 10 carom

Nielson didn't score but th 5-9 junior played Sweene Perris' 6-2 senior scorin machine, man-to-man in th final stanza and held hi scoreless until the final seconds.

Pack defense stops S.A.

By JIM McCONNELL
P-B Staff Writer

SANTA ANA— Claremont High used a little luck and a lot of defense Tuesday to down Santa Ana High 1-0 in the CIF soccer semifinals and advance to a championship showdown for the second straight year.

On a day when the vaulted Wolfpack scoring attack had trouble getting untracked, it was a near flawless execution of defensive skills that paced the narow Claremont Triumph.

The win was the thirl shutout in a row for the Pack in the playoffs, and never has their defense looked as good as it did Tuesday. Ralph Hawes, Brian Smith, and goalie Casey Roberts rose to the occasion to shut off a fast-breaking Saint team.

The little bit of luck coach Otto Rieger's crew needed came midway through the first half. Gregg Kaufman booted a shot on Santa Ana goalie Hector Mendez from 25 yards out. Mendez had no trouble stopping the shot, but lost the handle on the ball and an alert Jim Van Zee banged it into the net for the only score of the contest.

After Van Zee's goal, the Pack offense was much quieter than usual the rest of the way, but the Claremont defesne made that lone score stand up.

Santa Ana led by speedy Abel Dorado, went into a full-scale offensive attack in the second half in an attempt to knot the game up at 1-1. But some spectacular saves by Roberts in goal and Hawes kept the margin of victory for Claremont.

Claremont now has the unenviable task o ftackling South Torrance, th CIF's number one ranked team, in Friday's finals. South triumphed over West Torrance, 2-1 Tuesday in a contest that stretched into six overtimes.

Claremont school officials are lining up a bus convoy to go to Torrance for the finals, which are slated to begin at 7:30 p.m. Friday at South Torrance High. All interested parties are welcome to travel on the chartered buses. Cost will be $1 for a round-trip fare and the seats are available on a first-come, first-served basis. Buses are slated to leave Claremont High 5:30 p.m. Friday.

Those interested are requested to contact the Claremont High ASB office for further information and reservations.

Ganesha spikers prepared to defend SAL championship

By CRAIG TRAVIS
P-B Staff Writer

Ganesha High begins defense of its San Antonio League track championship Thursday when the Giants visit the always tough Upland Highlanders.

But Petersen's Giants, who went unbeaten in nine meets last year, once again have to be the preseason favorites.

Ganesha has 18 returning lettermen led by Cleve Porter, Glenn Harter, Ron Jacques, Pat Staley and Charles Stewart.

Porter, who finished seventh in the triple jump in the finals of the California State finals, will once again head up the field events. He will be a triple threat in the high jump, long jump and triple jump.

Harter and Staley look impressive in the middle distances with Stewart being a double threat in the low and high hurdles. Jacques heads the list of sprinters.

Ganesha's strength will once again lie in its depth in each event.

Upland, 7-2 overall and tied for second with a 5-2 league slate last year, will once again be a competitive team other SAL clubs will have to worry about.

As usual, Bob Loney's Scots who dropped an 80-38 decision to Palos Verdes Tuesday, have strength in the middle and long distance events, lead by the defending SAL one mile champ—Steve Scott.

The rest of the distance lineup features Mark Sorenson, Bob Berry, Steve Lucero, Bill Henke, Frank Guevara, Scott McKeon and Jim Ems.

In other SAL track action Thursday, Garey visits Chino, Claremont hosts Damien and Pomona entertains Montclair.

Garey has 10 returnees but once again lack the necessary depth to be a contender, as only 27 athletes turned out for the season.

Larry Rodriguez will handle the distances with Greg Johnson a contender in the 100, 220, 440 and long jump.

Steve Trenholme, Tom Hunter and Steve Benson will compete in two events each.

Stanley Webster paced the Vikings to a tri-meet victory over Nogales and Edgewood Tuesday afternoon. Coach Ernie Prentice's troops whipped the other two teams with 66 points, as compared to Nogales' 43 and Edgewood's 41.

Webster took victories in the 100 yard dash in 10.5 seconds and the 220-yard sprint in 23.6 seconds, while also anchoring Garey's winning 440-relay team.

Trenholme won the two-mile with a time of 10:21.5 minutes.

Claremont has 16 returning lettermen on its squad this year, including pole vaulter Jon Powers and long jumper Toby Swick.

Joe Hillstock, who holds the junior varsity school records in the 100 and 220, will be the key man in the Wolfpack's sprint team. The distance men will probably be paced by Scott Sauer and Garey Ardrey.

Damien has just nine returnees and five top newcomers, so lack of depth will be a problem for Barry Gray's team.

Sprinter Rob Lamb, hurdler Ron Ramirez and John Roach are the threats as double winners along with Paul Broadway, Lorenzo Hearns, Steve Beck, Joe Kiszeli, John Fridenbach and Keith Armstrong.

Pomona boasts a large field of 28 returning lettermen and looks strong in the sprints.

The fleet-footed crew includes Garry Honest, Lloyd Landry, Raymond Butler and Scott Price.

The Red Devils also promise to be strong in the distance events, paced by Barry Boettcher, Ken Dent, Ed Davila and Mike Abbott.

All meets get underway at 3:15 p.m.

Pomona captured its division Tuesday at the Shorty Smith Relays at Santa Ana College, and Ganesha finished third in the same division.

The Red Devils won five of the nine relays, copping the shuttle hurdles, the four-man 440, the eight-man 880, the four-man 880 and the distance medley.

Pomona finished with 33 points, while Ganesha picked up 22.

San Dimas begins defense of its Hacienda League title by hosting Alta Loma while Walnut hosts Ontario in 3:15 p.m. action Thursday.

Jim George's San Dimas Saints are coming off an unbeaten season and will have nine double and triple winners returning.

Distance runner Frank Diaz is the triple threat, with Mike Bailous, Dan Hitchens and Tim Shepard the top sprinters. Shelley White, Jim Waters and Darrell Craig offer a threat to sweep the hurdles, while Ed Martin and Perez Shoemaker are the top field performers.

Walnut remained unbeaten this season in track when it whipped Rowland, 78-40, Tuesday.

Sprinter Bob Fausel and hurdler Dorian Hubert posted double wins for the Mustangs. Fausel clocked a 10.6-second 100 and a 53.5 quarter mile.

Hurbert won the 180 low hurdles in 20.9 seconds and the 120 high hurles in 15.8.

In the only other local Hacienda track action Thursday, Bonita will travel to Gladstone.

Stags beat 'Tech; 'Hens lose to SCC

Claremont-Mudd won easily and Pomona-Pitzer lost a game it probably should have won Tuesday in College baseball.

The Stags rolled to an easy 18-2 win over hapless Caltech in a conference opener for both teams. That makes C-M 5-1 for the season and 1-0 in conference play.

Pomona-Pitzer outhit, outpowered, and outfielded Southern California College in its season opener at Costa Mesa. Unfortunately, Sagehen pitchers also outwalked their opponents.

The 'Hens got 12 hits to SCC's seven. They had four extra base hits including a three-run homer by Biff Sherman. SCC had no extra base hits. There were four SCC errors to two by the Pomonans.

However, starting pitcher David Jones have up seven walks in three and two-thirds innings. SCC scored twice in the first on two leadoff walks, a double steal and a hit. Two walks and a hit led to another run in the second. In the third, Jones was tagged for four hits while giving up one walk as two more runs came in. The sixth and winning run came in the fourth inning on a hit and three walks.

The Sagehens scored once in the third. Greg Hogan singled. Sherman doubled, but Hogan fell down and was caught in a rundown Sherman getting to third on the play. Paul Miller's sacrifice fly scored Sherman. Sherman singled in the ninth and scored on Miller's double for the final run.

Jim Mullowney, with two doubles, led Claremont-Mudd over Caltech. Mullowney batted in three runs. Wynn Moore had a home run and two rbi's Steve Lopez a double and two ribbies, Bill Vasek a triple and two rbi's Gary Burger and Tom Condon also batted in two runs apiece.

Sophomore Ruben Watkins was selected as the most improved variety performer, while Harlan Watkins was given a special coaches' award for his play. Also on the varsity level, Mark Kusler was picked as the top defensive performer.

Mounties fall in SCC opener, 4-3

By MIKE RAWLINSON
P-B Staff Writer

FULLERTON — Pre-conference records don't mean a thing in the South Coast. Mt. San Antonio College, sporting the winningest record of the six conference teams, found out the hard way in the campaign opener at Fullerton JC Tuesday.

The 10-1 Mounties absorbed their first loss in almost a month at Fullerton (8-6) put together an 11-hit offensive and a six-hit pitching performance by Brian Hall to pull out a 4-3 SCC victory.

Fullerton at Mesa (2), noon

Now 10-2 overall and 0-1 where it hurts the most, coach Art Mazmanian's club hopes to get back on the right track in a home and away series with Orange Coast Thursday and Saturday.

The Mounties had it their own way through five innings at Fullerton Tuesday, but the scrappy Hornets fought back from a 3-0 deficit to tie the score on single tallies in the second, fourth and sixth innings, and finally won it on a two-out, ground-rule double in the ninth by Jeff Mathieson off loser Charlie Fallon.

Fallon worked himself in and out of trouble through nine innings and was apparently okay after retiring the first two men in the ninth. But Mike Hollato's single and a walk to Andy Schardt set the stage for Mathieson who made his first appearance in the game as a pinch runner for designated hitter Mike Wolfe in the eighth.

In his only seventh plate appearance of the season for the Hornets, Mathieson stroked Fallon's pitch to left and it caromed over the fence to allow Hollato's to score the winning run.

Fallon struck out four and walked six to gain credit for his first loss of the season in four starts.

The Mounties jumped on Hall early, scoring two runs in the first on walks to Pat Corcoran and Jeff Corkill, a single by Frank Marini and an error by the third baseman.

They picked up one more in the second frame as Corcoran singled Mike Parkinson home after another error by the Hornet third baseman, Brad Liedthe. Corcoran collected half of MSAC's six hits on three singles and a walk in four trips to the plate.

The loss dropped the Owls to 2-2 in conference play and a game under .500 for the season at 5-6. It was Chaffey's third consecutive Mission win. The Panthers are 8-3 overall.

Freshman righthander Steve Gibson (4-1) allowed seven hits, struck out four and walked four in going the distance for Chaffey, and teammates David Chavez, Dave Hill and Mike Wolters combined for six of the Panthers' 11 hits off four Owl hurlers.

Chaffey returns to action Thursday by hosting Palomar, while Citrus entertains Saddleback. Both games begin at 2:30 p.m.

Upland, Chino win

Chino and Upland highs warned each other on the evening prior to the Chaffey Baseball Tournament championship by posting nonleague victories Tuesday afternoon.

Chino used a three-run seventh inning to tun away from South Hills and post a 7-2 victory, while Upland scored once each in the last two innings to knock off Azusa, 4-2.

The two met today at 3:15 p.m. for the championship of the Chaffey Tourney.

In other prep games played in the valley Tuesday, Montclair nipped Ontario 4-3, Claremont lost to Alta Loma by a 5-1 count, Damien held off Canyon, 9-6, Garey was blanked by Redlands, 8-0, San Dimas clobber Nogales, 9-2, Walnut tripped Charter Oak in 10 innings, 3-2, Bonita fell to Covina, 8-3, and Rowland sneaked by Wilson, 4-3.

Chino, now 4-0 for the season, had two hits from Robert Townzen, Paul Briones and Randy Hobbs. Townzen picked up the victory on the mound, his first of the season.

With Upland only leading by a 2-1 margin over Azusa, Mike Perry slugged a home run in the sixth, put the Highlanders up by two and gave the Scots the run needed to win.

Ontario rallied back to tie Montclair in the top of the sixth at 3-3, but the Cavaliers came to bat in the bottom of the inning and tallied the go-ahead run to win.

Claremont could only pile up four hits against three Alta Loma pitchers, while A.L. hit two Wolfpack hurlers for eight base hits and five runs.

Damien grouped all nine of its runs in the fourth, fifth and sixth innings to defeat Canyon.

Garey committed eight errors and collected only two hits in the loss to Redlands.

San Dimas pitcher Paul Willman lost his bid for a shutout when Nogales scored two runs in the bottom of the seventh inning. Willman went the distance and fanned five batters, while also going two-for-four at the plate.

Walnut's run in the bottom of the 10th inning against Charter Oak came on a C.O. error during a force play, which scored Bob Flores.

Rowland pitcher Mitch Culp lost his shutout and then had to be relieved in the seventh inning while Wilson scored three runs.

Money chief reason claims McAlister

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — "There was really only one reason that Kermit (Johnson) and I signed with the World Football League before the NFL draft—money," former UCLA football and track star James McAlister told the Southern California track writers Tuesday.

"We made a survey of what the NFL paid its running backs," he said. "It came to just half of what we signed for."

"We learned that there are only three NFL running backs being paid the amount of money for which we signed, and I'm not a fool."

UCLA track coach Jim Bush said the Bruin meet with Arizona, San Diego State and the Beverly Hills Striders Saturday at UCLA will be a strong meet.

"We will have the world's greatest sprinter in San Diego State's Steve Williams and probably the greatest sprint relay team."

The first women's outdoor meet of the season is scheduled for Mt. San Antonio College Saturday.

USC 'walks' to win over Poly

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

POMONA — Bases on balls cost Cal Poly's baseball team an upset win over mighty USC Tuesday on the Broncos' home field.

Seven Poly pitchers gave up nine walks and hit a batter as USC went home with a 5-3 win that should have been a 3-1 loss.

Four of the five Trojan runs were direct results of bases on balls.

"I talked to the players about walks yesterday," moaned Poly coach John Scolinas, "and today bases on balls killed us. I thought we did a good job in coming back like we did. We could have given up when they got out in front 5-0. But we didn't. I'm pleased with that. I think we'll be ready for SLO."

The Broncos, now 4-8, travel to San Luis Obispo for a single game Friday and a double header Saturday.

The Trojans scored twice in the third when John Riddle walked Marvin Cobb with one out. Creighton Tevlin forced Cobb for the second out. But Rich Dauer picked on a 1-2 pitch and slammed it over the left field fence.

The other three runs came in the sixth. Bruce MacPherson threw 12 balls out of 14 pitches to the first three USC batters. That loaded the bases with nobody out.

John Kistner relieved MacPherson.

Robb Adolph lifted a fly ball to right field that Steve Herter allowed to drop in front of him and then threw to second baseman Kevin Thornhill for a force out. But Kistner hit Tevlin to force in a run. Anthony Davis struck out, but Dauer lashed a single to left field to score two more runs.

The Broncos got a run back in the last of the sixth off George Milkey. Monty Cloward beat out an infield hit, Thornhill drew a walk and scored on Herter's single.

Ii the eighth with Steve Redford pitching for USC, Steve Ludewig beat out an infield hit and advanced to second on Marvin Cobb's throwing error. Herter worked the count to 3-2 and lined a double to right centerfield scoring Ludewig. Herter scored on a single by pinch hitter Dave Metkovich.

Poly was without regular second baseman Dennis Rodgers. Rodgers was hit in the left eye by a pitch off the pitching machine Monday and underwent surgery Tuesday.

MEETIN' & EATIN' at BETSY ROSS

By Gene Neighbors

Hi, Neighbors

We are always pleased to have somebody celebrate a birthday at Betsy Ross, but Sunday night, February 24th, we had an especiallly happy task EVELYN SHERMAN, waitress, told us of the party of 29 from St. Luke's School in Temple City, who drove over to Claremont Coffee Shoppe to celebrate the birthday of PATTI BUBICH, who was 14. How about that for a nostalgic sitch a wa shun?

Winners of half-gallons of ice cream at the Pomona Main Betsy Ross were MYRTLE ELLIOTT, SIDNEY CONE, HERMAN JELDEN, and JUETH GORGE, all of Pomona. Have you dropped your winning entry blank into the barrel for Your Free half-gallon? DEE LANDRELL of Pomona, and SANDY BRUINO of Chino were winners at the Pomona Valley Center Coffee Shoppe last week.

In Claremont there were ANN MORGAN of Fontana, JOHN MYRA, SAM LISKEY, MRS. H. O. BOVEY, and JACK SAPIENZA of Claremont and ILENE DONALDSON of San Dimas.

Upland Coffee Shoppe was the scene of a 9th birthday party for JOHN CHANDLER, given by his family. CHRISTY WOODS, 8, celebrated her birthday there with a party of seven.

We are properly proud of a former cook at Upland Betsy Ross, LELAND WARNICK, who made the Rick's College honor roll in Idaho, for which a 3.5 or above grade point average is required. Betsy Ross Upland salutes RICHARD ROGERS, lead fountain boy since our opening there, who is on honor roll at Claremont Mens College and is graduating in June with a degree in Economics. He produces and announces for K.S.P.C., the Claremont College radio station.

Upland winners of half-gallons of ice cream were NANCY ROLEDER, FRANCES BROCKIE, and JACKIE DINEEN of Upland, and MELODY BAKER of RIALTO. Glendora Coffee Shoppe announced its winners as CAROLYN PEARCY, of Azusa, MEILE WALDON and HOWARD BEEM of Glendora, and MARY LEWELLEN of Upland.

Well, folks, that's all the lucky names we have so far, but wait 'til next week . . . Wow! Hope ya see your name in this column.

Remember, even with the gasoline shortage, or whatever, there's a Betsy Ross near for you to enjoy. See you there?

About being neighborly, thank you KATHY EDGERTON.

French film to screen at Scripps

CLAREMONT — The controversial French film, "La Religieuse (The Nun)," will be shown in the Humanities Center Auditorium at Scripps College at 7:30 p.m. next Wednesday. Admission is free.

Based on Denis Diderot's novel of 18 Centrury convent life, the movie, in French with English subtitles, was made in 1965 but banned for two years by the French government because officials felt it was an extreme attack on the church.

Rock group to play at La Verne

LA VERNE — Champion, a six-man rock group, will present a concert in the new Student Center at La Verne College at 9 o'clock tonight. Tickets are $1.50 general, $1 for students.

The group was acclaimed last year as the top rock band in Southern Califonia by the committee selecting performers for the Newport Jazz Festival.

Recognized for their treatment of highly polished, low-key rock, Champion avoids the gimmicks of many contemporary groups, such as make-up and props.

During the evening guests will hear piano solos by Daniel Cabrera combined with Roddy Timbrook's artistry on percussion and David Demeter's on the drums.

Imogene Coca to perform in 'Prisoner'

SAN BERNARDINO — Neil Simon's comedy, "The Prisoner of Second Avenue," will be presented in the California Theater of Performing Arts at 8:15 p.m. Thursday.

The play, presented by Empire Productions, stars Imogene Coca and her husband, King Donovan.

"Prisoner" is the 11th of 12 Broadway hits by Simon, who also wrote "Barefoot in the Park," "The Odd Couple," "Plaza Suite," "Sweet Charity," "Promises, Promises," "Come Blow Your Horn" and "The Sunshine Boys."

Miss Coca and Donovan appeared on the California Theater stage in "You Know I Cant't Hear You When the Water's Running" several years ago.

One of television's leading comediennes during the 1950s, Miss Coca played opposite Sid Caesar on "Your Show of Shows." She won an Emmy for her performance in the "Sid Caesar, Imogene Coca, Carl Reiner, Howard Morris Show," and appeared in the series, "Grindle," and "It's About Time."

On Broadway she starred in "The Billy Rose Concert Revue," "Janus," and "The Girls in 509." She also toured in such hits as "Plaza Suite," "Once Upon a Mattress," "No, No Nanette," and "The Fourposter."

UC San Diego to stage play at Pomona

CLAREMONT — The drama department of UC San Diego will present Lorca's "Blood Wedding" in Holmes Hall, Pomona College, at 8 p.m. Friday.

The 20-member cast, directed by Michael Addison, associate professor of drama, currently is completing its run at UCSD before departing on a one-week tour of Southern California colleges. Pomona College is one of four colleges where the players will perform the Lorca play.

Due to the nature of the three-act play no seating will be permitted after a performance beings. Admission is $2.50 general and $1 for students. Tickets are available at the Bridges Auditorium box office, and the Pomona College drama department.

"Blood Wedding" is the story of a young girl in love with a man who is poor. Her father refuses to let them marry. The young man marries someone else and the girl's father later arranges for her to marry the son of the wealthiest woman in the village. The bride runs away on her wedding night with her former love; the groom pursues, and the two men kill each oher.

Soprano schedules recital

CLAREMONT — Soprano Belinda Busteed, a Scripps College senior, will present a recital in Pattison Hall at 8:15 p.m. Sunday.

Miss Busteed, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Busteed of Pasadena, has been studying voice with Val Stuart, assistant professor of voice, and piano with Audrey Grigsby, assistant professor of music.

For her senior recital, she will sing three songs by Purcell; five songs by Greig — four in Norwegian and one in German; Mahler's "Songs of a Wayfarer"; two French songs; Bernstein's "La Bonne Cuisine" and Mary Howe's "Hokku Songs." She will be accompanied by Scripps freshman Karen Clark on the piano.

"AMERICAN GRAFFITI" (2-B)

In a man's world

Television has discovered women--at last

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Television has discovered women.

I'd better explain that.

It used to be that almost all the authority figures in video were men.

That meant behind the cameras as well as in front of them.

Despite television's women stars, the home medium was essentially a man' world.

And though men still hold most of the cards in video, things are definitely changing.

Once upon a time, for instance, you almost never saw glamorous women reporting serious news events on television.

Now there are quite a few such reporters, and it certainly makes the bad news a lot nicer.

Production of programs was another video area in which women's names were virtually never heard or seen.

But now there are plenty of women's names turning up in the behind-the-scenes credits.

We see women listed as writers much more than before. Every so often there is also a woman producer or director.

And these breakthroughs are really just in their initial stages.

In the old days, women work executives were all but unheard of. And there still aren't too many. But they are coming on in this area too.

The fact is, television might be a lot livelier and more up-to-date if modern women controlled more programming jobs at the networks.

I'm personally looking forward to the day when there is a woman network president.

Television is trying to offer more contemporary views of women in its programming.

From westerns to stories set in the present, women have more authoritative roles than before—though still not enough.

But one problem is that they generally continue to reflect the values of a man's world— because video remains male dominated.

Television's basic position is: Uphold the status quo.

So minorities—and women are one minority in video—are given the semblance of new freedom in portrayals, but usually through traditional eyes.

In short, the status quo is still where the plots take women and other minorities in most cases.

And the traditional view comes from most of the men in charge of the networks.

There should be more women in direct and absolute control of programs trying to present realistic views of women.

This should especially be the case regarding programs that attempt portrayals of the new breed of women.

Most men tend to fantasize about the realities concerning women — the new breed and others.

It's no wonder the women's liberation movement struck a responsive chord even among females who are not basically militant.

Did women's lib have an important effect on television? Did it affect the network attitude toward women in fictional portrayals, production and corporate roles?

You bet it did.

And it will have a lot more effect.

Some people may think it's not ladylike to go on the attack.

But it's one of the only ways to get a television network to change its practices.

Organist to offer recital at church

POMONA — Dr. Ralph R. Travis, organist of the La Verne Church of the Brethren, will present an organ recital at the Pilgrim Congregational Church at 12:15 p.m. Friday.

The program will include Fanfare on "Old Hundredth" by Clarence Parker; Choral Prelude on an Old English Folk Tune by William Blanchard, Tone Peom by Mildred Turney, Adagio in the Sowerby Style by Travis, Variations on "Liebster Jesu" by Loren Adiar, "Quiet Piece" by Gail Kubik, and Prelude and Fugue by Donald Jones Jr.

Traivs is the retired head of the music department of La Verne College. A graduate of Jamestown College, N.D., he studied organ with Gaston Dethier at the Institute of Musical Arts, New York, with Marcel Dupre at the University of Chicago, and with Clarence Mader in Los Angeles.

Travis is past dean of the Pasadena chapter of the American Guild of Organists and past president of the Musicians' Club of Pomona Valley.

Dist. attorney kills himself

GREENSBURG, Pa. (UPI) — Allegheny County District Attorney Robert Duggan was found dead of a gunshot wound today shortly before he was indicted by a federal grand jury at Pittsburgh on eight counts of income tax fraud.

State Police Capt. Robert Hauth said Duggan apparently took his own life.

Duggan, 48, district attorney of Allegheny County for the past nine years, was indicted on charges of failing to report more than $137,000 in income for the years 1967 through 1970.

He was found dead of a revolver wound on the head at his summer home in nearby Ligonier.

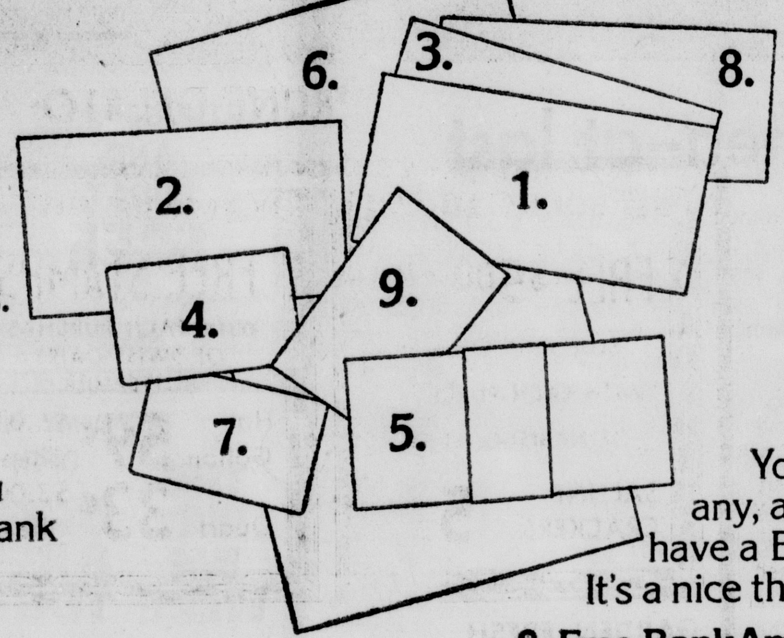
Everything you ever wanted in a checking plan for only $2 a month.



We'd like to make things easier for you. That's why we've combined our most useful services in one checking account. The All-in-One Checking Plan. You pay a flat fee of only $2 a month. No fluctuating charges. No minimum balance. Write all the checks you want.

No filling out separate applications for separate services. One application does the job at Bank of America.

Look at what you get:

1. Unlimited checkwriting.
You're not charged according to the number of checks you write. Write one or a hundred. The ceiling's unlimited at Bank of America.

2. No minimum balance.
Unlike some plans, your service charge doesn't go up when your balance goes down. There's no extra charge whatever your balance.

3. Free personalized checks.
And we mean exactly that. You don't have to pay extra for your personalized checks. Free personalized checks with your name and address are included in the deal. As well as any design you choose from our wide selection of colorful checks.

4. Check guarantee card.
This is probably the handiest I.D. card you can carry. It makes it quicker to cash checks at any Bank of America office. Thousands of merchants honor it. Our Courtesy Card (that's our name for it) says your check is good up to $100.

5. Overdraft protection.
No more worry about bounced checks. With the All-in-One Checking Plan you get Instant Cash. For a small transfer fee you can write a check for more than you have in your account up to the limit of your available BankAmericard® credit.

6. The Timesaver® Statement.
This is the checking statement that makes it easier to balance your checkbook. It lists your checks in numerical order—even indicates those checks which haven't come in yet.

You can also have it include a summary of your savings accounts and other information if you wish. You can tell at a glance where you stand.

7. BankAmericard.®
Once your application is approved, you also get our credit card—the biggest boon to everyday shopping. It's good throughout California, the United States and all over the world.

One monthly bill helps you keep track of expenses. You write only one check. (Interest and other charges, if any, are not included in the $2 monthly fee.) If you already have a BankAmericard, you know it's good for cash, too. It's a nice thing to have even if you never use it.

8. Free BankAmerica Travelers Cheques.
They're safer than cash. You get a prompt refund anywhere in the world if they are lost, stolen or destroyed.

Use as many as you want as often as you want. With the All-in-One Checking Plan you pay no additional service charge for Travelers Cheques.

9. Automatic Transfer Service. (optional)
It's a little like organized willpower. Makes regular savings deposits or loan payments for you automatically, from your Bank of America checking account. Saves time, simplifies things. Especially helpful when you're ill or out of town.

You can apply for an All-in-One Checking Plan at any Bank of America office. Come in and see us for additional information on this plan. We can do more for you than any other bank. More Californians depend on us for all their checking needs. How about you?

Make ice cream like the Italians

On street corners of Venice, Florence or whatever Italian city one picks as favorite, vendors sell gelati (ice cream) that wins accolades from travelers.

Whether through first-hand tasting or from reading travel literature, fans everywhere affirm that Italian ice cream is the best. The warm climate of the city of Naples has led its chefs to develop further ice cream variations that have won gastronomic fame, one of them being the natural fruit flavored ices.

To make a unique frozen Italian Prune Gelato, midway between a water ice and a sherbet, can be a relatively simple home project that offers delicious results. No special equipment is needed, just reserve space in the freezer section.

Pick a day when errands will not take you from the house for longer than two hours, about the time needed for the basic mixture to freeze to a mushy state. At this point the remaining ingredients are beaten, combined and the gelato is returned to the freezer, which does all further work of freezing the delicate dessert.

Sauterne wine, orange and lemon juice are the liquid basis of the ice, with chopped pitted California prunes adding texture and flavor contrast. Stiffly beaten egg whites are blended in before the final freezing.

Prunes are popular in Italy, too, where they often find their way into cookies and pastry specialties. Since prunes are an excellent source of minerals and vitamins, such as the essential vitamin B group, their addition to this light dessert brings in a bit of extra nutrition that health-conscious homemakers will approve.

ITALIAN PRUNE LATO

½ cup sugar
1 cup water
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
Grated rind and juice of 1 lemon
2 cups orange juice
4 cups sauterne wine
2 egg whites
¼ cup sugar
2 teaspoons vanilla
2 cups chopped pitted prunes

In a small saucepan mix sugar and water and cook at a boil for 5 minutes. Stir gelatin into rind and lemon juice. Stir gelatin into hot syrup. Stir in orange juice and sauterne. Pour into a freezer container and freeze for about 2 hours or until mushy.

Remove from freezer and beat until fluffy. Beat egg whites until stiff. Beat in sugar, 1 tablespoon at a time until mixture is stiff and glossy. Fold egg whites and vanilla and prunes into frozen mixture. Replace in freezer container, cover and freeze until hard.

PRUNE GELATO

St. Paul plans opera season

ST. PAUL Minn. (UPI) — The Saint Paul Opera Association's 1974 Summer Festival will feature Bizet's "Carmen", Puccini's "Gianni Schicchi" with "The Happy Prince" by William Fisher, Massenet's "Manon", the American premiere of Werner Egk's "Engagement in Santo Domingo", and Wagner's "Siegfried."

"Engagement in Santo Domingo," which is being translated from the German, deals with a slave uprising in French Haiti around 1803.

Tangerine smuggling problem in Russia

If you are a tangerine lover, be thankful you are living in the United States and not in Russia. According to an Associated Press news release, illegal merchandising of tangerines is causing a serious problem this year. The fruit-starved Russian citizens would gladly pay 53 cents for one kilogram (2.2 pounds) of tangerines, which is what they would cost in Russia if they could find them in their state-operated markets.

However, they cannot and so must go to the free market where they are willing to pay as much as $4 for the same amount. Russian tangerine growers at the collective farms are using ingenious methods of smuggling. One had stashed the precious fruit in barrels marked "Fish Paste".

Another had hidden more than seven tons under a layer of gravel in a dump truck. Existing scarcity of fresh fruits is a real Russian problem.

The U.S. consumers have only one problem: Which tangerine variety they prefer. They are currently enjoying the familiar Kinnow and Minneola variety of tangerine. Both are plentiful and reasonable in price.

In addition to these two favorite western-grown varieties, consumers are discovering a new tangerine treat in their markets-the Temple. With their thin skins, juiciness and exotic flavor, Temples are enjoying a wider market exposure. Their acceptance by consumers over the past few years has caused more growers to plant this increasingly popular tangerine in California and Arizona.

Because it takes five years before a citrus tree begins bearing fruit in profitable marketing quantities, consumers can expect to find Temples more and more as well as a continuing supply of Minneolas and Kinnows. The Temple is recognized by its vibrant red-orange and slightly rough peel. It is round with a flat stem end and is fairly easy to peel. It is packed with juice that has the tart sweet flavor of tangerines, but with its own unusual flavor personality.

Be sure to ask the produce man if he's carrying Temples. After you've tasted them you'll look forward to their yearly appearance. The desert growing area will be shipping during January and February and will be followed by coastal and interior groves supplying Temples during March.

Soda bread for Irish celebration

What better way to observe St. Patrick's Day than to have at the ready some tasty Irish Soda Bread? This goes well with a hearty Irish stew, of course, or some corned beef and cabbage for those who take the wearing of the green seriously.

IRISH SODA BREAD

4 cups unsifted flour
2 teaspoons baking soda
2 teaspoons salt
2 teaspoons sugar
1¼ teaspoons caraway seeds
½ cup dark seedless raisins
¼ cup chopped peanuts
1½ cups buttermilk
1 tablespoon milk

In large bowl mix together flour, baking soda, salt, sugar, caraway seeds, raisins and chopped peanuts. Make a hole in dry mixture and pour in buttermilk, mixing from the sides to form a ball of dough. Turn out onto floured board and knead about 5 minutes. Shape into a ball. Place on ungreased baking sheet. With a sharp knife, make a shallow cross-shaped slit across the top of the loaf. Brush with milk. Bake at 400 degrees for 50 minutes, or until done. Makes 1 loaf.

Antique milk bottle

The quart milk bottle is becoming a relic of yesterday. More than 80 per cent of America's fluid milk is now sold in paper or plastic cartons and nearly nine out of ten are half-gallon and gallon sizes.

CHEESY CORN OLE

Vegetables, often the quiet corner on a plate, can add a bright note to any meal. Their unique shapes, sizes and textures, as well as their bright colors, can take the ho-hum out of dinner. Here is a vegetable dish in the Spanish mood, a welcome dish to the table and a welcome addition to the recipe file. Cook a 10-ounce package of whole kernel corn frozen in butter sauce, according to directions on the package. In saucepan, saute until tender a 2½-ounce jar of sliced mushrooms, ¼ cup diced onion and ½ cup diced celery in 2 tablespoons butter. Add ¼ cup sliced, stuffed olives and 1-3rd cup diced pasteurized process cheese spread. Stir until heated through and cheese is melted. Serves 3 or 4.

HOT FRANKFURTER SALAD

Core, rinse and drain large head of lettuce, then refrigerate. Blend 1½ tablespoons flour, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1 tablespoon seasoned salt, ½ teaspoon onion powder, ½ teaspoon dry mustard, ¼ teaspoon caraway seed and dash of white pepper in double boiler or small pan. Add 1 beaten egg and stir in scant cup of beer. Gradually stir in 2 tablespoons vinegar and cook about 5 minutes until thickened. Add 1 tablespoon butter. Cut 8 thin wedges of lettuce and arrange on salad plates. Heat 4 frankfurters, split lengthwise and arrange between lettuce wedges with thin slices cut from a red apple. Serve with the dressing which has been kept warm or covered well and chilled. This will make 4 servings.

Phthalates no hazard, technologists claim

"The present use of phthalates in food packaging appears to present no health hazard to consumers," according to a Scientific Status Summary released here by the Institute of Food Technologists.

"Human experience over a quarter of a century of use suggests an extremely low toxic potential," the summary points out. Phthalates are used in the food industry only as additives to plastic packaging materials that may come into contact with certain foods. Thus, the IFT Summary concludes, "Phthalates could enter the food supply only in minute quantities by migration from the package to the food involved, or as contaminants from the environment."

The Institute is a scientific professional society representing 12,000 scientists and engineers working in all areas of food management from harvest or slaughter to consumption. The current report is one of a series produced by IFT's Expert Panel on Food Safety and Nutrition.

The report describes the use of phthalates as plasticizers, used primarily to make vinyl plastics more flexible and versatile. Phthalate-modified vinyl plastics are widely used in construction, home appliances, apparel and transportation. The total annual production of phthalates is in the neighborhood of a billion pounds; food-related packaging materials consume about two percent of this total.

The majority of plastic food packaging film uses other, non-phthalate modified materials, including polyethylene, polypropylene and polystyrene. Hence, the report points out, "The amount of vinyl packaging materials used by the food industry is relatively minor," although it goes on to point out that the reasons for this are principally economic, and not related to the presence or absence of phthalates.

Fried liver is dish fit for royalty

Fried liver with onions and mushrooms becomes Beef Liver Stroganoff when sour cream is added. This is a main dish fit for royalty. In fact, it was named by a 19th century Russian diplomat, Count Paul Stroganoff.

Flavor, nutrition and easy preparation make this a 3-star solution to the puzzle of what to serve family or guests. Including beef liver once a week in the menu plan will help insure that needed nutrients are provided. That's because liver is an excellent food source of protein and iron. It's also a good source of vitamin A, riboflavin and niacin.

The savory combination of crispy thin sliced liver, sauteed onions and mushrooms in sour cream can be served equally well over cooked rice or noodles. Buttered beets, a tossed salad with Russian dressing and hot rolls will complete the main course. For dessert, try fruit compote alone or over ice cream or pound cake.

BEEF LIVER STROGANOFF

1 pound beef liver
Flour
Salt and pepper
½ stick (¼ cup) butter or margarine
½ cup sliced onions
½ cup sliced mushrooms
1 cup sour cream at room temperature
Cooked rice

Cut liver into 1 inch strips. Dip in flour and season with salt and pepper. Melt butter in large heavy skillet. Lightly saute onions and mushrooms. Add liver and brown on all sides. Cover and cook over low heat about 10 minutes. Blend in sour cream and serve over cooked rice.

Round them up with coffee cake

The fragrance of Granola Coffee Cake baking is bound to bring the whole family to the breakfast table.

For natural foods fans, the bread-like "cake" is made with whole wheat flour. The glorious Granola Topping is crunchy with slivered almonds. Serve with bacon or cheese and fresh fruit for a highly nutritious — and delicious — breakfast or brunch.

GRANOLA COFFEE CAKE

1 and 2-3rds cup whole wheat flour
¼ cup brown sugar (packed)
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 egg
1 and 1-3rd cups milk
¼ cup vegetable oil
Granola Topping (recipe below)

Mix flour, sugar, baking powder and salt in bowl. Beat egg with milk and oil in another bowl, then mix into flour mixture, stirring just until blended. Pour into oiled 8-inch square pand and sprinkle Granola Topping over. Bake at 375 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes or until a pick inserted into center comes out dry. Serve warm.

GRANOLA TOPPING: This may be prepared the night before; if so, refrigerate overnight. Mix ¼ cup whole wheat flour with ½ cup brown sugar (packed) ½ cup granola, ½ cup slivered almonds and ¼ cup melted margarine. Add some cut up prunes or raisins if you wish. Makes 9 servings.

Breakfast can be a luxury with these hot breads

Hot bread adds a touch of luxury to any breakfast. Try these hot breads featuring peanuts and peanut butter. The U. S. Department of Agriculture reports that peanuts and peanut products are in good supply through March.

PEANUT CRESCENTS

1 package crescent rolls
1 cup toasted ground peanuts
½ cup orange juice
9 marshmallows
½ cup brown sugar
Glaze:
½ cup orange juice
½ cup peanuts
½ cup brown sugar

Roll marshmallows in orange juice, brown sugar and then peanuts. Wrap with the crescent rolls. Bake for about 10 minutes at 375 degrees. While still hot, top with glaze made by mixing together orange juice, peanuts and brown sugar. Makes 12 rolls.

PEANUT BUTTER-BACON BREAD

½ pound bacon, cooked and crumbled
2 cups flour, sifted
1 cup sugar
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup peanut butter
1 teaspoon butter, melted
1 cup milk
1 egg slightly beaten
1 cup chopped peanuts

Cook and drain bacon; crumble into small pieces. Sift together flour, sugar, baking powder and salt. Cut in peanut butter until it is consistency of corn meal. Combine butter, milk and egg. Pour into peanut butter mixture and mix thoroughly. Stir in crumbled bacon and chopped peanuts. Pour into a greased and floured 9x5x3-inch loaf pan. Let stand 20 minutes. Bake at 325 degrees 1 hour and 15 minutes, or until loaf tests done. Cool on rack. Makes 1 loaf.

PEANUT BUTTER CINNAMON TOAST

½ cup peanut butter
½ cup dark brown sugar
1 tablespoon butter
½ teaspoon cinnamon
6 to 8 slices bread

Combine all ingredients except bread. Spread on bread and toast in 400-degree oven about 8 minutes or until bottom of bread is brown. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

PEANUT BUTTER MUFFINS

1 cup milk
1 egg, slightly beaten
¼ cup oil or melted fat
2 cups flour, unsifted
1 tablespoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
¼ cup sugar
½ cup peanut butter

After preheating oven 400 degrees and greasing muffin tin, blend milk into egg and add fat. Mix dry ingredients thoroughly; mix in peanut butter only until mixture is crumbly.

Add liquid and mix slightly, leaving batter lumpy. Half fill muffin tin with batter and bake 20 to 25 minutes, or until golden brown. Makes 12 muffins.

The fries have it

Whether it's french fries, crinkle cuts, shoestrings, potato puffs, or potato patties, Americans are eating more frozen potato products than ever before.

In 1954 we ate less than half a pound of frozen potato products per person. Today, the average American eats over ten pounds a year. In fact, more potatoes are frozen than any other vegetable.

Some of the new types of potato products—such as preformed patties and puffs—are increasingly popular, but the traditional fries are still by far the favorite.

When buying frozen french fries, look for the grade name on the package. "U. S. Grade A" or "U. S. Fancy" fries are the very best in color, size, shape, and texture. You may find packages marked "Grade A" or "fancy" without the U. S. prefix. These should meet the same standards as packages marked "U. S. Grade A" or "U. S. Fancy", but the U. S. designation is extra assurance of quality. It means a grader from the U. S. Department of Agriculture has inspected the product and certified its quality for you. Although there are two other general levels of quality—Grades B and C—these are not usually seen in retail stores.

Neither federal grading nor grade labeling are mandatory.

If there is no grade designation on the label and the french fries are in see-through packages, you can check the quality yourself—using some of the criteria that USDA graders use. The best fries are a uniform, light color. The pieces are uniform in width—not necessary in length—and have few, if any, dark spots or other defects.

Texture can be checked only by heating the product. Federal graders make this check and you can too. When the french fries are heated they should be moderately crisp on the surface, cooked throughout, tender and not soggy.

When heating frozen french fries, it is important to follow the directions on the package. Time and temperature are very important. If frozen french fries are not prepared properly, the results are likely to be unsatisfactory even if they were top quality to begin with.

This is particularly true when you are using a deep fat fryer. If you have a small deep fat fryer, be sure to cook only a small batch of frozen french fries at a time. Let the oil heat up between batches. Low oil temperatures will cause the french fries to become soggy and to cook improperly.

The oven method is the simplest and most often-used method of cooking french fries at home. Be sure the oven has reached the proper temperature before putting in the french fries. Overcooking—either in the oven or in a deep fat fryer—makes the french fries too crisp. Serve them promptly after preparation.

For those who prefer deep-fat-fried french frfies but don't want to bother with a deep fat fryer, there is an alternative heating method. Put the frozen french fries in a skillet with just enough oil to cover the bottom of the pan. Keep shaking the frying pan—as you would for popcorn—until the frozen french fries reach the desired color. Then, before serving, blot them with paper towels to get rid of excess oil.

FRESH SPINACH TIPS

A delightful change of pace in salads and a welcome cooked vegetable, fresh spinach is in good supply right now. To help you choose the highest quality — follow these tips from the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Marketing Service:

Look for fresh, young, crisp leaves which have a good green color.

Avoid spinach with coarse leaves, fibrous stems, yellowish-green in color, or in a wilted condition.

To prepare spinach cut off root ends and any damaged leaves. Wash at least three times to remove sand. Refrigerate in plastic bag.

Use within 1 to 2 days for highest quality.

Try these spinach ideas:

SAVORY SPINACH SQUARES

2-3rds cup milk

½ cup minced onions
2 tablespoons dry parsley flakes
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1½ teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon thyme
½ teaspoon nutmeg
2 pounds fresh spinach, cooked and chopped

Panel to seek cuts in Nixon military budget

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., said that the Senate Appropriations Committee would try to cut $3.5 billion from President Nixon's $85.6 billion military budget.

McClellan, chairman of the committee, stressed in opening hearings on the Pentagon's request that reductions would be made "only when we are convinced they can be made without unduly diminishing or weakening defense posture."

Detente with the Soviet Union does not "relieve us of the need to maintain a strong defense," said McClellan.

"We must not equate or confuse detente with disarament. Even with detente we must maintain —pending hopes for effective arms limitation agreements —a military force that provides a sufficient deterrent to insure peace and our security."

Guild honors Martha Raye

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Martha Page has been awarded the Screen Actors Guild Award "for outstanding achievement in fostering the finest ideals of the acting profession" for her part in entertaining U. S. troops in Vietnam during the late war.

Something new for corn on cob

One of the most pleasurable taste sensations is crunching along buttery rows of fresh, sweet corn on the cob. During the winter-spring season, corn grown in Florida reaches many major markets to make corn on the cob is to coat it with an herb seasoned bread crumb mixture and bake it.

CRUMBLED CORN

6 ears fresh corn
¼ cup butter or margarine
1 teaspoon salt
¾ cup packaged flavored dry bread crumbs

Remove husks and silks from corn. Set aside. In a medium saucepan melt butter. Stir in salt. Sprinkle bread crumbs on waxed paper. Brush each piece of corn with salted butter. Then roll in crumb mixture. Place on a rack in a shallow open pan. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven for 15 minutes or until corn is cooked. Makes 6 portions.

From boxes to table in a jiffy

The tempting smell of freshly baked, banana walnut bread is a welcome addition to any coffee klatsch or holiday activity. It can be baked and frozen until needed.

This special taste treat begins with convenient, banana walnut cake mix and takes only minutes to assemble for baking.

The bread is baked in a copper, aluminum foil tube pan; it can be reheated in the container and served warm with a cinnamon glaze dripping alluringly down the sides.

Have whipped cream cheese and butter on hand, too, for accompaniments to the bread.

If a strong banana taste is desired, add mashed bananas to the quick, convenient recipe.

CINNAMON GLAZED BANANA BREAD

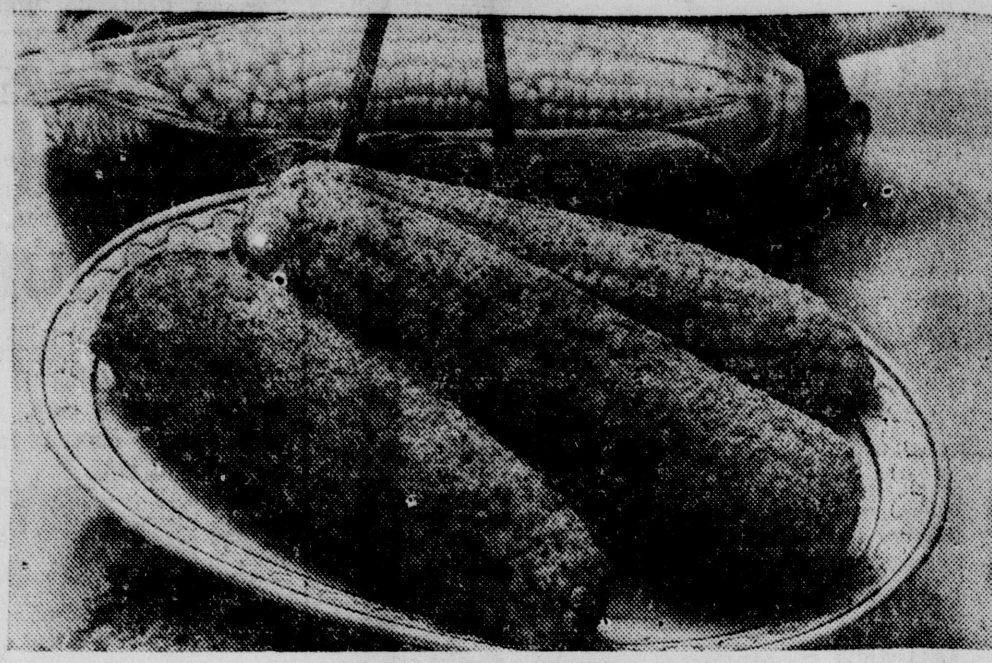
2 boxes (14.5 ounces each) banana walnut cake mix
1½ teaspoons baking powder
2¼ cups water
1¼ cups flour
3 eggs

CINNAMON GLAZE

2 cups sifted confectioners' sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons soft margarine or butter
2 to 3 tablespoons milk
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
8 English walnut halves

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Empty two boxes of cake mix into a large mixing bowl. Add baking powder, water, flour and then eggs in center of mix. Beat vigorously for almost 3 minutes with fork until the batter is of uniform color and consistency. Pour batter into aluminum foil bundtform pan. Bake in 350 degree oven for about 1 hour, 15 minutes. Prior to serving, combine glaze ingredients and spoon on cake allowing glaze to drip down sides. Decorate top with walnut halves. Yields 16 to 20 servings.

Ice-laden Greenland got its name from Eric the Red, as a bit of real estate promotion to induce immigration.



MUNCH CORN

A new twist for an old favorite

Almond-Orange Cake is essentially an upside down cake, but unlike most, this one is split and filled with a pleasing piquant filling flavored with fresh orange juice and rind.

The crunchy topping is made with butter, sugar and roasted diced almonds. All in all, this is a delicious, homey cake that seems just right for a spring-like day.

ALMOND-ORANGE CAKE

Butter or margarine
Sugar
1-3rd cup diced almonds, roasted
1½ cups sifted cake flour
1½ teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon vanilla
2 eggs
½ cup milk

Orange Filling

2 eggs, beaten
½ cup sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
¼ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons grated orange rind
1 cup orange juice

Melt 1 tablespoon butter in bottom of 9-inch square baking pan. Sprinkle with 1 tablespoon sugar and the almonds. Sift flour with baking powder and salt. Cream 1-3rd cup butter with 1 cup sugar; add vanilla and eggs, then beat well. Add flour mixture alternately with milk, beating well after each addition. Pour batter carefully over almond mixture in pan. Bake at 375 degrees 25 to 30 minutes. Turn out onto wire rack to cool. Split cooled cake crosswise into 2 layers. Spread Orange Filling between layers.

ORANGE FILLING: In a saucepan, combine eggs, sugar, cornstarch and salt. Stir in orange rind and juice. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until filling comes to boil and is thickened. Cool. Makes 9 servings.

Coed sues station for not delivering

SANTA MONICA (UPI) — A suit was filed in Superior Court here Monday by a Long Beach State College coed alleging fraud and breach of contract by radio station KROQ for not delivering a car she allegedly won in a contest.

Kathy McKenzie, 18, of Westchester, named the station and its executive officer, Gary Bookasta, in the suit. She is seeking $10,000 in general damages and $10,000 in punitive damages.

The suit said the station refused to deliver a new Mazda to her, but offered her either a less expensive model or a cash settlement instead.

Beware of the 'infamous four' in food poisoning

You don't feel good. Your stomach is upset. You have abdominal pains, diarrhea, perhaps a headache.

You may think you are coming down with a cold or the flu. That's possible. But, it's also possible you have fallen victim to one of the "infamous four."

These are four common causes of food poisoning — Salmonella, Clostridium perfringens, Staphylococcus, and Clostridium botulinum. Don't be floored by big names. They are simple, little bacteria organisms — one-celled organisms that multiply by dividing. To divide they need food, warmth, and moisture.

These bacteria may be present in all foods because they are everywhere in the environment. It's up to you to protect yourself and your family from them.

The "infamous four" can cause illness or in extreme cases even death.

Many people from the farmer through the retailer work to protect you from these bacteria. The U.S. Department of Agriculture or a state agency inspects your meat and poultry for wholesomeness. The Food and Drug Administration inspects plants where all other foods are produced.

But, from the supermarket shelf to the dinner table you are the one responsible for protecting your food. Your responsibility begins in the supermarket. Don't buy any food in containers — cans or packages — that are outdated, broken, bent, or leaky. Especially avoid bulging cans — the food could contain lethal botulism toxin. Let the store manager know there is something wrong so that he can take the package or can off the shelf.

Another thing you can do in the supermarket is to make sure meat, poultry, and frozen foods are kept cold. Buy them last so they don't warm up or defrost in the cart while shopping.

Make the grocery store your last stop so you can go right home. On arriving home, immediately put your meat and poultry in the refrigerator, which should be at 40 degrees, or in the freezer at 0 degrees. Put frozen foods in the freezer right away. This prevents any bacteria in the food from growing.

When you take your fresh meat, poultry, or frozen foods out to cook, don't do any favors for the "infamous four." Thaw them in the refrigerator, or cook them frozen. If you must thaw in a hurry, do so in a water-tight plastic bag submerged in cold water.

Never thaw frozen food uncovered on a kitchen counter at room temperature. Remember, there are bacteria everywhere, and room temperature lets them grow.

The way the "infamous four" usually strike in the home is through cross-contamination. Since the bacteria are killed under proper cooking temperatures, an illness from cross-contamination can take the right precautions. Here's how that can happen:

Your chicken has been thawed and you have cut it up on your cutting board. You put the chicken into the frying pan and began preparing your other foods. If you use the same knife and cutting board without first washing the utensils and your hands in soap and hot water, you could contaminate whatever else you prepare.

Pets are also carriers of the "infamous four" bacteria. After handling pets, wash your hands before working with food. Don't allow pet feeding dishes, toys, or bedding in the kitchen. Don't let pets touch food, utensils, or food-working surfaces.

Here are some details about the "infamous four":

Salmonella (sal, mo-nel, a) is one of the most common causes of food poisoning. While it is not often fatal, it is widespread. More than two million cases of illness from Salmonella poisoning are believed to occur in the U.S. each year.

Salmonella is most commonly found in raw meats, poultry, eggs, milk, fish, and products made from them. Other sources can be pets, such as dogs, cats, turtles, birds, and fish.

There is no way to tell by looking at, tasting, or smelling the food whether Salmonella germs are present. To avoid them, however, do not handle the food excessively and keep it below 40 degrees or above 140 degrees.

Salmonella germs in food are destroyed by heat. So, use a meat thermometer and cook food thoroughly. You can have your beef rare and Salmonella free.

Also, heat leftovers thoroughly. Broth and gravies should be brought to a rolling boil for several minutes when reheating.

Symptoms of Salmonella infection are fever, headache, diarrhea, abdominal discomfort, and occasionally vomiting. These appear in 24 hours after eating contaminated food. Most poeple recover in two to four days. Children under 4, elderly people, and people already weakened by disease could become seriously ill.

Clostridium perfingens (klos-trid' i-um per-fringe'-ins) is widely distributed in nature — in the soil, dust, on food, and in the intestinal tracts of man and other warmblooded animals. They are more widespread over the earth than any other disease-causing micro-organism.

Disease outbreaks frequently occur when foods are held in large quanitities at improper temperatures for several hours or overnight. Perfringens outbreaks are closely associated with restaurants or other large feeding establishments where foods are held for long periods of time on steam tables or other warming devices.

To avoid perfringens, meats should be properly cooked, held hot (above 140 degrees) and served hot. If you cook meat for later use, cool the meat rapidly in small containers in a refrigerator to 40 degrees or below. Thoroughly reheat leftover meats or meat dishes before serving — and bring leftover gravy to a rolling boil before serving. Maintain cold cuts and cold sliced meats below 40 degrees and serve them cold.

Large numbers of perfringens bacteria can cause diarrhea and abdominal pain in from four to 22 hours — usually in about 12 hours.

Staphylococcus (staf' y-lo-kok' us) — known as staph — is quite common. Staph organisms are in your respiratory passages and on your skin. They usually enter food from a human or an animal.

Staph germs grow in a wide variety of foods — all meats, poultry and egg products, egg, tuna, chicken, potato, or macaroni salads, cream filled pastries, and sandwich fillings. If staph germs are allowed to multiply to high levels, they form a toxin which you cannot boil or bake away.

Symptoms of staph food poisoning are diarrhea, vomiting, and abdominal cramps. They appear two to four hours after eating and may bother you for 24 to 48 hours. Staph food poisoning is rarely fatal.

Clostridium botulinum (klos-trid' i-um bot' u-li' num), while rare, is usually fatal. A tiny amount of the toxin poison from botulism germs can kill you. Botulism spores are found throughout the environment and are harmless. However, in the proper environment, and when not destroyed by heat, the spores divide and produce poisonous toxins. When you eat food containing the toxin, you can become ill or die. Heat makes the toxin harmless.

Only five deaths from botulism in commercially canned foods have been reported since 1925. But poisoning from home-canned foods happens more often. About 700 people have died from botulism since 1925 from eating contaminateed home-canned products.

Still more food poison information

Undercooking is the real culprit in home-canning. In general, high acid foods may be canned by boiling; but all other, including meats and poultry, should be canned in pressure cookers at the appropriate heat level for the required length of time.

Signs of botulism poisoning begin 12 to 36 hours after eating the food. They include double vision, inability to swallow, speech difficulty, and progressive paralysis of the respiratory system.

Medical help must be obtained fast. If botulism is suspected, call your doctor immediately.

To guard against botulism, inspect all food containers before opening and serving — whether commercially canned or home canned. Avoid food in containers with leaky seals, and bent, broken, or bulging cans. Do not taste the contents! Do not even open a bulging can. It takes only a small amount of botulism toxin to be fatal.

Salmonella, perfringens, and staphylococcus are invisible and can be detected only by a bacteriological test. Botulism may provide its own clues in canned foods. Bulging cans, an off color, unusual odor, or suspect appearance are the tipoff. If in doubt: Don't eat it; don't even taste it! If it's home-canned, throw it away where no person or animal can get to it. Save any commercially canned product you may suspect and report it to the Food and Drug Administration, or your local public health officials.

The "infamous four" are everywhere, but with proper food handling practices, you can prevent them from causing illness in your home.

Paris crash the first for jumbo jets

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — The crash of a Turkish Airlines Jetliner Sunday near Paris was the first fatal crash of a DC10 produced by McDonnell Douglas Corp. of St. Louis.

All 344 persons aboard the wide-bodied plane were killed in the worst air disaster in history.

The 130 DC10s in service across the world have carried 23 million passengers and logged 185 million miles since the plane was first introduced in 1971, a McDonnell spokesman said this week.

The Trijet Transport has a cruise speed in excess of 600 miles an hour and can accommodate up to 345 passengers. The 182-foot-long plane costs about $20 million.

The jetliner is produced in Long Beach, Calif., by the Douglas Aircraft CO. division of McDonnell Douglas. Major components and parts are provided by an international network of subcontractors and other suppliers.

The McDonnell spokesman denied "categorically" a British press report that since August 1972 DC10s in service were being inspected with Xray equipment after every 30 takeoffs. The inspections reportedly were carried out because of two incidents in which the tail-mounted DC10 engines shattered in flight.

The spokesman acknowledged that some airlines may be conducting such tests on their own without McDonnell's knowledge, but said the company has received "no complaints about the engines."

Queen honors movie producer

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Producer Hal B. Wallis, hollywood veteran of more than 400 movies, has been honored by Queen Elizabeth II. The Queen recently made Wallis an Honorary Commander of the Order of the British Empire.

bined with butter, onion, parsley flakes, Worcestershire sauce, salt, thyme and nutmeg. Mix well. Combine remaining ingredients; add egg mixture and mix well. Pour into a greased, shallow, 2-quart baking dish. Bake in a 325 degree oven about 1 hour. Cut into squares and serve. Makes 8 servings.

SPINACH SALAD WITH BACON DRESSING

6 slices bacon
1 tablespoon sugar
2 teaspoons cornstarch
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon reserved bacon drippings
¼ cup mayonnaise
½ cup water
¼ cup wine vinegar
2 tablespoons minced onion
1 10 ounce bag fresh spinach, washed and torn into bite-size pieces
¾ cup fresh mushrooms, washed and sliced
2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped

Cook bacon until crisp and reserve drippings. Blend sugar, cornstarch, salt and pepper into reserved drippings in skillet, then blend in mayonnaise. Combine water and vinegar. Slowly stir into mixture in skillet. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, 3 to 5 minutes or just until bubbly. Sprinkle onion and bacon over spinach. Add mushrooms and egg; pour in dressing and toss until spinach is well coated. Serve immediately. Makes 5 servings.

COOKING WITH PEANUTS

Here's a tip for using peanuts in cooking: Because peanuts absorb moisture readily, to retain their crispness always add peanuts to the other ingredients just before serving, or sprinkle the peanuts on top of the dish at the last moment prior to serving.

When is a nut not a nut? Why, when it's a peanut. Although popular usage classifies the peanut as a member of the nut family, the peanut is actually a legume. As such, it is closely related to the pea family.

There is disagreement among historians as to exactly where cabbage originated—but there's a disagreement among nutritionists that cabbage makes an important contribution to healthful diets. It's a good source of vitamin C, which we need every day. And cabbage is low in calories—a cup of shredded cabbage has only 20. It's good—good for you—and fresh winter cabbage is in heavy supply through March, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Here's a cabbage shopping tip from the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Look for firm hard cabbage heads that are heavy for their size. Avoid cabbage with wilted or decayed outer leaves—or with leaves turning yellow. Now's a good time to buy cabbage—supplies are abundant.

Solon receives letter threat

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Boise, Idaho, office of Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, has received a threatening letter purportedly from the Symbionese Liberation Army.

Church's Washington office said the letter was turned over Monday to the FBI.

It was typewritten in capital letters, was signed with the typewritten name of "Field Marshal Cinque," arrived in a plain envelope with a stick-on address label and an upside-down, pre-cancelled 8-cent stamp.

Last week, a number of New England governors said they received similar letters.

Two foreign dishes prove money-savers

Cassoulet is a famous French dish concocted from pork and white beans. Alsatian choucroute is equally famous—pork and sausages with sauerkraut, cooked in wine.

Now, lower-cost counterparts of these international favorites have been developed. Good, hearty main courses for brisk weather, both are made with pork shoulder-thereby, the food-dollar savings.

In its American version, the Pork and Potato Cassoulet combines pork with a package of scalloped potatoes instead of beans. The potatoes come with their own packet of seasoning, which steps up the rich pork flavor with onions and herbs. Use of convenience food items cuts the cooking time to less than an hour.

Alsatian Pork Stew, the offshoot of choucroute, consists of pork shoulder with sauerkraut. Rinse the sauerkraut before using, to cut down the tartness. Then, simply bake in a lively sauce made from an envelope of gravy mix for pork. Add some Rhine wine, if you choose, for a gourmet touch.

Serve either dish with buttered carrots, a green salad, hot baking powder biscuits and glasses of milk, ending with canned sliced peaches for dessert. This economical but amply satisfying meal provides foods from the 4 groups needed daily for good nutrition.

PORK & POTATO CASSOULET

1 to 2 pounds boneless pork shoulder, cubed
1 cup chopped celery
1 package (5⅝ ounces) scalloped potatoes
2½ cups boiling water
1 can (4 ounces) pimientos, drained and coarsely chopped
1 tablespoon butter
¼ cup fine dry bread crumbs
1 tablespoon grated Parmesan cheese

Brown pork with celery in large skillet, stirring frequently; spoon into two-quart casserole. Stir in potato slices and seasoning mix from package of scalloped potatoes, boiling water, and pimientos. Cover and bake at 350 degrees for 40 minutes. Melt butter in small pan; stir in bread crumbs and cheese. Sprinkle over casserole. Bake, uncovered, at 400 degrees for 10 minutes, until browned. 5 to 6 servings

ALSATIAN PORK STEW

1 to 2 pounds boneless pork shoulder, cubed
1 tablespoon oil or melted shortening
1 envelope (¾ ounces) gravy mix for pork
¾ cup water
¼ cup Rhine wine or add extra ¼ cup water
1 can (1 pound) sauerkraut, drained and rinsed
1 onion, peeled and thickly sliced
Whole cloves

Brown pork cubes in oil in large skillet. Stir in contents of gravy mix envelope, water, wine, and sauerkraut. Spoon into 1½ quart casserole. Insert 2 or 3 cloves in each onion slice; place on top of casserole. Cover and bake at 400 degrees for 30 to 40 minutes, until pork is tender and well cooked. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Heart attacks claim couple within hour

BEAUMONT (UPI) — An elderly couple died of heart attacks within 57 minutes of each other after the wife ran for help when her 73-year-old husband became ill in their mobile home.

Annie O'Quinn, 69, ran to her daughter's nearby trailer when her husband William was stricken. He was taken to Pass Memorial Hospital in Banning where he was pronounced dead.

Shortly after, Mrs. O'Quinn suffered a heart attack in her daughter's home. She was taken to Pass Memorial Hospital where she died.

'Handbook for Home' is invaluable tool

These are the times that try men's souls . . . and pocketbooks. Every cent spent for the American household today must count in value, effectiveness and workmanship. The new "Handbook for the Home" helps solve some of these problems.

It is the 1973 Yearbook of Agriculture (388 pages, illustrated and written by experts.) Subjects include everything from managing money, safe handling of food, insurance for health, life and car, modern nutrition, well water, indoor lighting and outdoor recreational projects.

"With short supplies ahead in plastics, canned goods, appliances, textiles, etc., the articles in this book will help you buy wisely despite shortages and inflation," says Jack Hayes, Year Book editor.

"It is particularly valuable to this year's young marrieds who must face the problems of our crisis times—home or apartment choosing—and all the situations that result from these dicisions," Hayes adds.

"Handbook for the Home" is thoroughly modern in approach.

"Sound, down-to-earth advice in every way," Hayes says. The illustrations are clear and often actually inspire one to go out and start buying a home because it looks so appealing. But don't do this until you have read about how much money it should cost."

The articles on nutrition are geared to the modern family.

Beatrice Paolucci, professor of Family Ecology at Michigan State University, writes the lead article which sets the tone for the general approach to the suject of "home." She states in part:

"Evidence does exist of marked changes in the way of life in today's families. Different attitudes regarding sexual relationships, size of family, ways of rearing children and male and female roles prevail."

Families are on the move and this results in the breakdown of traditional stereotypes. "We can see for ourselves that our neighbors, even though they may eat and rear their chidlren differently, are in many ways like us. Use of the same consumer markets and educational institutions will reduce the differences and encourage acceptance of diversity in family standards, attitudes and life styles," she continues, adding:

"Present day biomedical advancements are changing the family. Separation of sexual activity and procreation have made family planning possible. More effective contraceptives, more easily obtained abortions and genetic counseling provide the knowledge and the mechanics for child spacing and birth control.

"Along with biomedical advances, technological gains in both industjy and agriculture are changing the family. Technology has made it possible for machines rather than people to produce an abundance of material goods. Technology also makes it posible for a small number of farmers to produce an abundance of food."

The basic and honored pattern of the American family is changing, but the traditional family pattern will remain, probably dominate, except for changes in personnel — because of divorce, separation and remarriage.

The family with dual careers, both husband and wife working, will increase, particularly among the young and better educated. The husband and wife family, with no children, also will increase.

Calm that sweet tooth with something nourishing

As long as children are going to eat candy, why not provide them with candy that contains nutritive values? Candy containing peanuts, for example, offers solid nourishment along with sweetness that youngsters crave to replace the large amounts of energy they burn up in normal play.

Peanuts are 26 per cent protein and contain important amounts of thiamine, niacin and phosphorus. Consequently any product including peanuts or peanut butter as an ingredient gets an automatic boost on the nutrition scale no matter what its non-peanut food value is.

Store-bought peanut candy is of course delicious fresh from the box or wrapper but it is also a remarkably versatile dessert-dramatizer in the hands of a homemaker who prepares home-baked foods.

If you fancy pretty little pastries that the kids can help make, for example, try Peanut Butter Daisy Cups. They are attractive enough to come from a specialty bake shop, but actually can be prepared with just a few ingredients most people have on hand all the time, plus a package of small-size chocolate covered peanut butter cups. These little goodies are extra rich in nutrients because protein-rich peanut butter is blended into the dough mixture, as well as packed inside the candy cups.

The homey American apple pie gets a touch of glamour with the simple addition of crushed peanut brittle. Place the brittle in with the pie filling, and then sprinkle more brittle over the filling to make a streusel-like topping. The finished pie has an exotic look and flavor.

Peanut Polka Dot Cookies are made with colorful candy-coated peanuts. Simply press the peanuts into the cookies before baking. This can be the kiddie contribution because it's so easy and youngsters will enjoy doing it.

PEANUT BUTTER DAISY CUPS

¾ cup vegetable shortening
1 cup sugar
½ cup peanut butter
1 egg
2 cups unsifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 package (11 ounces) peanut butter cups (small size)

•

Cream shortening until fluffy. Stir in sugar, peanut butter and egg. Stir in flour and then vanilla. Knead dough a few times to make a smooth ball. Roll out 2-3rds of the dough on a floured surface ¼ inch thick. Cut dough into 40 2-inch rounds using a cookie cutter or a glass. Place rounds on a greased cookie sheet. Top with peanut butter cups placed upside down. Pinch off pea-size pieces of the remaining dough and roll each piece into a rope 2 inches long. Place two ropes in a crisscross on top of peanut butter cups. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) for 12 to 15 minutes or until cookies are lightly browned. Cool on cookie sheet and then store in a cool dry place.

STREUSEL PEANUT APPLE PIE

1 package (11 ounces) pie crust mix
2 cans (1 pound, 5 ounces each) apple pie filling
Grated rind of 1 lemon
1½ cups crushed peanut brittle

Prepare pie crust mix according to package directions. Roll out 2-3rds and use to line the bottom and sides of an ungreased 9-inch pie pan. Mix pie filling, lemon rind and 1 cup of the peanut brittle. Pour mixture into lined pie pan. Roll out remaining crust and cut into ½-inch wide strips. Arrange a lattice of strips over filling. Crimp edges of crust. Bake in a preheated hot oven (425 degrees) for 25 minutes. Sprinkle top of pie with remaining peanut brittle and bake for another 10 minutes. Cool thoroughly before cutting into wedges. Delicious with vanilla ice cream on top.

PEANUT POLKA DOT COOKIES

1 cup butter or margarine
1 pound light brown sugar
2 eggs
½ cup peanut butter
1 cup nonfat dry milk crystals
3 cups unsifted all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon baking soda
2 teaspoons vanilla
1 large bag candy covered chocolate covered peanuts

Cream butter until light and fluffy. Beat in sugar, eggs and peanut butter. Stir in dry milk crystals, flour, baking powder, baking soda and vanilla. Beat until well blended. Drop mixture in olive-size pieces onto a greased cookie sheet. Press 5 peanuts on each cookie. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (375 degrees) for 12 to 15 minutes or until lightly browned. Cool thoroughly on a rack. Store in an air-tight container in a cool dry place.

Makes 6 dozen.

Mariner may prove Russ Mars finding

PASADENA (UPI) — American space experts hope Mariner 10's forthcoming flyby of Mercury can confirm what the Russians recently learned—that the tiny planet may have a thin hydrogen atmosphere.

A spokesman at the Caltech Jet Propulsion Laboratory said Sunday the presence of hydrogen might remotely indicate Mercury has some form of water.

Mariner 10 is expected to fly within 625 miles of the hot planet during the the last week of this month, scanning Mercury for the elements of its mysterious atmosphere.

Russian Prof. Nikolai A. Kozyrev said last month that their spectral analysis indicated that Mercury may be wreathed in a thin ribbon of light gas, such as hydrogen.

American space ventures so far have been unable to confirm the Russian findings.

Dr. A. Lyle Broadfoot, a NASA investigator, said he thought the most likely elements in Mercury's environment would be hydrogen and helium.

Mark St. Patrick's Day with a bit of red and green

Of the many customs that have been brought to America and become a part of its "melting pot", none is perhaps more vibrant and gay then the celebration of St. Patrick's Day. Whether our native origin be Italian, Scandinavian or Chinese, somehow on March 17 we all find a spark of that special Irish spirit within us. We even put on a touch of green, and are enchanted by the lilting sounds of Irish tunes as the parade marches by. Sure 'tis true, all the eyes that smile upon the scene are not necessarily Irish.

So celebrate the occasion with hearty and wholesome food that might very well be served in an Irish cottage. To the glow of the green add the sweet tart taste of cranberries in a bag full of recipes which will spark the appetite and not stretch those green bills too far.

Cassidy's Mutton Chops glazed with cranberry jellied sauce are easy and quick to prepare. Served on a platter surrounded by sliced boiled potatoes and onions, they'll please the palates of all the colleens and lads in your house.

CASSIDY'S CRANBERRY GLAZED MUTTON CHOPS

6 mutton chops
Salt, pepper and onion powder
1 can (1 pound) jellied cranberry sauce, cubed
2 tablespoons prepared mustard
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 small onion, minced

Sprinkle mutton chops with salt, pepper and onion powder on both sides. Broil chops slowly until cooked to desired degree of doneness. In a saucepan combine remaining ingredients and heat until bubbly and sauce is melted, stirring occasionally. Spoon sauce over chops and broil again until glaze is bubbly. Serve chops on a bed of cooked, sliced potatoes and onions. Serve remaining glaze in a sauce dish to spoon over chops.

Nothing could be more traditional to Irish fare than soda bread, and with the addition of cranberry-orange relish it would indeed be lapped up by a leprechaun before you could say 'Erin Go Bragh'.

CRANBERRY SODA BREAD

3 cups biscuit mix
1 cup all-purpose flour
1-3rd cup butter or margarine
¼ cup sugar
½ cup raisins
1 tablespoon caraway seeds (optional)
½ cup cranberry-orange relish
1 egg
½ cup milk

Combine biscuit mix and flour. Cut in butter until particles are very fine. Stir in sugar, raisins and caraway seeds. In a bowl mix relish, egg and milk. Add cranberry mixture all at once to dry ingredients and stir until well blended. Place dough on a heavily floured board and knead until smooth. Shape dough into a large smooth ball and place into a greased 9-inch pie pan. Cut a large cross about ½ inch deep in top of dough. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (375 degrees) for 40 to 45 minutes or until loaf sounds hollow when thumped and is richly browned. Cool loaf thoroughly before cutting into thick slices. Spread with butter or with more cranberry-orange relish.

For a dazzling salad, a fruitful relish mold made with jellied cranberry sauce and mint jelly will cooly complement the piquant flavor of the mutton chops. Its shimmering brightness will be a sight to behold even by the "little people."

CRANBERRY MINT SHAMROCK MOLD

2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
1 cup water
1 can (6 ounces) frozen concentrated lemonade, thawed and undiluted
2 cans (1 pound each) jellied cranberry sauce, sieved
1 jar (10 ounces) mint jelly, sieved
2 apples, peeled cored and chopped
1 can (13-¾ ounces) pineapple tidbits, drained

Mix gelatin and water in a saucepan. Stir over low heat until gelatin is dissolved. Beat in lemonade, cranberry sauce and jelly until well blended. Chill until mixture thickens slightly. Fold in apples and pineapple into gelatin mixture. Pour into a 1-½ quart shamrock-shaped mold or bowl. Chill until firm. When ready to serve, dip mold into lukewarm water for a few seconds, tap to loosen and invert onto a platter.

To top off your Irish feast, serve Cranberry Irish Coffee. The spirit of St. Patrick will happily linger long after the last drop is sipped.

CRANBERRY IRISH COFFEE

2 cups hot strong coffee
1 cup cranberry juice, heated to boiling
4 teapoons sugar
½ cup Irish whiskey
¾ cup heavy cream, whipped

In a saucepan mix coffee and cranberry juice. Heat to boiling. Stir in sugar and whiskey. Pour into mugs or heatproof glasses. Top with whipped cream and serve at once.

Americans shift budgets to buy meat

Meat on the table—that is what most people still demand despite steadily rising costs.

There is no doubt that we will eat more lentils, dry beans and soy products to keep down costs and to get essential protein. But to most people there is a limit to these foods in their diet. Even with the cruel financial pressure of the cost of steaks and roasts most people will not adjust to going without them constantly. They will give up something else instead.

"Meat, like gasoline for our car, is absolutely essential to our daily way of life. For most people's way of life. I'd rather give up shoes than think of giving up steak. We need physical stamina just as we need means to drive to work. Take these things away and what have you got?" asks Ruth Lundgren, a widow with two sons in college who is president of her own food promotion company.

"Certainly we try to cut down on food waste. We now buy 10 pounds of potatoes instead of more costly instant potatoes. We eat fruit for dessert instead of cakes made from mixes. We try to cut out every unnecessary food expenditure. But meat — no. We eat less expensive but good cuts and have meat on our table in face of rising meat costs. My sons need it and so do I," Mrs. Lundgren explains.

"Where does the extra meat money come from? It comes from one less movie a month, from not buying a new blouse for me or a new shirt for the boys. These things we can postpone," she insists.

Another working mother explains why she is still serving meat to her family, despite the sky-rocking prices.

"The situation is dismal. Meat costs are frightening. Yet we do buy it less expensive cuts—but meat," reports Anita Fial, a director of home economics.

"Every Sunday I try to cook for the family. Usually I broil meat. But last Sunday, instead of the customary sirloin steak, I used round steak. Not so tender but it tasted good," she says. "And the cost was much less."

Working all day she has no time to prepare a nourishing meat course for her husband and two young children every night. One Sunday a month she cooks meals for the rest of the month. She wraps these in meal-size packages and freezes them.

"In this way I have dinner mostly prepared in advanced. Also I save money by buying larger quantities of meats at one time," she explains.

Brisket of beef, meat loaf, meat sauce for noodles, chicken casserole, breast of chicken are a few of her advance frozen dinners.

"I still buy regular milk but I've cut out delivery of it. I go to a drive-in store and buy in half-gallons. I cut down on wasting food but not on quality."

Eileen Taylor, of the U. S. Department of Agriculture Economics Research Service, lives with her husband and two children.

"At the supermarket I see women striving to cut down on other purchases to buy meat. Meat is the first thing they think of when they go shopping for the family," she observes. "They simply can't or won't eat lentils and spaghetti all the time."

Picasso's paintings increase in value

BREMEN, Gerfany (UPI) — In the year since Pablo Picasso's death, the Spanish painter's works have experienced a "specttcular increase in value," according to Michael Hertz, West Germany's best-known Picasso dealer.

Even Picasso's prints are rising in price, with the best of the work of his last years costing as much as $19,400 each, Hertz reported.

"Picasso has become too expensive for many museums and private collectors," Hertz said. "And I can see no slackening of the price in sight."

Hertz said he is convinced Picasso left more finished works than are generally believed but added he has no idea when these will be placed on the market.

MRS. JEFFREY DOWLING

Miss Joni Lee Harrison and Jeffrey James Dowling were married in an afternoon ceremony at the Little Chapel of the Flowers in West Covina.

The bride's grandfather, the Rev. Edward C. Spruill, officiated at the double-ring rites uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Harrison of Claremont and the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Dowling of San Dimas.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an empire gown of candlelight satin fashioned with a high collar and long, fitted sleeves with an overlay of imported lace and seed pearls. A small crown of lace and pearls held the bride's floor-length veil.

She carried a cascade of white roses, baby's breath and fern.

Miss Debi Harrison was maid of honor for her sister. Miss Karen Laird was bridesmaid.

The best man was Dan McCleary and Bill Pallatoo was the usher.

A reception at the chapel honored the newlyweds who honeymooned in Carmel.

Mr. and Mrs. Dowling will make their home in North Lake Tahoe.

Business education loans are available

The establishment of a revolving loan fund to assist women in obtaining graduate business education has been announced by the Buisness and Professional Women's Foundation and the Sears-Roebuck Foundation.

The Sears-Roebuck Foundation will provide nearly $300,000 in grants during the next five years to the BPW Foundation which will administer the loan program. Beginning with the 1975-76 academic year, $70,000 will be available for loans each year. Repayment and nominal interest payments will begin after graduation and will be used to replenish the loan fund.

A survey of graduate business schools recently conducted by the BPW Foundation and the American Assembly of Collegiate Schools of Business showed that 90 per cent of the deans believe that more women would be attracted to graduate business education if loan funds were available.

Replayment of loans will be scheduled over a five-year period beginning one year after graduation.

Graduate schools accredited for the program in Southern California include USC, UCLA, and California State Universities at Fullerton, Los Angeles, Sacramento, San Diego and San Jose.

Information concerning the program may be obtained by writing the BPW Foundation, 2012 Massachusetts Ave., NW, Washington, D. C., 20036.

The Family Store

Artist and furniture maker—his medium is bread

PARIS (NEA) — At dawn every day, 10 delivery trucks set off from the small baker's shop on the rue de Cherche-Midi on the Left Bank of the Seine packed with a Parisian favorite—Poilane bread.

Lionel Poilane, 28, is proud to be a third-generation baker and the youngest master-baker in Paris.

Some two tons of bread are baked daily in his ovens and there are three shifts of men working on a 24-hour schedule. Of 50 employes, 20 are bakers.

There is nothing "fancy" about Poilane bread. It comes in four-pound loaves and is made of the best quality flour, specially milled and rich with all the wholesome qualities flour should have. It costs 20 per cent more than white flour.

For the Poilane family, bread is what potter's clay is to the sculptor or wood to a cabinet maker. They firmly believe this is indeed the staff of life as well as a religious symbol. There are, incidentally, over 20 proverbs and aphorisms in the French leanguage regarding bread.

Outside of the immediate neighborhood, the Poilane clientele is scattered all over the city. Madame Pompidou is a faithful client, so is Brigitte Bardot, not to mention clients in the United States, Mexico, Japan, Africa and other remote points of the globe accessible by airplane. In the backroom of the shop hang some 40 paintings, all representinng the Poilane loaf and presented by artist-clients.

The first U. S. astronauts to touch down on the moon received a personalized loaf which represented a space ship, stars and an astronaut floating into space.

"My package took as long to reach Austin (Texas) as it did the astronauts to come back to earth," said Poilane.

Has the current slimming craze caused a drop in the bakery business?

"Not at all," according to Lionel, "bread is no more fattening than any other food eaten in moderation."

An unusual object in the back roon is a large five-arm chandelier—made of bread, of course. And Lionel is now working on a complete bedroom suite for Salvador Dali, king of the surrealists. Already completed is a wardrobe. This had to be baked in sections and fitted like any pierce of furniture. The result is somewhat astonishing and Lionel Poilane swears that each item is no more brittle, than, let's say, glass. He next is going to experiment in plates made of bread.

All the Poilane bread is kneaded by hand as it has been since time immemorial. Only the leavening, or yeast, is "worked" by a large electrical mixer.

Then there is another master baker—on the other bank of the Seine—who has devoted his life to bread. He is Marcel Sarrau. He comes from a long line of bakers going back to 1429—the year of Joan of Arc. But he is not content to bake bread, he also bakes history.

Some years ago he held an exposition, "Bread Throughout History," which caused something of a sensation. He can tell you all about the bread baked by the Egyptians, Greeks, Romans, Gauls and others since the beginning of history.

The fact is that for 65-year-old Marcel Sarrau, the origin of bread and the baking of it has, since his early school days, been an all-absorbing passion. His research has been extensive and his knowledge is great. He is considered the No. 1 historian of bread and French and foreign universities often consult him on the subject.

"In ancient times and for many centuries bread was considered an essential food, also a complete food," he points out.

From the first flat "pancakes" cooked between two heated stones, it graduated to flour mixed with honey, dates, nuts and condiments. During the Renaissance, bread was baked in large, flat, round or oval loaves on which the viands and sauces were served. The lord of the manor usually gave the order for the "platters" at the end of the meal to be distributed to the poor — a greatly appreciated gift. Every social class had its own bread, the fancy loaves for the rich and the four-pound loaves for the working classes.

In the book, "The Book of Bread," Marcel Sarrau points out that for 5,000 years the history of bread is bound to that of man and the various civilizations. It proves that bread existed 600 years B.C. and that in the Rome of Augustus, 63 years B. C. and 14 after, there were 329 master-bakers, all Greek, who produced a great variety of shapes of loaves.

Records show that the average daily consumption of bread has dropped from 12 ounces in 1970 to less than eight ounces today. The largest bread eaters today are the Greeks with 12 ounces, followed by West Germany, Ireland and Japan with six ounces daily. And in the Middle Ages, bread was the food of the rich envied by the poor who often went short of it.

Today, French bread is appreciated by connoisseurs the world over. But Sarrau agrees that it's not what it used to be.

"It's all in the kneading. Also, we used to leave bread to ferment four hours before putting it in the oven. Now, everything has to be done in a hurry and we only let it ferment for two. Soon the neighborhood baker will be supplanted by automated factories. People will eat packaged bread rather than the crcisp 'baguette' or yard of bread of yesteryear," he ruefully concluded.

RTIST AT WORK — Master baker Lionel Poilane works away at his craft in the back room of his Paris bake shop. The artwork and even the chandelier are testimonies to his devotion to his work.

Some lean words on fat: cut down

An average American obtains approximately 45-50 per cent of his calories from fat. Many physicians feel this is too much. The American Heart Association recommends limiting this to 30-35 per cent.

Some easy ways to reduce fat in the diet include:

1. Select only lean meat, poultry and fish. Trim off any excess, visible fat.

2. Substitute skim milk for whole milk in cooking, as well as in beverages.

3. Use whipped instead of regular "stick" butter or margarine on toast or bread. It goes further, and you will use less.

4. For snacks, serve raw vegetables (carrot slices, stalks of celery, green pepper wedges, or cauliflower florets), instead of nuts or potato chips.

5. Try dry cottage cheese instead of sour cream in the preparation of dips.

Fat should not be eliminated entirely from the diet because, in addition to serving as a carrier for the four essential fat-soluble vitamins (A, D, E, and K), it is also an essential component of tissues and necessary for many bodily processes.

Besides reducing the amount of fat in the diet, many physicians feel most Americans should eat less saturated and more polyunsaturated fat.

Saturated fats are usually solid at room temperature and are mainly of animal origin: meat, cheese made from cream and whole milk, eggs, and butter. Polyunsaturated fats are normally liquid at room temperature and from plant sources: corn, cottonseed, safflower, and soybean. One exception is coconut oil which is highly saturated.

Fat is not cholesterol. Cholesterol is a "fat-like" substance found only in foods from animal sources: egg yolk, meat, whole milk, and cheese. It is never found in plants: fruits, vegetables, and cereals. In addition to being supplied by foods, cholesterol is also manufactured in the body.

Although an excessively high level of cholesterol in the blood may be one of numerous factors implicated in the development of coronary heart disease, some cholesterol is essential for the maintenance of good physical health.

Mansfield says

Senate to try Nixon quickly, if impeached

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If the House impeaches President Nixon, the Senate will begin to try him immediately and probably reach a verdict within two months, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said Tuesday.

Mansfield told reporters that if Nixon is impeached —an action comparable to an indictment in the courts —the Senate would begin the trial "right away" and lay aside all legislation except vital appropriations bills.

He said a trial would take about two months because "it would have to be thoroughly aired."

Not only auto workers idled by slump in car sales

Business World

By EDWARD S. LECHTZIN
UPI Auto Writer

DETROIT (UPI) — The accountant in Kansas City who decides not to buy a car this year because he doesn't know if there will be enough gasoline may help put a laundress in Detroit out of work.

The real victims of the auto sales slump are not the 60,000 U.S. auto workers who have been laid off indefinitely—not knowing if they'll ever be called back to the plants. Most have a wage guarantee that gives them up to 95 per cent of their take-home pay.

But a laundress at the White Tower Laundry in Detroit, just around ehe corner from the huge Chrysler Corp., Jefferson Avenue Assembly plant, is making just better than $3 an hour. If she loses her job, all she has is unemployment compensation.

In the first three weeks of January, the laundry idled 65 of its 175 employes—most of them women who sort, clean and repair the shop aprons, gloves and uniforms worn by workers in the auto plants. The company handles all of the commercial laundry dirtied by Chrysler and Pontiac plants in the Detroit area.

"We're dependent wholly on the auto plants. If they slow down, so do we," says Harry Krause, White Tower owner.

"We'll call some of these workers back when the plants pick up and we're beginning to notice that now," he says.

At first, the women kind of were glad to think they'd get a little time off after a lot of overtime just like in some of the auto plants, said one worker.

"But then they realized this could mean their jobs—and not for just a couple of days," he said. "A lot of these women don't even speak English. Losing their job means they're altogether out of a chance of earning enough to feed their families."

From around the country, UPI correspondents report the slump in sales is affecting workers in many of the related industries—auto suppliers, mechanics, salesmen and car washers.

A salesman for McInerey Chevrolet, one of Chicago's largest, reported one salesman laid off and others to follow.

"It's about the same all around the city and suburbs," he said. "We have a big operation here and our business is way down."

Car washers have been affected by the shortage of working hours since many service stations close on Sunday and in the early evening.

In Dallas, employers still are in the "wait-and-see" period, not knowing how the cutbacks will affect them. The largest auto plant is General Motors' assembly operation at Arlington, between Fort Worth and Dallas, that builds the fast-selling Monte Carlos, Chevelles and Cutlasses.

Kelley Sayre, district director of the State Employment Service in the eight-county area around Dallas, says he has seen no sign of fallout from the auto plant layoffs in other areas— indeed the whole energy crisis —so far.

"We haven't seen any significant layoffs whatever we could lay to the energy crisis," says Sayre. "We surely would assume that in time we would, but to this time they are insignificant. We get reports from employers saying it's too early to tell."

In Flint, Mich., where nearly 40 per cent of the area's work force of more than 200,000 is employed by GM, the unemployment rate has soared to almost 12 per cent. The area has the highest concentration of auto workers in the country.

The big car plants in Flint— those building full-size Buicks, bodies for Buicks and big-car parts—have had several short shutdowns. About 5,000 workers have been idled indefinitely and 80 per cent of those are able to collect Supplemental Unemployment Benefits (SUB) payments that give them as much as 95 per cent of their take-home pay.

One of every six jobs in the United States is directly dependent on the manufacture, distribution, maintenance and commercial use of motor vehicles.

A slowdown means an eventual or immediate reduction in the work force of steel mills in Pittsburgh, a layoff of rubber workers in Akron and reduced markets for the fabric mills of the Carolinas. It can mean economic disaster for cities with major auto plants or the hundreds of small towns whose main industries center in supplying vehicle makers with components or parts.

Some 500 American suppliers in plants from New Hampshire to California are involved in producing parts for Ford's new compact Mustang II. Michigan leads the nation with 217 Mustang component suppliers, but small communities throughout the country depend on the car.

Alternator belt adjustment arms are built by Teer Wickwire & Co. in Adrian, Mich. while tire valve extensions are produced by A. Schrader & Son of Dickson, Tenn., and the safety standard certification decal shield is turned out by the Avery Lable Co. of Monrovia, Calif.

Government statistics said as many as 100,000 jobs were lost in December because of the energy crisis. The largest declines were in industries that are dependent either directly or indirectly on gasoline.

The economic impact can best be seen if you can picture a single auto plant with 1,000 workers—not particularly large in the auto industry.

The U.S. Chamber of Commerce estimates the plant supports 1,000 households, involving 3,100 persons, with more than $10.3 million in personal income each year. These families in turn support 30 retail establishments and through the expenditures of $4.7 million create 650 additional jobs.

Sharing in this expenditure will be grocery stores, $1,060,000; auto dealers, $840,000; eating and drinking establishments, $350,000; clothing and shoe stores, $250,000; lumber, building material and hardware stores, $220,000; general merchandising stores, $660,000; and miscellaneous stores, $1,038,000.

Prof believes dinosaurs died eating poisons

LONDON (UPI) — For 80 million years dinosaurs munched their way happily around the world they ruled by sheer size or by unmatched ferocity.

Then, according to a new theory, they fell victim to their own taste buds and now all that remains of the mightiest beasts that ever strode the globe are collections of bones in museums or in their last graveyards.

There have been many theories to explain the disappearance of the dinosaurs but Prof. Tony Swain of the Royal Botanical Gardens at Kew believes the clue may lie in the fact that the modern-day tortoise, also a reptile, is 40 times less sensitive to the taste of alkaloids than is a mammal.

From this he creates this scenario for the last act of the dinosaur drama:

The final curtain rises some 120 million years ago when the first flower plants began to displace the ferns and evergreens which formed the diet of the herbivarous dinosaurs, whose flesh formed the diet of their carnivorous cousins.

Some of the flowering plants developed the bitter and poisonous alkaloids that led insects and mammals to avoid them.

Unable to take the clear evidence of the poison they contained, the dinosaurs ate them, often in prodigious amounts. For example brachiosaurus may have weighed 50 tons on the hoof with a daily intake of about a ton of vegetable matter.

Experiments with tortoises at Kew show that the tortoise does taste and react to the presence of tannin in its diet but is much less apt to turn away from food containing alkaloids.

And there were ancestors of the tortoise around in the age of reptiles, so some similarity in taste is postulated.

If the great beasts did ingest poisons it might help explain, according to Swain, the contorted postures—suggesting agony —in which their fossils are frequently found. In addition they may have laid eggs with shells too thin for healthy offspring.

Carnivorous dinosaurs presumably were poisoned by eating the flesh of the dead and dying grazers.

Arizona gypsies have moved on

PHOENIX Ariz. (UPI) — The U. S. Border Patrol and the Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS) are absorbing the lesson that keepers of national boundaries have relearned through the centuries:

Gypsies don't believe in lines on a map.

Somehow or other they cross them. Sometime or other they vanish down a darkening road.

The band of 104 Gypsies from Europe that startled the Border Patrol by appearing out of the southern Arizona desert Feb. 24 has moved on.

Freed by the INS—maybe only temporarily the service thinks or says it thinks—the Gypsies dispersed by bus private car and jet plane.

They said they were going to St. Louis to see relatives and friends.

Or Minneapolis.

Or is it Chicago?

The destinations varied. Some may change on the road.

Although they entered the country illegally, crossing a barbed wire barrier in the desert at night, the INS agreed with the band's mustachioed leaders, Ivan Gorg Konovolov, that there isn't much, in practical terms, that the United States can do about it.

"There is no way we can be deported because we have no country" Konovolov said through an interpreter. "You cannot deport us because we belong where we are."

Grove Callison, district director for the INS, agreed that perhaps they can't be deported because "it would be difficult to arrange for their return to any particular country."

Some were born in Yugoslavia but haven't been there for 15 years or more, he said and some families consist, for example, of a father born in Germany, a mother in Italy and children born in France or Spain or Holland.

The INS has scheduled a hearing for March 12 on what to do about the Gypsies. The Gypsies were told before they moved on, Callison said that when they get wherever they are going they should report their whereabouts to the nearest INS office.

Callison was asked whether he believes the Gypsies, with their unfettered tradition, will do that.

"I think so" he replied. "They have no reason not to. I think they're convinced we can't deport them anyway, because we have to get consent from some country to send them there."

The Gypsies told the Border Patrol when they were picked up in groups in the desert near the Mexican border and trekking along the highway to Phoenix that their journey began in Holland.

They flew to Montreal, Canada, and took a plane to Mexico City, the Gypsies said, then went by train to Nogales, Mexico on the Arizona border.

The Gypsies said they found some smugglers in Nogales by asking taxi drivers, and were driven across the border in a remote place by the smugglers, who then pulled guns and robbed them of about $48,500.

Immigration officials were skeptical that the border crossing as such was a happenstance affair and openly worried that the Gypsies were the clients of a major international alien smuggling operation.

More Gypsies are apparently in the same "pipeline" Callison said. Mexican authorities refused entry to 70 Gypsies who arrived in Mexico City on flights from Europe and a plane carrying 30 Gypsies from Europe to Mexico City passed through New York recently.

The Gypsies seem to have no money problem despite their story of being robbed by Mexican smugglers. The women had large sums in U.S. currency in their voluminous skirts, authorities said.

"Whenever they run short a woman heists her skirts and pulls out a large roll of bills" said Lee Miskill operator of a motel where the Gypsies were quartered.

Utah suing U.S. over oil shale land

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — The state of Utah today filed suit against Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton for title to more than 157,000 acres of valuable oil shale land in Eastern Utah.

The suit, filed is U.S. District Court for Utah, charges that Morton acted illegally and in excess of his authority in denying Utah's claim to the lands.

The land in question includes two 5,000-acre tracts which the federal government plans to lease for prototype oil shale development.

The Utah suit asks the court to order all funds received in lease fees and bonuses the government receives from lessees to be deposited in interest-bearing accounts until the suit is decided.

Utah is claiming the land "in lieu" of acreage deeded to the state when Utah achieved statehood, and later taken over by the federal government for national forests, Indian reservations and other preserves.

Federal law, according to the suit, specifically says that repayment to the state of lands taken for federal preserves must be on an "equal acreage" basis, and may include mineral lands when the land taken by the government was "mineral in character."

Police hunting clock cleaners

LONDON (UPI) — Police are hunting a gang of burglars operating in nearby Surrey and Sussex counties who specialize in stealing the works from grandfather clocks, leaving empty cases behind.

The gang has struck 20 times in recent weeks, a Surrey police spokesman said Monday.

He said police believe the gang puts the stolen works into different cases and sells them for cash in a current antique clock boom.

MONTGOMERY WARD

PASSENGER CAR TIRE GUARANTEE

Montgomery Ward guarantees each of its passenger car tires for a specified number of miles when used on passenger cars or station wagons, except taxis. If your tire does not give you this mileage because of:

- defects in material or workmanship,
- normal road hazard failure,
- premature tread wearout (2/32 inches or less remaining);

Montgomery Ward will:

1. During the first 10% of guaranteed mileage, replace the tire free.
2. During the remaining guaranteed mileage, replace it for a prorata charge based on mileage used.

For guarantee service and adjustments, return tire to any Montgomery Ward branch with the Guarantee Booklet issued at the time of sale.

Charge after first 10% of guaranteed mileage based on selling price in effect at the time of return at branch to which returned, including federal excise tax.

Passenger tires used on taxicabs, and motor vehicles other than passenger cars are guaranteed on the same basis against defects in materials and workmanship only.

Proper tire and suspension system maintenance are vital to obtaining maximum tire mileage. Montgomery Ward will therefore rotate your tires and inspect your suspension system free of charge every 5,000 miles, for the entire guaranteed mileage, at any of its retail or catalog branches having tire installation facilities. Wheel alignment and balance service available, at regular charge.

Area voters oust 4 incumbents

Four incumbents, including the longtime mayor of Ontario, were defeated Tuesday in eight municipal elections throughout the Pomona Valley.

In La Verne, voters elected the first mayor in the history of the city—he'd been appointed by the council up to now—and in Claremont, they chose a former councilwoman to serve them on the board of trustees of Citrus College.

Voters also ended a six-year trend against financial issues. In the Walnut area, they gave a resounding 74 per cent approval to a $5 million school bond issue. And in Upland, they passed a $2½ million water bond and a 5½-cent tax increase to improve the police retirement plan, by more than 2 to 1.

In all, 23 positions were filled by the electors out of the total of 51 candidates who were running for offices. But the turnouts were inconsistent.

Fifty-six per cent of the eligible voters went to the polls in the Walnut School District to vote on the bond issue, and more than 53 per cent voted in Walnut itself. And more than 42 per cent cast ballots in La Verne.

For details, see B-1, B-3

But elsewhere, the turnout was disappointing, running 20 per cent in Montclair, 25 per cent in Chino, and 26 per cent in Claremont.

The biggest surprise of the elections was the defeat of Ontario Mayor Howard Snider by rookie Councilman Paul Treadway, who has held his post for less than two years.

Snider blamed the poor voter turnout—about 33 per cent—in Ontario, and the apathy of the voters.

"A lot of people thought I would have no problem being elected," he said. "And so they didn't bother to vote."

He also said he was bucking a trend in seeking a third four-year term as mayor. No one has held the office of mayor in Ontario for more than eight years.

"Across the country the trend is to change," he shrugged. "People are always looking for the new candidate."

Snider's point of view may have been reflected in San Dimas where the voters defeated Loyd Salisbury, a veteran of eight years on the council, in Montclair where Councilman Leonard Soper lost after the same length of service, and in Upland where Councilman and former Mayor A. M. Hawkins Jr. was knocked out of office by Mrs. Ina Petokas, the only challenger, after 12 years of service.

In La Verne, the voters went to the polls to elect Mike M. Morales as their first mayor. Morales, a 12-year veteran on the council, has served as mayor of that city the past two years by the vote of the council.

The municipal elections were held in Walnut, San Dimas, La Verne, Claremont, Ontario, Upland, Montclair and Chino. Pomona, the only charter city in this area, will hold its municipal election next year.

Will last until summer

Spread of odd-even gas system seen for state

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Mandatory odd-even gasoline sales limitations probably will spread to other California counties and will remain at least until early summer, state Energy Coordinator Wesley Bruer said today.

"I think you'll see a domino effect outward from those counties that have already gone on the plan. More counties will come on out of necessity as their neighbors do," Bruer said in an interview.

"If they don't, it's going to be driving their citizens into neighboring counties on their 'off' day to gas up."

The Reagan administration's No. 1 full-time energy official also said the earliest the mandatory program could be lifted would be June, depending on when and if the Arab nations lift their oil embargo.

"From the day they lift the embargo you're about two months away from seeing the gasoline showing up at the pump, and then it will come in incrementally, so if they lift it April 1 you really won't see any significant increase in gasoline until June," he said.

Bruer added that it might take motorists another "several weeks" before they become accustomed to more plentiful gasoline supplies and stop lining up at stations to top off their tanks.

But even lifting the oil embargo will not end California's gasoline woes, he cautioned.

Because of limited refinery capacity and a whopping increase in industrial use of fuel oil, Bruer estimated that a resumption of unrestricted oil imports "will solve only 60 per cent of the problem."

For motorists, that means 8 to 10 per cent less gasoline than they had last year, compared to 22 to 23 per cent less now, he said.

Nixon vetoes energy bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon vetoed the energy emergency act today, charging that the measure would "undo the progress we have already made" and force gasoline rationing on the nation.

"The amendments, counter amendments and parliamentary puzzles which have marked the stumbling route of this bill through the Congress must make Americans wonder what has been going on in Washington while they confront their own very real problems," the President said.

U.N. unit drafts world plan to limit population

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — A United Nations commission is putting the finishing touches on a worldwide plan to halt the population explosion before the earth runs out of resources.

The U.N. Population Commission, working on the final draft of the proposal, was scheduled to present the plan to a world population conference in Bucharest, Romania, Aug. 19-30.

In the rough draft, the commission said world population was growing twice as fast now as in the first half of the 20th century. It projected 6.5 billion people for the year 2,000 compared to 2 billion in 1950.

"Since Earth offers only a finite space, the growth of population and of material goods will ultimately have to cease," the commission said. "In fact, long before such physical limits are reached, many serious social and economic problems would have emerged."

REPUBLICAN PULLS A SHOCKER

Robert Lagomarsino gets victory kiss from wife, Norma, after he defeated seven Democratic candidates running for California's 13th Congressional District seat in special election to fill position left vacant by death of Republican Charles Teague. Lagomarsino was only Republican in race.

Demo wins in Ohio, but GOP pulls shocker in state

By United Press International

Democrat Tom Luken captured an Ohio congressional seat that slipped out of the Republican grasp only three other times in a century but a Republican outpolled the combined total of seven Democrats to keep a California House seat in GOP hands on Tuesday.

Democrats hailed Luken's victory in the Cincinnati area as further proof that a Democratic landslide victory is in the offing in the fall national elections because of Republican Watergate troubles.

Republicans conceded that Watergate in general, together with President Nixon's low popularity, played a major part in Luken's victory but expressed delight over Robert J. Lagomarsino's win in California's 13th District —even though he disclaimed it as any party victory.

Democratic National Chairman Robert S. Strauss said Luken's victory, the Democrats' third in recent weeks in House districts that Republicans had held for 25 years or more, showed that voters were turning more and more to the Democrats because of "Republican failure to come to grips with the serious problems of this nation."

In his prepared statement, Strauss did not mention Watergate or Nixon, although others in the party had said in advance that a Luken victory over Republican Willis Gradison would be a further sign that Watergate had soured voters on Republicans, even in longtime GOP strongholds. Democrats previously won seats in formerly solid GOP districts in Michigan and Pennsylvania.

Luken refused to pinpoint Watergate as the principal reason for his win, nor did Gradison blame it as the principal factor for his loss.

In California, Democrats sought to link Lagomarsino to the President as well as his two top former aides, H. R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman, who were indicted by the Watergate grand jury Friday.

Lagomarsino said his foes made "a serious error" and that voters in the district rejected their arguments.

Luken said on the NBC-TV Today Show that Gradison's campaign position showed that Republicans would do better if they "put distance" between themselves and the Washington administration, and Lagomarsino indicated in one of his California victory statements that this was part of his strategy.

Lagomarsino declared that his win "was not a victory for the Republican party as such," but showed that "a Republican can win under the right circumstances."

Republican National Chairman George Bush said on the CBS-TV Morning News program that however Lagomarsino characterized his triumph, "I consider it a victory for the party."

Luken polled 57,171 votes to Gradison's 51,057, in unofficial final returns in the Ohio 1st District.

With all but 2 per cent of the votes tallied unofficially in California's 13th District, Lagomarsino had better than 53 per cent, a comfortable cushion in a race where 50 per cent was needed to avoid a runoff. Lagomarsino had almost three times as many votes as his closest pursuer.

Gradison and Bush made clear they felt the fall elections where all 435 House seats as well as 34 Senate seats are at stake could turn on issues that have not yet surfaced.

To submit extensive material to impeachment probers

Nixon is willing to answer all questions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's Watergate attorney said today the President is willing to turn over extensive material to House impeachment investigators and is prepared to answer both written and oral questions if necessary.

Attorney James D. St. Clair, however, quickly opposed a suggestion by U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica that the House Judiciary Committee put off its proceedings until after completion of Watergate coverup trials which he said would begin in September.

St. Clair's disclosure of Nixon's readiness to cooperate with the House committee came early in a public hearing called by Sirica to help him decide what to do with a sealed Watergate grand jury report and a briefcase of other secret material submitted with it.

The material was said to deal with the grand jury's opinions of Nixon's handling of the scandal.

St. Clair told Sirica he had been "authorized and directed by the President" to pledge Nixon's cooperation with the committee inquiry.

"The President is prepared to turn over to the House committee all the materials he has turned over to the grand jury without limitation and to answer all written interrogatories and participate in oral interviews if it is deemed necessary," the President's attorney declared.

As for the secret report given Sirica on the same day it indicted seven former aides and associates of Nixon's, St. Clair said the President was making no recommendations to the judge on whether he should turn over the report to the House panel.

John Doar, special counsel for the impeachment inquiry, formally requested that the report and the briefcase of material be turned over to the committee.

John J. Wilson, representing John D. Ehrlichman and H. R. Haldeman, Nixon's former top lieutenants who were among those indicted Friday, strongly opposed any such move. He declared he would appeal the action if Sirica decided to give the committee the report.

It was during Doar's presentation that Sirica suggested that the committee postpone impeachment proceedings until after the trials are completed.

He asked if the committee had given any thought to such a delay to insure fair trial for the seven defendants. Doar said the committee had not and added that he could not speak for the House group on the proposal. The committee is seeking to make its recommendations to the full House by April 30 on whether it feels grounds exist for impeachment.

St. Clair told Sirica: "The President would not be in favor of delaying the impeachment proceedings."

As for turning over the sealed grand jury report, St. Clair said that whatever Sirica decided would be acceptable to the President.

Nixon plans news parley on TV today

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon will hold a news conference at 4:30 p.m. PDT today, his second in eight days, a White House spokesman announced. It will be broadcast nationally on television and radio.

Deputy White House Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said in making the announcement:

"I cannot predict what the President will say this evening."

Nixon met with newsmen Feb. 25 in his first news conference in four months. Tonight's will be the 37th of his Presidency.

Warren said Nixon was spending much of the day conferring with aides apparently in preparation for the news conference.

Hearst group won't press hijack probe

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Leaders of the food program set up to secure the release of Patricia Hearst agreed today to refrain from asking for an investigation into the hijacking of a truck laden with 12,500 pounds of meat, poultry and produce.

Sources said the coalition of activist groups named to direct the People in Need program felt a police investigation might antagonize the Symbionese Liberation Army, which kidnaped the daughter of Randolph A. Hearst, president and editor of The San Francisco Examiner, on Feb. 4 from her Berkeley, Calif., apartment.

A lone man toting a shotgun hijacked the truck as it headed toward a distribution center in the city's Hunter Point section Tuesday. He pointed the weapon at the driver's head and ordered him to drive a short distance.

The driver was then released and the hijacker drove away. The truck was found later but with the foodstuffs missing. PIN officials said the truck had been loaded with enough food for as many as 4,000 per sons. The food's value was placed at between $34,000 and $60,000.

The hijack was the only incident to mar the third time food was distributed in the $6 million program devised by the Hearst family to meet the SLA's demands. The operations at the San Francisco Bay Area's 12 centers ran smoothly.

Patty's parents had hoped the continuation of the program, which started Feb. 22, would elicit some response from the kidnapers who have not been heard from the past 13 days. However, the SLA failed to issue another communique.

Minor earthquake causes no damage

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A minor earthquake shook three suburbs in the northwestern part of the city Tuesday evening, causing no damage.

Seismologists at Caltech in Pasadena said the tremor, centered in the Highland Park area, hit at 6:45 p.m. It registered 2.25 on the Richter scale.

Rain may come, but rain may go by race time

The National Weather Service is forecasting unsettled weather that may bring showers late Thursday and Friday but the weather is supposed to clear for the big race in Ontario this weekend.

The storm is expected to pass through the area Friday and shouldn't disrupt the California 500 events this weekend.

The unsettled weather will also threaten farmers and citrus ranchers in colder areas of the Pomona Valley where temperatures are expected to dip to the upper 20s Thursday and Friday nights. The Fruit Frost Service has issued frost warnings for both nights.

Syria 'attack plan' reunites Golda, Dayan

TEL AVIV (UPI) — The Israeli national radio said today intelligence information indicated Syria was planning an attack to try to recapture the salient taken by Israeli forces in the October war and that this led to a reconciliation of Prime Minister Golda Meir and Defense Minister Moshe Dayan.

Israeli newspapers and radio reports spoke of heightened tension on the Golan Heights front and Syrian troop buildups led to the sudden change of mind by Mrs. Meir to scrap all other political considerations and form a new government.

Transport Minister Shimon Peres said the change in the security situation prompted him and Dayan to change their stands and to join Mrs. Meir's new government. They had pledged to stay out unless a national unity government was set up.

Peres said after the Egyptian and Syrian surprise attacks in October, Israel was taking no chances.

"Israel had intelligence information that the Syrians were planning aggressive action," the national radio's military correspondent said, apparently from information based on a military briefing. Israeli forces captured 325 square miles of Syrian territory in the war.

"Such an action could be an attempt to recapture the salient captured by Israeli troops in the Yom Kippur war," the correspondent said. "The purpose of this would be to create military pressure to influence diplomatic activity now going on.

"In any case, Syrian troops are so deployed on the ground as to enable them to attack at any time."

"After what happened on Yom Kippur, I think that every Israeli must accept every piece of information in its most grave and serious dimension," Peres said in a radio interview. "We have learned our lesson once.

"It is better that we see the worst premonitions dispelled than react frivolously to such possibilities."

The Israeli national radio said Dayan decided to join the government because of "a redeployment of Syrian troops" necessitating "quick action."

The Israeli newspaper Davar, quoting foreign press reports, said some elements in Syria's ruling Baath party apparently were seeking to foment tension out of unhappiness with strides toward peace worked out by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

"It has become known that a great deal of tension exists on the line with Syria," the newspaper Yedioth Ahronoth said.

The military command reported quiet on the northern front. A military spokesman declined to comment on whether Israeli forces have been put on alert along the front or if any reserves have been mobilized.

The Egyptian and Syrian surprise attacks Oct. 6 caught Israeli forces unprepared, with later reports that troops on the Syrian front had been washing their laundry when the assault came.

The reported tension came less than a week after mediation efforts by Kissinger to secure troop disengagement between Israel and Syria. Israeli and Egyptian forces completed their disengagement Tuesday.

The turnabout in the nation's political situation, which occurred about midnight, ended a two-week crisis over the formation of a government that will include Dayan and Transport Minister Shimon Peres despite their earlier pledges to walk out.

"Reports about the new situation dealt with at yesterday's cabinet meeting have convinced me that I can no longer refuse the office of minister of defense," Yedioth quoted Dayan as saying.

STAGE FIGHT

San Francisco's Board of Education voted four to two to adopt an oft-modified integration plan for grades kindergarten through 10th. Today's vote came after a young member of the Jewish Defense League, Roger Pavlov (back to camera), socked a Nazi on the jaw and was arrested for battery. Alan Vincent, Nazi Bay Area commander, left, was on the podium when Pavlov jumped up and punched him.

Your guess good as ours assessing gas situation

By United Press International

The latest statistics from the Automobile Association of America show last week was the worst ever for gasoline supplies, and in other gasoline development today, Oregon announced its odd-even gasoline rationing system will become mandatory next week.

The AAA suggested things would get better in March. Already, filling station lines in the Northeast have begun to dwindle. Lines in New York City were short or nonexistent Monday for the first time in weeks, and the AAA said shorter lines were prevalent throughout New England Tuesday, especially in Boston.

But some stations have not survived the overall impact of the fuel shortage. Hartford, Conn., reported 36 per cent of its gasoline stations have gone out of business since July. The city used to have 163 filling stations and now it has only 104.

The AAA said one of every five service stations it checked in its weekly survey were out of gasoline, but most operators were optimistic conditions would improve at least by the middle of March.

The AAA's "Fuel Gauge Report," consisting of a check of 5,071 stations, showed increased allocations to some states had reduced waiting lines at the pumps but "overall fuel supplies appeared to be the tightest since the energy crunch began."

The weekly report said Southeastern states "were experiencing deteriorating fuel conditions," with 36 per cent of the stations contacted out of fuel. The national average for closed stations was 20 per cent.

A six-state area including the Dakotas and several Rocky Mountain states was reported in the best shape as far as gasoline was concerned, with only 2 per cent of the stations reporting forced to close.

The AAA reported increasing numbers of stations were either operating on a self-imposed daily quota or were staggering their operating hours between early morning and afternoon shifts.

One fourth were limiting purchases, a decrease from the 30 per cent figure of the week before.

NEW YORK (UPI) — John Erlichman, President Nixon's domestic affairs advisor, in 1972 asked John N. Mitchell, then attorney general, to call "certain embassies" in financier Robert L. Vesco's behalf, a witness testified at the Mitchell-Stans trial today.

The government witness, Harry L. Sears, a New Jersey attorney, Republican leader, and Vesco employee, was testifying for the second day as a star for the prosecution in the trial of the former attorney general and Maurice H. Stans, former secretary of commerce.

They are charged in federal court with trying to obstruct a major federal investigation of Vesco, now a fugitive, in exchange for his $200,000 cash gift to the 1972 Nixon campaign.

Sears testified that he believed it was Jan. 4, 1972 when he got a phone call from Mithell in Washington.

"He inquired about a memo he got from John Erlichman which asked Mr. Mitchell to make calls to certain embassies in Mr. Vesco's behalf," Sears testified.

"He said he didn't have enough detail and didn't understand the memo and asked me to bring some details as to what was wanted in that regard.

"I got some details from Mr. Vesco."

Vesco at that time was under a vigorous investigation by the staff of the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC).

Sears said that at a midafternoon meeting on Jan. 12, 1972 with Mitchell in the attorney general's office he informed Mitchell that Vesco and his executives were "deathly afraid not only because of the emotion involved in the conduct of the staff but also because of abrasions of Vesco lawyers with the staff that there was going to be a precipitious staff report that would recommend a suit (against Vesco) with an injunction and the commission would approve it."

The mention of Erlichman and his memo was not further explained.

The government has told the eight-man, four-woman jury that the "heart of this case" is the charge that the two lied under oath to the grand jury about their alleged criminal acts.

Sears, a New Jersey lawyer, friend of Mitchell, and former State Senate Republican leader, had known Vesco since 1969, he testified.

On March 18, 1971, the Securities and Exchange Commission began an investigation of Vesco and his companies. Vesco, Sears said, enlisted his aid to try to get Mitchell to help by getting Vesco's side of the affair to SEC Chairman William Casey.

In May, Sears wrote to Mitchell, and in a phone talk with Mitchell in June, Sears testified, "Mr. Mitchell indicated to me that at some point he'd check with Bill Casey about it." Vesco had complained he had not been able to get beyond the staff level to the chairman.

Sears said he and Mitchell chatted on the phone about Vesco, how he "considered himself a friend of the Nixon family—a friend of Edward and Donald—and Mr. Mitchell said, 'I'll pass it along to Bill Casey.'"

Nixon preparing election campaign reform package

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon, whose supporters raised an estimated $60 million for his re-election campaign in 1972, is preparing a federal campaign reform package which will limit contributions candidates can accept but would not involve public financing.

A high ranking White House official said Tuesday that the President's proposed legislation, which would also limit the duration of campaigns, would be presented to Congress Friday.

It would run head on into a Senate proposal which would fully finance presidential elections with federal funds, underwrite Senate and House elections and help finance primary campaigns.

Nixon, the White House official said, proposes no limitation on the amounts campaign committees could receive. But a candidate for Congress would not be able to accept more than $3,000 from an individual contributor, and presidential candidates would not be able to accept more than $15,000 from one individual contributor.

Organizations — for example, labor or business groups—could not contribute to campaigns, but their members could do so individually.

No cash contribution above $50 would be permitted. All amounts above $50 would have to be made by check.

President Nixon's re-election committee received hundreds of thousands of dollars from corporations and individuals, some of it allegedly "laundered" or passed secretly through Mexico, the Bahamas and elsewhere.

Each candidate, under the new Nixon proposal, would designate one authorized campaign committee and one depository in a federally authorized bank for contributions.

The proposed legislation would also:

—Prohibit any presidential primary election before May 1 and ask the two major political parties not to hold their national conventions until September to shorten the campaign.

—Reject postcard registration.

—Repeal the equal time amendments so that networks could provide time for candidates.

—Avoid any arbitrary limit on campaign expenditures on grounds there is no way to do this fairly.

The law already provides a partial system for public financing of campaigns—the $1 writeoff available on income tax forms with varying amounts going to candidates.

Miss Kitty quits saloon business

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Marshal Dillon will just have to find a new girl. Amanda Blake, the redhaired actress who has played Miss Kitty on the "Gunsmoke" television series for 19 years, announced Tuesday that she will not be back when the series begins filming for the new season.

She told CBS-TV that she is tired of commuting to Hollywood from her home in Phoenix, Ariz., where she lives with her husband, businessman Frank Gilbert, and she wants more time for "outside activities."

Tammy, a blonde girl who wears a crutch on one leg, smiled up at the First Lady. She was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Kenneth I. Bryant, of Key West, Fla., formerly of Albany, Ga.

Tammy gave the first lady a huge badge with the Easter Seal cross on it, the first sheet of the 1974 Easter Seal stamps and a gold key to the city of Key West.

Tammy suffered brain damage in an automobile accident at the age of 20 months. Mrs. Bryant said doctors believe she will be back to normal by the time she enters her teens.

Shockley shouted down by blacks

ATHENS, Ga. (UPI) — Dr. William Shockley, who advocates controversial genetic theories about blacks, was shouted down by about 100 protesters at the University of Georgia Tuesday night when he tried to speak at a debate.

Wild shoving matches erupted on the small platform where Shockley was to have debated Dr. Lyle Schoenfeldt, associate professor of psychology at the University of Georgia. The demonstrators, most of whom were black, chanted "To hell with Schockley."

Douglas warns of decline in nation

HAVERFORD, Pa. (UPI) — Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas said Tuesday the nation is in a decline which can only be corrected by citizen participation in public life.

"Public involvement is necessary to change social and economic ills," the 75-year-old Douglas said in an interview with Haverford College president Johnn R. Coleman before 650 students. "There is no ready-made vehicle for public involvement. You have to invent it."

Douglas said America's young people "could play a significant role in reversing the downward spiral" in the United States.

Sex case jury rules against woman trapped in sauna

SANTA ANA, Calif. (UPI) — A Superior Court jury of eight women and four men did not believe that being trapped in a sauna bath for 30 minutes could turn a devout Catholic mother into a sex-starved barroom pickup.

The jury Tuesday found for the defendant in the "sauna bath nymphomaniac trial," brought by Maria Parson against the Holiday Health Spa of Orange.

Mrs. Parsons, 49, a shapely redhaired housewife, sued the health spa for $1 million. She maintained that the emotional trauma of being trapped in the spa's sauna bath by a faulty door handle caused her to become a promiscuous woman.

Mrs. Parson, who attended the three-month trial only on the day she testified, was not present. Her husband Bud, an aerospace engineer turned carpenter, and two of their seven children left the courtroom in tears after the verdict was read.

When polled, only two of the jurors said they accepted Mrs. Parson's case. One juror was undecided and nine voted in favor of rejecting the suit.

Mrs. Parson maintained that before the sauna bath incident on March 3, 1970, she was a devout Catholic, and devoted wife and mother.

Afterwards, she and her psychiatrist said, she developed a split personality. One of the personalities is promiscuous, she said, and prowls bars and dance halls in miniskirts and low cut blouses, picking up strange men and having sex with them.

Bodies of Yanks held captive in Hanoi returned

UTAPAO AIR BASE, Thailand (UPI) — U.S. military authorities today brought back from North Vietnam the remains of Americans who died in captivity in Hanoi and expressed hopes it would lead to an accounting of all GI's still missing in action.

No names will be released until medical experts establish the identities and the next of kin have been notified. There was no indication how long this would take.

Flag-draped aluminum containers bearing the remains were unloaded from an Air Force C130 transport plane with solemn ceremony and placed aboard a blue and white ambulance bus. An honor guard made up of officers from the four services snapped to a salute in the glare of floodlights.

Brig. Gen. Joseph R. Ulatoski, senior officer aboard the flight, said that he told North Vietnamese officials, "I was pleased to accept the remains of the men who died in captivity and I stated our hope that this exchange would lead to an accounting of all our men missing in action."

Wallace trying to soften image

'Don't have to shout anymore'

By RANDALL H. HARBER

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Gov. George C. Wallace, who "stood in the schoolhouse door" in 1963 in an attempt to block racial integration at the University of Alabama, says he has been misunderstood on the issue of race.

"I was for segregation because that was the law and that's what the people of Alabama wanted. "Well, it's not the law any more.

"They may still want it, but we don't have it any more and the question is moot. Now it's time for all of us to go on together."

Wallace, who is eyeing a fourth presidential bid in 1976, said in an interview with UPI, "If the people interpret me as being against people just because of who they are they are misinterpreting me."

Wallace was the symbol of resistance to racial integration in the South during the 1960's, but he said he was never against blacks, only big government.

In recent months, Wallace has crowned a black homecoming queen at the University of Alabama and made a special appearance at the Southern Conference of Black Mayors were he said, "I am the governor of all the people."

Wallace is thought to be trying to soften his image on race to make himself more attractive to blacks and labor voters when he runs for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1976.

George Meany, head of the ADL-CIO, said after a meeting three weeks ago that Wallace had "mellowed" on race, but Wallace said Meany did not understand his previous position.

"I have never been anti-anybody because of who they were," he said. "I have been anti-big government. My whole philsophy has been against big government, not against people."

But Wallace has not dropped his objection to busing to achieve racial balances, which he says is another example of big government interference.

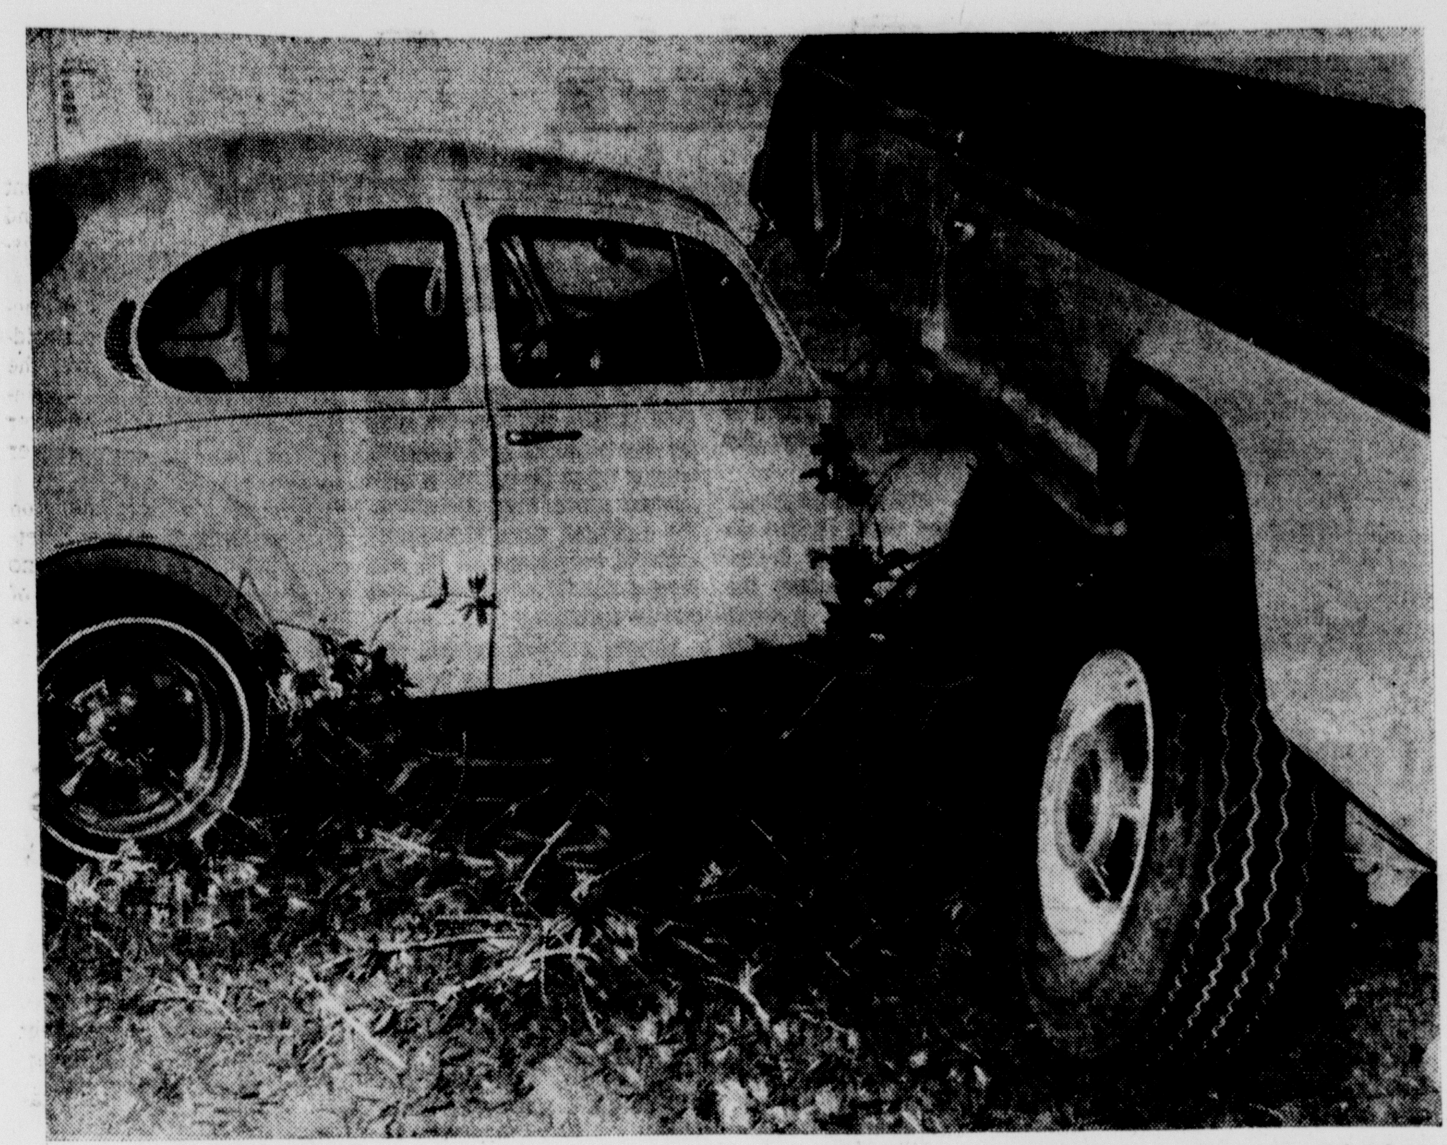
"Busing ought to be contested," he said, "but added he would not defy the law to oppose busing.

Wallace said if busing is challenged and found to be constitutional, "Then we're going to have to live with it."

Wallace maintained that he never defied a federal court order despite his frequent clashes with federal officials.

"Opposed orders, yes, but I nver defied an order," he said.

Asked why he stood in the school house door, Wallace said, "I used to have to shout to be heard. I don't have to shout any more."



ACCIDENT PARTNERS — This small car and truck crashed into a wall together Tuesday night but both drivers were unhurt. A wall of an apartment house was damaged as well as several bushes. The driver of the car claimed afterward that he had been hit from behind by the truck.

Car, truck crash; both drivers okay

POMONA — A small sedan and a pickup truck ran off Phillips Boulevard together Tuesday night and crashed into an apartment building wall. Both drivers were unhurt.

The driver of the sedan, Kevin L. Wright, 19, of 1306 S. San Antonio Ave., later told police that the pickup driver had been banging into the rear of his car as both drove west in Phillips Boulevard. Pickup driver Ralph A. Deleon, also 19, of 4969 G St., Chino, said, however, that he lost control of his vehicle as he attempted to make a U-turn.

One wall of the building at 1068 E. Phillips Blvd. sustained cracks over an 8-foot area. Three 8-foot shrubs also were damaged.

Tuesday morning a motorcyclist fell with his bike after a motorist pulled in front of him in Mission Boulevard west of Westmont Avenue and drove away without stopping. Charles E. Blana, 27, 1463 W. Grand Ave., said he would see a doctor later, if necessary.

Police theorized that the motorist pulled in front of Blana from the General Dynamics Pomona parking lot, was blinded by the sun and drove away without knowing he had caused the victim to lose control of the motorcycle.

POMONA — Police Tuesday reported arresting three young men they found burglarizing National Electronics at 206 E. Mission Blvd.

Officers, answering a burglary alarm, said they found the one-story, television and stereo store and warehouse had been entered through a window. Nearby they reported finding Walter Wade Hammock Jr., 19, of 1577 Viscay Way, hiding under a parked car, and Lamont Wayne Visor, 18, of 2123 Mountain Ave., crouched on the floor of another car with a 17-year-old juvenile boy. All three were arrested.

Inside the car containing Visor, officers said they found two television sets and phonograph players. The three suspects were booked on suspicion of burglary.

Witnesses testify in Beaty trial

LOS ANGELES — Two prosecution witnesses testified Tuesday they met California Institution For Men escapee Ronald Wayne Beaty in the company of one of the two defendants on trial for murder in the Oct. 6, 1972, Chino prison case.

Sylvia B. Stead, Los Altos, and Laura Taulbee, Saratoga, testified to avoid jail sentences for contempt. They had refused earlier to answer questions about visits to their homes by Mrs. Jean Hobson, 46, and Beaty after he was freed in the ambush of two CIM prison guards.

Mrs. Stead said that early in October of 1972 the two arrived at her home "about eleven in the evening" and stayed overnight. She said Beaty was introduced as "Sam" and that two subsequent visits were made.

Mrs. Taulbee testified Beaty spent a week at her mountain cabin. She said Mrs. Hobson introduced him as "Chatto."

On trial with Mrs. Hobson is Robert Seabock, 22, 'accused of firing the shot that killed one of the guards, Jesus Sanchez, 24.

Bay Area players coming to Valley

POMONA — The American Conservatory Theater of San Francisco which is turning away playgoers in the Bay City is coming to Claremont this spring in a uinque on-campus program of professional theatrical productions, according to producer-director Paul Gregory in a talk before the Rotary Club on Tuesday.

Gregory said that ACT will stage two productions, "Taming of th Shrew," and "The Cherry Orchard" in the Garrison Theater starting May 20. He stated that there would be four performances of each play.

An organization known as the Southern California Friends of ACT is now being formed to provide financial support for the nonprofit theater group. Gregory said that the Friends group had already received an endowment of $20,000 from a couple of foundations and that the goal now is to enroll 200 people willing to pledge $100 each.

Gregory said that ACT chose to associate with the Claremont Colleges because it wanted to stay away from commercial theater organizations such as the Ahmanson Theater in Los Angeles.

ACT is receiving such raves in San Francisco that ticket reservations four to five months in advance of the performance are required, according to Gregory.

Guests at the Rotary meeting included four contestants in the Miss Pomona Valley Pageant, Debra Gutierrez, Judy Stallings, Lucianne Buchanan, and Linda Mattier.

They were introduced by Sheldon Wellins, executive director of the pageant, the finals of which will be held Friday at 8 p.m. in the Garrison Theater.

'The washer'

In Latin, the raccoon is the "lotor." The word means the washer, which accurately describes the fastidious raccoon. It washes each piece of food over and over until it seems no flavor could remain.

Suspect is arrested

Cucamonga man is knifed

CUCAMONGA — A Cucamonga man seriously injured in a knife fight with another man Monday night remained in fair condition this morning at San Antonio Community Hospital with multiple face and neck wounds.

Marshial Lucero, 8836 Center St., was admitted to San Antonio Community Hospital shortly after the fight was reported at his home about 7:20 p.m.

The second man allegedly involved in the fight, Richard Mena Laguna, of 10394 24th St., was given emergency treatment for facial lacerations Monday, booked in the West End Jail on suspicion of attempted murder, and arraigned in West Valley Municipal Court Tuesday.

Sheriff's deputies said that the fight erupted between Lucero and Laguna on 24th Street, and ended on the front porch of Lucero's residence. When an ambulance and firemen arrived at the scene both men were still struggling on the front porch of Lucero's residence according to witnesses.

Deputies said they had yet to determine why the two men were fighting. Deputies said Laguna and Lucero had an argument earlier in the evening. Lucero returned home and then left again. A short time later several residents in the 24th Street and Center Avenue area head the fighting. Deputies said it appeared that a 10-inch bloody butcher knife found at the scene belonged to Laguna. Deputies believe that Laguna and Lucero began struggling and somehow Lucero got the knife away from Laguna and stabbed him several times.

BILLY de WOLFE

Comic actor Billy de Wolfe dies; cancer

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Billy de Wolfe, vaudeville dancer turned dapper mustachioed comic actor in movies of the 1940s, died Tuesday at UCLA Medical Center.

Death was believed caused by lung cancer, a hospital spokesman said. He had been hospitalized since Feb. 26.

De Wolfe was believed to have been in his late 60s. He apparently went to some trouble to conceal his age, which is not listed in any of the standard reference works giving biographical details of celebrities.

However, one reference book, "The Filmgoer's Companion," lists his birth year as 1905.

De Wolfe was born Bill Jones in Walliston, Mass., and got his start in the entertainment business as a theater usher there. He joined the Jimmy O'Connor band as a dancer, and toured Europe with a dance team.

He appeared on the London stage in "Revels in Rhythm," and toured the United States and Canada as a comic.

His early movies included "Miss Suzy Flagle's,""Our Hearts Were Growing Up," "Perils of Pauline" and "Isn't It Romantic?"

He appeared in "Dear Ruth," "Dear Wife," and "Dear Brat," "Tea for Two," "Lullaby of Broadway" and "Call Me Madame."

Heart attack fatal at 85

Impressario Sol Hurok dies

NEW YORK (UPI) — Impresario Sol Hurok, America's "artistic ambassador," who introduced the Bolshoi Ballet to America and took pianist Van Cliburn to Russia, died of a heart attack Tuesday. He was 85.

Hurok, who never retired was stricken while in the office of banker David Rockefeller, a long-time friend. He was pronounced dead a short time later at a hospital. Earlier he had had lunch with Andres Segovia, the Spanish classical guitarist.

Hurok used to say, "So long as you dance and sing together, there is no bloodshed." He sent American performers on triumphal round-the-world tours and brought cultural talent from Europe and the Far East to the United States.

He presented more than 1,800 performers during his career. The list reads like a roster of the world's leading musicians, dancers and singers in the 20th Century: Anna Pavlova, Isadora Duncan, Marian Anderson, Arthur Rubinstein, Roberta Peters, Isaac Stern, Jan Peerce, Van Cliburn, Margot Fonteyn, and many others.

As a measure of his fame, he often took marquee billing over artists, with the legend "S. Hurok Presents."

His last big promotion was the return U.S. tour of soprano Maria Callas, who appeared in New York City Tuesday night.

Hurok was probably best known for his promotion of cultural exchanges between the United States and the Soviet Union, including the Bolshoi Ballet.

He gambled his own money on first bringing over the Bolshoi in 1959, but was the envy of the business and cultural worlds when he reaped a handsome profit from the effort. He defended such U.S.-Soviet cultural exchanges as "a silk thread that brings people and people together."

Hurok, a short, rotund, owlish-looking man, was born in the small town of Pogar in Czarist Russia. At the age of 15 he left for America, arriving in New York in May, 1906, with three rubles ($1.50) in his pocket.

He first worked bundling newspapers for the old Philadelphia Press. A reporter, Lincoln Martin, later a music critic, invited him and other boys home after work to listen to music.

"It was the first time I'd ever heard Wagner," recalled Hurok in a 1961 interview. "It was the beginning really of my period of listening to music."

Hurok later moved to New York, began attending the opera and arranged musical programs for labor clubs and worker's organizations. He broke into big-time promotion in 1913 when he rented the New York Hippodrome, since torn down, for a series of Sunday afternoon concerts called "Music for the Masses," at which well known performers appeared.

By the 1920's, he was managing famous artists, including Anna Pavlova, considered the greatest prima ballerina of her time, and dancer Isadora Duncan. In the following decade, he brought in more exotic imports, such as an Indian dancing troupe and an Italian puppet theater.

Among his triumphs during the 1930's were presenting the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo, which helped popularize ballet in New York, and bringing singer Marian Anderson, then unknown in the Uinted States, back from Paris.

His shows have also included the Kirov and Moiseyev ballets from the Soviet Union; the British Royal Ballet; the famed Old Vic theater company of London and the London Royal Ballet, and the Danish Royal Ballet.

Hurok, who lived on Manhattan's East Side, was twice married and separated from his second wife, Emma, and also is survived by a daughter, Ruth.

Chrysler told to recall '73 models

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) ordered Chrysler Corp. today to recall 825,000 1973 model passenger cars— about half of its total output—to correct a defect in the air pollution control system.

The action also affected 1,000 1974 model trucks, bringing the total recall to 826,000 vehicles.

The defect cited by the EPA is a temperature sensing device that activates an exhaust gas recirculation system designed to reduce nitrogen oxide emissions.

In a letter to Chrysler Vice President Sidney L. Terry, Train said that "it is my conclusion that sufficient data has been provided by the Chrysler Corp. to determine that within their useful life of 50,000 miles, virtually all vehicles equipped" with the defective sensing device "will emit nitrogen oxide considerably above" the Clean Air Act standards for auto emissions.

The recall covers all cars produced after March 15, 1973, or about 50 per cent of Chrysler's total 1973 production, the EPA said.

Chrysler recognized the problem in time to remove the defective sensing devices on 1974 cars, and on all but the 1,000 1974 model trucks.

Boy injured as he runs into side of auto

CHINO — A Chino boy suffered minor injuries Tuesday when he ran into the side of a car in front of his home.

Keith Barnhart, 6, of 4537 Bird Farm Road, was treated at Chino General Hospital for abrasions and later released.

The boy was playing in his front yard and ran into the street where he ran into a car driven by Carmen Olea, of 13158 12th St., said highway patrolmen.

New ballet group forms

NEW YORK (UPI) — Choreographer Eliot Feld has formed a new ballet company, Eliot Feld Ballet, which will have its inaugural season in June at Joseph Papp's Public Theater complex on Lafayette Street.

It is the second time around for Feld, who founded a company in 1968 but gave it up in 1971 after creating 10 new ballets because of funding difficulties.

Maybe he was in wrong job

BERLIN (UPI) — The West Berlin Rias radio station has made Minister of Agriculture Josef Ertl its honorary announcer.

During a recent agricultural exhibition, Ertl came into the studio and read the morning market and price report, without one slip of the tongue.

Ertl also gave impromptu tips to consumers.

Citizens to have say on S.D. area's future

SAN DIMAS — A special meeting will be held tonight at 7:30 at city hall to give residents in a 35-acre area south of Bonita Avenue an opportunity to tell the city what kind of development they want in the area in the future.

The area is bounded on the east by San Dimas Avenue, on the south by Arrow Highway, and on the west by Eucla Avenue. A total of 187 property owners have been invited to the meeting along with downtown businessmen who own shops on the south side of Bonita Avenue.

Planning Director Mark Goldberg said tonight's meeting will not be a discussion of the controversial San Dimas Elementary School which is located in the area, but will be a general discussion of what uses residents want in the total area.

Goldberg said the school which residents want torn down, is a "glaring but short-ranged problem that will be taken care of."

He said the area was set aside for furthr study in the general plan instead of giving one blanket zoning designation. The area is now what he defined as a "checker board zoning" with mixed use as residential, commercial and industrial.

"We don't at the present time know what the residents there want. Of course, some people will want for the area to remain residential," Goldberg said.

LONDON (UPI) — Magistrate Kenneth Cooke moved the court out into a car park Monday to deal with a 23-yearold man on a drunk charge.

Cooke fined him $1.30 in the open air session—held in the car park of Tower Bridge Court because the defendant suffered from scabies, a highly-contagious skin disease.

Income tax time again

By ERMA BOMBECK

A bachelor recently received six months' probation after pleading guilty to a federal charge that he falsely claimed ten dependent children on his federal income tax.

Listing his age as 20 probably wasn't the brightest cover-up in the world, but the kid showed some imagination and I like that.

More and more I have noticed that the average citizen is bucking the IRS. It isn't a mass mutiny, just a few isolated attempts at rebellion. Like the man who filled in his name and address and said the remainder of the questions was an invasion of privacy. (He was ordered to Missouri for psychiatric examination.) And the citizen who paid his taxes with 85 pounds of pennies. And on a smaller scale, the man who sends his return in every year with postage due.

"Boy," said my husband, "I'd like to have the guts to pull off something like that."

"Are you carzy?" I shouted. "Do you know what happens to people who get cute with their tax returns? They audit them and make them public."

"So, what have we got to hide?"

"Nothing, but if they made our tax return public, we'd be the laughing stock of this country."

"How do you figure that?"

"Do you want the world to know that we spent $7.61 last year on entertainment?"

"$7.61," he repeated numbly.

"That's right. Clifford Irving spent more on entertaining and he was serving time. And can you imagine the humiliation of people discovering we have only reduced our loan $126.30 in 12 months. And have earned $3.10 in interest on our savings?"

"That's unreal," he said.

"Not only that. Do you know what we had to list under major expenditures last year? A new toaster at $23.95."

"That bad," he mused.

"Look at these gifts to charity. Beside us, President Nixon looks like Santa Claus."

"Then were did the money go?" he asked.

"Bad habits."

"Like what?"

"Like feeding and clothing our exemptions."

My husband didn't say anything for a moment. Then he grabbed his jacket and headed for the door. "A guy two blocks over has a skull and crossbones with IRS in big black letters on it waving from his flagpole. I'm going over and salute it!"

I trembled as I embraced him. "Don't let anyone see you," I said.

French nuclear vows to Arabs called vague

By ALINE MOSBY

PARIS (UPI) — France's plans to sprinkle the Middle East with nuclear energy plants in exchange for oil appear to be mainly political fireworks, according to nuclear experts and diplomats.

The experts say the French government may have enhanced its domestic political position and come out as the new protectors of the Arabs, but probably could not export a nuclear energy plant for at least another five years.

Diplomats and the Paris press call France's go-it-alone agreements with Iran, Libya and Saudi Arabia "fuzzy" and vague.

France has promised to build five nuclear plants in Iran to produce electricity and an unspecified number in Libya to power sea-water distillation factories. It has pledged undisclosed technical aid which could involve nuclear energy in Saudi Arabia.

After the oil crisis hit, the French government launched a program to construct six or seven nuclear electricity plants in France each year in order not to be dependent on ordinary fuel to generate electricity.

Marcel Boiteuy, director of the government-owned electricity company, said they could not go into operation until between 1978 and 1982.

In addition, a group of European nations decided to build a joint uranium enriching plant in the Rhone valley of France. Boiteuy said it will be necessary to make at least four nuclear reactors just to feed this plant with electricity.

Experts at the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD), which guides the economies of 24 industrial nations, and other science experts said France's existing targets for domestic nuclear plants already stretched resources to the limit.

They said it was not clear how it could build for export to Iran and Libya. Such projects could onle be in the far future, they said.

OECD is preparing a report on the capacity of member countries to make nuclear energy plants. The unpublished report shows that Western Europe set a target of producing 40,000 megawatts in nuclear energy plants by 1975 and they are barely going to make 26,500.

The experts said Europe plans to reach 81,300 megawatts by 1980, meaning building 11 or 12 nuclear energy plants a year, "and Europe does not have the capacity to do that let alone France making plants to send to the Arab world."

France builds its nuclear plants from U.S. patents with most of the work done by Westinghouse and General Electric's French companies at an investment of about $250 million per plant.

Those for the Arab lands would cost more. France already is borrowing $500 million to finance its own plants.

The French press, too, has questioned whether France's scramble-for-oil deals are solid.

"The Libyan-French agreement really just reconizes the will of the two countries to reinforce economic relations," said Le Monde after that deal was signed Feb. 19.

The Libyan-French agreement did not mention any time, deliveries or price of the Libyan oil to be delivered to France. In return, Libya gave France a shopping list of all the things it would like to buy in France including a nuclear energy plant.

"But the actual hard sales French industries will get out of this probably will be very limited," is one diplomat's assessment.

"France can buy the oil, but at what price? and will the Arabs really spend their money in France—or buy from another country?"

Another diplomat's belief is that the oil deals "were made with one eye on the internal French political situation—the people think the government is doing something about getting oil. Also, it helps French foreign policy because France now looks like the new protectors of the Arabs, helping them industrialize."

Despite less driving

Right to hike car insurance rates okayed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Cost of Living Council has given the auto insurance industry permission to raise rates but ordered it to consider the fact that motorists are apparently driving less because of the fuel shortage.

Deputy director James W. McLane said highway deaths fell 23 per cent in January, an indication that motorists are driving slower and less frequently because of the shortage.

The council, in a two-page statement, also said a factor in its decision to end the moratorium on higher rates, begun Jan. 17, was evidence indicating auto insurance rates are actually lower when inflation is considered.

The National Association of Insurance Commissioners, in a task force report to the council, said auto insurance costs to policyholders have remained relatively stable. Insurance rates have increased, the task force said, because of "external costs such as those of medical and surgical treatment and automobile repairs."

Although ending the moratorium on increases, the council said it has written into Phase IV insurance regulations a requirement that any rate increase after March 4 must give "consideration to the effect of the energy situation on claim frequency."

The NAIC task force in its report to the council indicated that the reduced claims would not result in lower insurance rates. The claim reduction, however, would probably prevent any increases expected because of the higher cost of medical treatment and auto repairs.

Clergyman jailed in land embezzlement

NEWPORT NEWS, Va. (UPI) — The minister of an interdenominational church in Hampton has been arrested here on an Arizona warrant charging him with fraud and embezzlement in a multimillion dollar land sales operation, according to police.

The suspect was identified Monday as the Rev. James H. Cornwall, 38, minister of the Peninsula Rock Church and Proclaim Center. Cornwall had been in Virginia since September, 1973, when he took over the church.

He was one of eight persons indicted by a Phoenix, Ariz., grand jury Friday on charges of fraud and embezzlement and conspiracy. As many as 65 counts against Cornwall were returned by the grand jury, according to Lt. Glenn Sparks of the Phoenix Police Department.

Cornwall was listed as president of the Great Western Land and Cattle Co., which went out of business last year.

The indictments charged that lots were sold to more than one person and that cancelled contracts were sold to investors at discount prices.

Cordwall was arrested on Saturday and released on $15,000 bond pending a March 20 yearing on extradition.

The indictments charged that sales of the company totaled as much as $5 to $7 million. But Sparks said there was no way of knowing how much of the sales were fraudulent.

Two cements promise great bonding power

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Southwest Research Institute says two cements it has developed show great promise for use in the oil and roadbuilding industries.

A cured hydrothermal cement achieves adhesive strength of more than 1,000 pounds per square inch when bonded to steel, and can resist exposure to temperatures up to 1,000 degrees Fahrenheit, the institute said.

The second cement is a fast-setting, non-shrinking mixture which allows traffic to be restored within one hour after it is used to fill a pot hole.

A-D League sees a new anti-Semitism

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith said today a new form of anti-Semitism is appearing in the world.

The conclusion was drawn in an ADL-sponsored report written by Arnold Foster, the League's associatie director and general counsel, and Benjamin R. Epstein, ADL's nativnal director.

"A clear potential for Nazi-like devastatiion does not exist in contemporary America," the ADL report said. It added that even in the Soviet Union, "perhaps the world's greatest purveyor of anti-Semitism today, the situation of the Soviet Jews, onerous as it is, is a far cry from the mass physical destruction of European Jewry in the thirties and forties."

But Forster and Epstein concluded that there is a new form of anti-Semitism, different from traditional in that it is not necessarily deliberate and is often "expressed by respected individuals and institltions here and abroad people who would be shocked to think themselves, or have others think them, anti-Semites."

The study cited these examples in the United States of what it called a new "insensitivity" to Jews and Jewish concerns: A piece in the Christian Science Monitor which the ADL report saw as a defense of the Arab stand during the October war; columns by syndicated writers Rowland Evans and Robert Novak, which it said were "consistently hostile" to Israel, and a sermon by Washington National (Episcopal) Catherdral Dean Francis Sayre labeling Israelis as "oppressors."

The report cited for "hostility and insensitivity" to Jewish concerns, the American Friends Service Committee, for its report "Search of Peace in the Middle East;" Rev. Daniel Berrigan, for a speech before an Arab group in which he denounced Israeli policies; a Department of Health Education and Welfare grant to the African-American Teachers Association, Brooklyn, N.Y.; and Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., for suggesting Israelis control Mideast policy in Congress.

Fish hooked on love for college coed

SHAWNEE, Okla. (UPI) — Oscar, a 1 ¼-inch long blue-green Siamese Fighting Fish, has fallen in love with a freshman coed at St. Gregory's College, Karol Kluge.

Miss Kluge said she feels honored, but was a little confused.

Whenever she enters the room, he swims as near to her as he can, waves his tail and swims back and forth when Karol calls his name. He is not a fickle fish. The Rev. Victor Roberts, a faculty member and Oscar's owner and provider, said the fish reacts with no enthusiasm to him.

"I guess he recognizes her and likes her," Roberts said.

He said Karol feeds Oscar, which could explain part of the attraction, but he and other students also feed him and they just get fishy glances.

Father Roberts said he brought Oscar's terrarium fishbowl to his office after the Christmas vacation. Karol began feeding the fish daily and a few weeks ago Father Roberts suggested she call the fish.

She did and Oscar's romance began.

Karol has tried hiding behind a door and calling him. Apparently he recognizes her voice because he still responds.

"We're still trying to figure it out," Karol said.

Met will hold final auditions

NEW YORK (UPI) — The annual Metropolitan Opera National Council's final auditions will be held at the opera house on March 24 with nine young singers chosen through regional auditions competing.

The winners will be heard in concert March 28 at noon at St. Thomas Church with the church choir and organ.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

"Hilter's Secret Conversations" (1953) alleges Hilter said: "The organization of our press has truly been a success. Our law concerning the press is such that divergencies of opinion between members of the government are no longer an occasion for public exhibitions, which are not the newspapers' business. We've eliminated that conception of political freedom which holds that everybody has the right to say whatever comes into his head."

U.S. will fly out bodies of 12 pilots missing in war

SAIGON (UPI) — The remains of 12 U.S. servicemen who died in Hanoi prison camps will be returned to their families this week, a spokesman for the North Vietnamese delegation in Saigon said today.

"We hope this is a first step in accounting for all missing in action in North Vietman and repatriation of all remains," an American spokesman said.

Official figures show 1,060 American military personnel reported missing in Indochina. Most or all are presumed dead during the decade of war which saw more than 500,000 American troops fighting Communist troops and guerilla elements in Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos.

The official said there were 430 Americans missing in North Vietnam, about 300 in Laos and another 360 in Viet Cong controlled areas in South Vietnam.

A spokesman for the North Vietnamese delegation to the Saigon-based Joint Military Team (JMT) said members of the team—Americans, North and South Vietnamese and Viet Cong — would be invited "to witness the return and the reception of the above mentioned remains."

The remains of the 12 pilots who died in the so-called "Hanoi Hilton" will be flown out of Gia Lam airport, near Hanoi, Wednesday in a huge C130 cargo aircraft directly to the U.S. Central Identification Laboratory at Samaesan, Thailand. The Pentagon presumably will release the names after next of kin are notified.

The plane will carry 14 American members from the Thailand-based Joint Casualty Resolution Center (JCRC) and will be led by Brig. Gen. Joseph Ulatosky.

A second C130 plane will fly from Saigon to Hanoi with 16 representatives of the JMT.

Both the JMT and the JCRC are an outgrowth of the Paris peace agreement responsible for the accounting of the dead and missing in action in the Indochina war.

The permission to retrieve the 12 remains was the first since the Jan. 28, 1973, cease-fire agreement. North Vietnam considered it a "good will and humanitarian policy."

North Vietnam returned all American POWS detained in North Vietnam by March 28, 1973, but balked on the issue of the dead and missing in action.

The battlefield around Saigon heated up Sunday with government troops suffering heavy casualties, the Saigon military command said Monday.

A command communique admitted 25 government troops were killed and another 67 were wounded in two clashes 26 miles north and 59 miles southwest of Saigon. The clashes involved battalion size troops on both sides.

The northern clash took place at sunset Sunday near Lai Khe district town. Communist troops retretreated leaving behind 18 dead after inflicting fatal casualties to 17 government troops and wounding 38, the command said.

The second happened close to Kien Van district town with 14 government troops killed and 29 wounded. Seven Communists were killed, the command said.

The command said Communist gunners unleashed another barrage of 126 ournds of 82mm mortars into the besieged camp of Ton Le Chan, 60 miles north of Saigon. The camp is defended by a government range battalion but the shelling caused no casualties.

Communist gunners also shelled another ranger position in An Loc city, 65 miles north of Saigon and seven miles east of Tong Le Chan. Communists fired 32 rounds of mixed artillery and mortar fire, killing two and wounding 13 rangers. Government troops returned fire and killed five, the command said.

Electric trucks tested by U.S. Postal Service

CUPERTINO, Calif. (UPI) — The U. S. Postal Service Monday sent its first fleet of electric trucks out delivering the mail in this suburban city south of San Francisco.

Thirty all-electric trucks began experimental service on routes ranging up to 15 miles.

They are expected to save 23,000 gallons of gasoline annually and run at a cost of .025 cents per mile in electricity.

No bonus for first trick

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Even with inflation and high interest rates it doesn't mean that you should rush to win tricks. There is no bonus for taking the first trick.

If East plays third hand high he can win the first trick and the second trick also but after that he will sit helplessly while South romps off with his contract.

If he Analyzes the lead he can he sure that his partner has led a singleton or the top of a doubleton. In the first case failure to win that first trick may mean that East won't take any tricks at all. In the second case a duck may lead to eventual defeat of the contract.

East shouldn't really play low. He should carefully put his nine of spades on his partner's eight to show strength in the suit he has bid.

South will win that first trick and probably cash all dummy's diamonds. Then if he tries the club finesse and if West has remembered to hang on to his five of spades, South will be down two.

If South has seen the handwriting on the wall he will cash his ace of clubs and get out for down one.

This last difference is relatively unimportant. The important thing is that East's third hand low play has resulted in deafeat of the contract.

Dixie belle has crush on 2 boys

By JEAN ADAMS

WHICH? (Q.) Is it possible to be in love with two boys at the same time? I am sure I love Robert very much. I may not live Clint that much, but each time I have a date with him I like him more.

I have known Clint four years but just started liking him a few months ago. I have been liking Robert more than a year.

Robert is the one I go out with most, but I have been having dates with Clint too. — 17 in South Carolina.

(A.) Yes, it is possible to love two people at once. But I think your feelings for Robert and Clint are not final, lifelong love.

You have plenty of time to make up your mind which of them is the right one or even to decide that it is some other boy.

Do not hurry yourself. Enjoy being with each boy when you are with him and let time help you find your way.

Morales is first elected L.V. mayor

LA VERNE — Mike M. Morales, 49, who has served as mayor for the past two years at the discretion of the City Council, became the first elected mayor of La Verne today.

FRANK R. JOHNSON

D. ALLAN MACKAY

MIKE M. MORALES

Riding the crest of a strong vote from the Mexican-American community and Hillcrest Homes, Morales defeated Harrison Sanborn 1,710 to 1,212. A third candidate, Mrs. Danita Peterson, received 156 votes.

Morales said his victory was a "response from the people that I did a good job during the past two years. I'm grateful for their approval, and pledge to continue to do my best for La Verne."

Also elected to council posts were incumbent Frank Johnson, for his fourth term, and D. Allen Mackay who had run for a council seat unsuccessfully four years ago.

Johnson received 2,009 votes, to Mackay's 1,923. Mrs. Carlina Griffiths polled 1,263 ballots.

The ovte was heavier than the 35 per cent expected. Of the 7,259 eligible voters, 3,140 cast ballots for a turnout of more than 42 per cent.

Morales, a production coordinator for Lockheed Electronics in Azusa, appeared stongest in Precinct 7, the Mexican-American community, where he drew 270 votes compared with Sanborn's 70, and in Precinct 10, the Hillcrest Home, a Church of the Brehtren retirement community, where he was given 207 votes, compared with 32 for Sanborn.

Sanborn's strength came from Precinct 8, the Foxglen area, and 9, La Verne Heights.

The vote will be certified and the new city officials will be seated next Tuesday night.

City Manager George Caswell said he interpreted Tuesday's vote here as a mandate for no deviation from the present philosophy of city government.

"I think the people are saying 'We like La Verne just the way it is' ", he explained. "They don't want any basic changes."

Two incumbents returned to Walnut council

WALNUT — Voters returned two incumbents to posts on the City Council here Tuesday and approved a $5 million bond issue for the Walnut School District.

Mayor Richard Laughter and Councilman William Wentworth rolled up sizeable vote counts in defeating challengers Jack Ayers and William Daley. both the victors are returning for their second 4-year terms on the council.

Tallies for the bond issue, which required a two-thirds margin for success, were overwhelmingly in favor in precincts outside the city limits but only a tiny fraction above the magic 66 per cent inside the city.

Of 1,414 ballots cast in the council race, Laughter won 810, Wentworth 748, Ayers 501, and Daley 600. The battle had been a low-key conflict over city growth patterns and recreational facilities until this past weekend when flyers endorsed by Councilmen William Cotten and Robert Lovemark appeared on the streets backing Ayers and Daley. Counter-charges by Laughter and Wentworth were quickly circulated in the suddenly-escalated race.

In five precincts outside the city, voters cast 928 ballots in favor of the bond issue and 173 against. City voters were much closer, marking 895 "yes" ballots against 459 "no" for a percentage of 66.10. The overall tally of 1823 "yes" to 632 "no" gave the bonds a 74.25 margin.

With the funds, the district will finance a five-year construction program to provide more classroom space for an expanding student population.

Compulsive act calls for professional help

While I was looking at some ashtrays in a Pomona Valley department store, a man of about 19 or 20 got down on all fours, took hold of my leg and kissed the top of my foot. The police call this a battery or unlawful touching.

I yelled for someone to stop him. No one called the security guards although there were two at the front door. One boy did go to the door that the man left by but by this time the man had run away.

The store manager was called. He said he was sorry but seemed very unconcerned, telling me that the store had no jurisdiction in matters such as this.

I wanted the police called. The manager was paged three more times and never answered his call. I felt quite helpless and upset.

A telephone was right in front of me. I said I would use it and call the police. The boy who supposedly was handling the situation walked into the office and came out saying that I would have to use my own dime in the pay phone at the rear of the store.

As I left, I talked to the security guards. They agreed that they should have been called but also said that things happen like this. It was mentioned that a week before some man had dropped his pants in front of the store!

I did call the police from the place where I work. Had the police been called right away the chances of catching this man would have been good.

When store personnel won't even let people use their phone during such an incident, I feel that it is an invitation for people like this man to come to the store. —P.N., Pomona.

You told us that you had filed a complaint with the police.

We asked Chief Forest F. Wallick about the potential hazard to the community of a person who commits acts such as the one you described.

He said his staff is not qualified professionally to comment and suggested we direct the question to the Pomona Valley Health Center.

Carolos Martinez, psychiatric social worker at the center, said that whether the man is potentially dangerous would be hard to determine without knowing all the details.

He had some advice for any victim of a similar incident. He said the victim should be willing to file a complaint and give a full description of the offender, as you did.

If police were able to apprehend the offender, he could be referred to Pomona Valley Health Center so that his condition could be evaluated.

He also had advice for the person with a compulsion to commit an act like the one you described: Seek professional help.

POMONA — Registration for more than 100 late afternoon and evening classes is currently under way through Thursday at Cal Poly.

The registration is being conducted from 5 to 8 p.m. in the administration building for classes which begin April 1.

Interested persons should bring copies of transcripts of prior college or high school work when they come to register.

JAMES LOUGH

MARVIN ERSHER

Via Verde resident S.D. voting leader

SAN DIMAS — Voters here returned James Lough to a second 4-year term and elected Marvin Ersher of Via Verde and downtown businessman James McLean to the two other vacant seats on the City Council.

The voters turned incumbent Loyd Salisbury out of office after two terms on the council.

Voter breakdown is Ersher, 1,116; McLean, 1,088; Lough, 1,081; Julian Lobosky, 833; Salisbury, 767; Terry Dipple, 760; and Howard F. Adams, 284.

City Clerk Barbara Henderson said only 31.6 per cent of the 7,107 registered voters in the city cast votes. Voting was heaviest in the Via Verde precincts where 65 per cent of the registered voters there turned out at the polls.

Ersher, a West Covina physician, is the first council representative from the Via Verde area. "We called at every home and knocked at every door up until 6:59 p.m.," said the election's top vote-getter about the area's heavy turnout.

Ersher said he was delighted with the way the election went and said it had been a "good campaign."

Lough commented on the closeness of the voting and said two late issues in the campaign, the Lone Hill Park controversy over construction of a Little League ballfield there and the demolition of San Dimas Elementary School, hurt voting for the incumbents.

He said the light turnout also didn't help.

McLean said he is a "happy man" and will do all he can to improve communications between the city and citizens as he promised in his campaign.

The winning candidates and their supporters all gathered at the McLean campaign headquarters in downtown San Dimas to celebrate Tuesday night.

No-surprise election in Claremont returns 3 incumbents for new terms

CLAREMONT — The three incumbents in the City Council race retained their seats for another four-year term Tuesday in a rather dull campaign which attracted only 26 per cent of the community's voters.

Gene Block easily outdistanced the field to garner the top number of votes — 2,598 to fellow councilmen Claire McDonald's 2,403 and 2,345 votes for Mayor Bertye Smith.

A strong showing was registered for political newcomer Douglas A. Scott who gained 1,654 votes in his first attempt for public office. Pitzer College student Lawrence Little received 577 in unofficial returns.

Block said he was surprised to be top vote-getter, and was very pleased with the results. He remarked that he didn't have too much money for his re-election campaign, but had "a lot of manpower."

"I hope the next four years go as smoothly as the last four," the victorious Block said.

There was a happy, but relieved mood at the McDonald home at midnight after the last precinct had reported into city hall. Mrs. McDonald called the election race "a lot of hard work, but I received heartening support."

"I hope Claremont can go ahead in the next four years while maintaining its leadership in environmental concerns and regional cooperation," she commented.

Mayor Smith who is at the mayor's conference in Washington, D.C. by telephone said that "I'm glad the incumbents won. Claremont's citizens want to see a continuation of the government they've had."

Mrs. Smith noted that it was 2:45 a.m. in the nation's capital, and "I couldn't sleep until I heard the results."

Group to discuss flags for streets

POMONA — The Avenue of the Flags Committee will meet Thursday to further discuss plans for flying American flags on Mission Boulevard, Holt and Garey avenues on holidays.

The meeting will be held in the City Council Chambers and will start at 7:30 p.m. Persons interested in the project are invited to attend.

Further information may be obtained by calling Fred Klein at 985-5005.

MARGARET GIBBS

Margaret Gibbs easy winner

CLAREMONT — Mrs. Margaret Gibbs, a former councilwoman and civic leader, garnered over 66 per cent of the votes to win a seat on the governing board of Citrus Community College.

In extremely light voting, Mrs. Gibbs received 2,227 votes, overwhelmingly outdistancing four other candidates for the one-year unexpired term of Ralph Lewis, who moved out of the district.

The final vote count for the other candidates was Paul Leos, 301; John A. Munger, 191; John E. Murphy, 230; and Ted C. Trzyna, 414.

A total of 3,611 votes was cast in the election, or slightly less than 25 per cent of the district's 13,146 registered voters.

School opening to learning-disabled

According to the U.S. Office of Education, more than 4.5 million school-age children suffer from some form of handicap that affects their capacity to use or understand language.

These handicaps range from minor learning disabilities to aphasia, the impairment or loss of language faculties, and dyslexia, the impairment of the ability to read due to brain defects.

"Without the ability to grasp the basic tools of language, a child's future academic success — and social development — will almost invariably be seriously jeopardized," points out George Stern, president of Monterey Learning Systems, one of the nation's pioneers in special education programs for learning-disabled.

Yet up to only a few years ago, such children were expelled or virtually excluded from public schools. Their education was considered a privilege rather than a right, and the responsibility of their parents rather than of society.

Then in 1970, efforts to integrate learning-disabled and handicapped children into the mainstream of public education reached a climax when parents in Pennsylvania took legal action. They actually sued the state to provide educational services — within the public school system — for their children, regardless of the severity of their handicaps.

In a landmark federal-district court decision, a consent decree was issued which mandated Pennsylvania to provide special education programs and services for handicapped children. This mandate — and more significantly, Pennsylvania's response to it — has set a precedent that is being followed in school districts across the country.

The Pennyslvania project is the largest educational program for learning-disabled children in the nation. It was developed by Monterey Learning Systems through research conducted by the Behavioral Sciences Institute, a nonprofit educational research and therapy organization. More than 29 school districts covering the entire state and more than 1,000 speech and hearing personnel are involved in the project.

Parents in other states are following the example of their counterparts in Pennsylvania. As a result, at least a dozen similar consent decrees have been issued by federal courts across the country and educators in some 30 states have chosen to integrate Monterey's program into their public school systems.

Consideration for cash customers

Strange to relate in this day of the ubiquitous credit card, some people still prefer to use cash in their everyday business transactions. Peculiar as this habit may be, they should not be penalized for it, contends at least one consumer group.

Or to put it another way, merchants who accept credit cards should be allowed to give discounts to cash customers.

This is the brunt of a suit that has been filed in U.S. District Court in Washington, D.C., by Consumers Union. The organization wants the court to outlaw provisions in credit card contracts that bar merchants from offering such cash discounts.

The suit argues that merchants honoring the cards must absorb what amounts to a service charge of from 2 to 8 per cent of the sales price — which, of course, is tacked onto the sales price — and that they should be permitted to offer an equivalent cash discount to customers who pay cash and thus save them the service charge.

If the suit is successful, that green stuff we used to carry in our pockets could become fashionable again.

Constitution stands

The federal constitution has for some time now been the talk of the town. And the state. And the nation.

There are those who want to ease its restrictions; those who want to add more. There are accusations that President Nixon has been usurping power not granted him by the basic law; and those who charge the judiciary with going beyond its ordained limits to the extent of encroaching upon the legislative prerogatives.

Its provisions for impeachment are being hotly debated and interpretations of "high crimes and misdemeanors" range the full spectrum.

The Constitution still stands, however. And its 185 years of existence, which it will achieve on the March anniversary of its going into effect, are an indication of its flexible strength, not of senility. Despite abuse, despite chippings away at its fundamental guarantees, it still stands as a monolithic symbol of a governmental process built upon the high principle of the sacredness of those unalienable rights of all mankind . . . life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

THE LINES ARE GETTING SHORTER.

JACK ANDERSON

Behind the Nixon-press feud

WASHINGTON — The hate affair between President Nixon and elements of the press is poisoning the flow of information to the American people.

Presidential press conferences deteriorated last year into shouting matches. The efforts to control tempers at the latest give-and-take last week scarcely concealed the underlying hostility.

Yet 80 per cent of the nation's newspapers endorsed Nixon for President in 1968 and an overwhelming 92 per cent supported his re-election in 1973. Why has the relationship gone sour?

Richard Nixon came to power with the conviction that he had gotten there by circumverting the working press and could govern successfully only so long as he continued to do so.

Reporters were to be given comfortable accommodations, fed with daily trivialities and occupied with diversions. But they were to be kept away from the news.

The Nixon presidency drew a curtain of secrecy between its internal operations and the outside world unprecedented in the memory of Washington observers. The President did not want the acts and policies of his Administration to reach the people through what he considered the distorting prism of the press. What he wanted known, he would communicate directly via television talks or other tightly controlled mechanisms.

Not only was the press distrusted. The Millions who composed the permanent government were suspect, too. The highest military officers were denied the kind of critical information it was previously considered essential they have.

Even the President's own appointees, the top few thousand in government, were given minimal initiative and not trusted with sensitive information in their areas. This denigration of the regular institutions of government was, in part, aimed at the press. What officials did not know they could not leak.

Deep suspicion and a sense of lifelong grievance — all too often confirmed — were accompanied in President Nixon by a desire for solitude and a craving for an orderly environment undisturbed by trivial interruptions or internecine discord.

In the past, he made mistakes and lost elections by trying tto direct everything personally. He was determined never again to spread himself too thin.

He would encapsulate himself from unnecessary turmoil, dealing regularly only with those select few who had learned not only to resolve conflicts but to modulate their personalities so as not to jar his sensitive vibrations.

And so he came to act through other men who aped him and tended, in the way of young men, to out-Nixon Nixon.

The trouble with all this was that a seething enterprise like America cannot be compartmentalized, cordoned off and led from a glass bubble. Bureaucrats who are denied trust will become untrustworthy. Officers who are sealed off from information they need will find ways to acquire it.

Subordinates blocked from access to the President will grow uneasy and begin to connive at office politics. Suspicion and hostility at the top will at length permeate an organization with apprehension, jealousies and moral rot.

It could not work for a more important reason. There is a fundamental conflict between uniformity and diversity, between politician and press, that is built into the American character and system.

It is the mission of the press to give the people an alternative to the official version of things, a rival account of reality, a measure by which to judge the efficacy of rulers and whether the truth is in them, an unauthorized stimulus to action or resistance.

Long before Americans could vote directly, in effect, for their presidents or their senators, before the vote was given to the poor, to women, to blacks, the role of the village editors and dissenting pamphleteer — as monitor, arbiter, critic and rival of the politician — was imbedded as a fundamental of the American system.

From its primitive state when any wanderer, if he was cantankerous enough, might set up his press and begin to assail his townsmen, the press as an institution has evolved through alternating chapters of disgrace and sublimity, of prostitution and martydom, of somnolence and vigilance, taking form in a thousand press rooms, in billions of miles of teletype tape, in the numberless newsrooms nf radio and television, gradually assuming the role and shape that confronted Richard Nixon as he sought and finally won the presidency.

He came to think he could stand against or outside of that historical process. He thought he could play to the friendly press and put the hostile press in a bottle. For a while, it seemed to be working — on the surface.

THE LIGHTER SIDE

Energy-saving products not new

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government has compiled yet another list of ways to save energy at home.

Recommendations include washing dishes by hand, rather than automatic dishwasher, and using wind-up clocks instead of the plug-in type.

I don't doubt these measures would conserve a great deal of energy. But the list doesn't begin to cover all the things that might be done around the house to cut back consumption of electricity.

Just the other day I was looking over some of the energy-saving products being developed by The Future Is Yesterday Foundation, a privately endowed research center and "think tank."

Sam Harkenback, the executive director, showed me a marvelous invention that provides hot lather for shaving without using any current.

It is called a "shaving mug."

"I don't see the switch," I said. "Where do you turn it on?"

"That's the beauty of it —you don't have to turn it on," Harkenback replied. "You turn on the hot water spigot instead. Wet the soap with a small amount of hot water, work up a lather and spread it on your face.

"Bingo! Your whiskers are ready fo' shaving without a single kilowatt."

I said, "Where's the aerosol valve that spurts the creamy, foaming lather into your hand?"

"It doesn't have one," Harkenback cried triumphantly. "You spread the lather with a brush."

Well, it may take awhile for anything that radical to catch on. But you'll have to admit it's ingenious.

Harkenback also showed me something, still in the experimental stage, that could be a substitute for electric clocks.

"The government wants us to use hand-wound clocks," he said, "but there is one big drawback. Most of us need an alarm clock in our bedrooms, and a lot of hand-wound alarm clocks tick so loudly they keep you awake."

So saying, he led me into a dark room, walked to the window and raised the blind, letting the sunlight stream in.

Almost immediately in one corner of the room there was a rustling of feathers followed by a loud "cock-a-doodle-doo."

"I can't reveal the details because it isn't perfected yet," Harkenback said, "but how would you like to be awakened in the mornings by a noise like that?

This could be the breakthrough the Federal Energy Office has been waiting for.

Remembers Spokane falls

The story in last Saturday's P-B quoting the president of the Washington Water Power Co. as stating that there is enough potential energy in the world's ocean to keep mankind going forever interested me because I was born in Spokane.

I remember the Spokane falls and the Washgton Water Power Co. that supplied Spokane with electric power.

We have dams built in the San Dimas Canyon as well as others. A power plant could be built there. If falls are necessary an artificial falls could be built with a huge pump, pumping the water up and over the falls continuously day and night.

Spokane's Expo '74 scheduled to open in May is just east of the Washington Water Power plant. What will happen, however, to Expo '74 if there's still a gasoline shortage? Maybe they'll get their $1 a gallon by then and then we'll have plenty again. True? —Mrs. Ralph E. Lunneborg, Pomona.

Pay raise averted

You probably know that a Congressional pay raise was averted by Senate action last week. Under existing law, such raises take effect automatically unless prevented by action of either House of Congress.

Salary increases are always welcome but when they feed inflationary pressure they often must be foregone. It is also incumbent on those who have the power to effect their own pay raise to refrain from abusing that power. It is especially important in times of rising prices.

I believe every Congressman must be fully accountable for each benefit he gives himself, and I will continue to work toward making sure he is. — Victor V. Veysey, Member of Congress.

U.S. faces costly metric conversion

By RICK GOTCHER
P-B Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Proponents have the U.S poised to take the plunge into the metric system. It could prove to be a costly dip.

According to a study by the General Accounting Office, national conversion to the metric system will cost $45 billion to $100 billion. What GAO does not say is that bill will be passed on to an already overburdened consumer.

The metric system is lauded as the key to improving America's export trade. Other countries, we are told, hold an edge because their shipping clerks and dock workers are able to sort and deliver by meter, liter and decameter, a system they have grown up with.

GAO says conversion to the metric system would make U.S exports even more costly and "place these products at even more of a competitive disadvantage vis-a-vis the products of foreign firms that are already metric."

There are some other little known facts about the metric everyone should be aware of, before mass confusion sets in.

All retail gasoline pumps in the nation would have to be recalibrated or replaced. Think about that while you wait in line for your turn to "fill 'er up."

An estimated 60 per cent of the population does not know the first thing about the metric. Less than 20 per cent know the correct relationship between standard units and the metric.

Metric bathtubs would not fit standard drains and bathtubs of current vintage would not fit metric drains. This would force suppliers to keep costly dual inventories.

All municipal building codes and regulations would have to be changed.

Temperature measuring devices, including thermometers and thermostats would be changed. Is 37.5 degrees good or bad for a person with a cold? Simply multiply by nine, divide by 5, add 32 and find out.

Road signs and maps would have to be changed. And unless all vehicle speedometer and odometers are changed also, the signs and maps will be virtually useless.

Deeds and property descriptions in legal documents would become obsolete. Standard identifying terms like acres and feet would become hectares and meters.

And how would O.J. Simpson's assault on the ground graining records last year read under the metric? Indecipherably.

It is a certain amount of obstinance that keeps most people from adapting to change. It has been proven that children can be taught the metric as easily as the standard as part of their school studies.

However, people involved in the everyday struggle of earning a living find it more difficult to change a lifelong line of thought. The psychology of the metric system could seriously disrupt familiar points of reference for individuals.

Some figures, at least, indicate there is no worldwide inclination to use the metric. The world's capital investment in traditional units-feet, pounds, etc.—has exceeded investment in metric units over the past several years. This shows a faster growth rate for the use of standard units.

Congress will take up the metric system bill soon. Very careful study should be given to the priority level it will be given.

Incumbents win in Chino voting

CHINO — Incumbents Angel Martinez and Leonard Frketich and planning commissioner Eileen Carter were swept into three council seats Tuesday in a light, 25 per cent voter turnout.

Martinez ran a strong first with 953 votes and Mrs. Carter came in second with 893 supporters. Frketich narrowly edged out challenger Nick Medina with 697 votes, falling off somewhat from his high percentage of votes in Mexican-American areas in 1970. Medina received a total of 576 votes, with 131 from the precinct at Gird Elementary School which has a large number of Spanish-surname voters.

The tally showed challengers Robert Bertschinger getting 565 votes and Joseph Lunetto, 125.

The winners are all former members of the planning commission. Counting councilman Ed Lynch, the new council will include a quartet of planning commissioners who served together for several years.

Mrs. Carter, in her victorious first bid for elected office, said:

"I never thought I'd be speechless. I hope to serve well those who put their faith in me with their votes."

Martinez stated:

"I'm very happy with Chino citizens and that they're happy with my performance. I'll keep it up and try to do better. I know I've made mistakes. The person who doesn't make mistakes isn't doing anything."

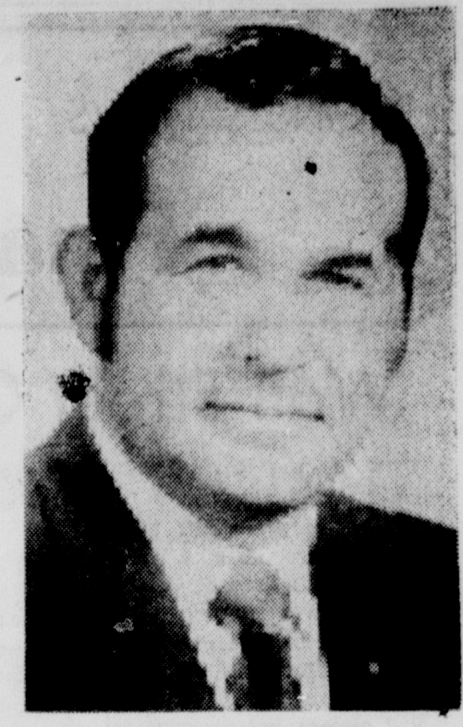
Frketich stated: "I'm glad 697 thought I'd done a good job the last four years. I feel that I've voted for and gone along with what's good for the people. I now will have the enjoyment of continuing to deal with a working council for the benefit of the community."

The turnout in the 1974 campaign was a meager 25 per cent, with response lowest in precinct 1 in northeast Chino at the Magnolia Junior High School poll. Only 109 persons, or 14 per cent of the 737 registered voters for that precinct, came to the poll.

Precinct five at Gird Elementary School, drawing largely from the Barrio area nearby, represented the highest voter participation with 41 per cent, of 198, of the total 483 voters casting ballots.

In the 1972 campaign for a council seat and the mayor's position, there was a voter turnout of about 49 per cent, according to Chris Wilson, city clerk.

Mrs. Carter, Martinez and Frketich will be sworn into office by Mrs. Wilson during a special adjourned meeting of the council on Tuesday night at 7:30.



PAUL A. TREADWAY

Snider defeated by Treadway for Ontario mayor

ONTARIO — Less than 40 per cent of Ontario's registered voters cast ballots Tuesday in an election in which Councilman Paul A. Treadway upset Mayor Howard Snider who was seeking his third consecutive four-year term as mayor.

Treadway, a teacher in Ontario, was elected to the council in 1972. He resides at 860 N. San Antonio Ave.

In the race for the council seat vacated by Walter E. Stewart, Robert K. Abel of 415 E. Hawthorne St., defeated six other candidates. Abel is a businessman. Stewart did not run for reelection.

Treadway led in the voting throughout the tabulation Tuesday night. He received 4,810 votes to Snider's 4,286.

In the council race, candidates received the following votes: Abel, 3,735; Arnold D. Anderson, a realtor, 1,867; Emery Brewer, a San Bernardino County social worker, 321; John Hahn, a janitor, 494; Anthony Rizzo, a construction forman, 1,356; Hugh W. West, a retired school administrator, 855; and William R. Winters, a manager of materials, 256.

Measures seeking to make the office of city clerk and city treasurer appointive failed, and a measure to authorize the sale of $1,800,000 in water district bonds passed.

Woman is elected to Upland council

UPLAND — Mrs. Ina Petokas, the only challenger against a field of three incumbents, scored an upset victory Tuesday to become the second woman ever to win a seat on the City Council.

Mrs. Petokas, with no prior governmental experience, beat out incumbent Councilman A. M. Hawkins Jr. by 138 votes to join incumbents Harold Bailin and John E. McCarthy on the council for the next four years.

While the tallies seesawed back and forth between Hawkins and Mrs. Petokas early in the voting counting, final results from several larger precincts in the northern part of the city gave Mrs. Petokas the final edge with 2,809 against Hawkins' 2,671 votes.

In the final totals Bailin placed second with 2,968 votes, while McCarthy led the field with 3,540 votes.

Commenting on her victory, which surprised many observers, Mrs. Petokas simply said, "Everybody did all the work and helped. I couldn't have done it without them."

Both Bailin and McCarthy were appreciative of the confidence voters expressed in them and looked forward to working with Mrs. Petokas.

Two revenue measures on the ballot passed by nearly 2 to 1 margins. The $44,000 police retirement plan which will result in a 5.5-cent increase in the general tax rate was approved 2,960 to 1,502. The $2.5 million water bond measure which will help finance two new 10 million gallon storage tanks was approved 2,966 to 1,407.

A total of 4,567 votes was cast in the election. This represents 29.37 per cent of the city's 15.548 registered voters and was one of the lighest turnouts ever recorded.

MONTCLAIR — Despite a low voter tournout, City Council candidate Nelson Gentry was able to unseat incumbent Leonard Soper in Tuesday's municipal election and finished only four votes behind incumbent Ernest Rowley, who was elected to the council for a third term.

Also re-elected was Mayor Harold Hayes, who was running unopposed.

The final vote count for the four council candidates was 832 for Rowley, 828 for Gentry, 807 for Soper, and 383 for John Randall III. Hayes' total was 1,305.

From the outset, Rowley lead in the count with Gentry and Soper trailing by a narrow margin.

All the candidates expressed disappointment over the election turnout. Unofficial figures indicated that only 20 per cent of the city's registered voters went to the polls.

"I think the low turnout hurt me and I think it hurt Councilman Soper," said Rowley. "I'm surprised more people didn't vote even though there weren't any issues at stake."

Gentry disagreed with that assessment, claiming that the low turnout hurt all the candidates.

"When a candidate is elected he wants to have a majority behind him. With these results there's no clear indication what the people want," he said.

The election was Gentry's second try for the council, he finished fourth among seven candidates two years ago.

Gas dealer halts all appointments

CLAREMONT — Due to what he termed "overexposure," a Claremont service station operator has been forced to abandon a program of selling gas by appointment only.

"The phone's been ringing off the hook here and at my home," said Ladd Roberts, operator of Shell station at Bonita Avenue and Indian Hill Boulevard. "If I handled everyone wanting appointments, I'd been booked until Christmas or New Year's.

Roberts said a story in Sunday's Progress-Bulletin about the new plan was a factor in the "overexposure." Since then Roberts has been "swamped with calls."

Roberts said he will handle appointments already made, through March 11, but he is making no new ones as of today.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — "The market remains locked in a trading range that has now lasted for three months," according to Standard & Poor's Corp. The firm says the market has exhibited a tendency to retreat from the upper limit of the range despite the fact it already has discounted an economic slowdown and the energy crisis. "The bulk of funds should be kept on hand against the possibility that the list may back down again, affording better buying opportunities," it adds.

The market is moving toward a "spring thaw" as America comes out of "its long winter of discontent," says the Predictor, a West Hartford, Conn., letter. "Like the seasons, you can't rush the market," it continues, "and it is possible that another late-season storm or two will emerge before the rosy hue of springtime is firmly established." It urges investors to guard against premature selling.

Federal Reserve Board chairman Arthur Burns' recent comments on interest rates created a turnabout in the short term money market and sent commercial paper and most other instruments sharply higher, according to Short Term Money Memo. The Baltimore, Md., letter says in the coming week it expects "a continued firming of rates as market forces struggle toward a temporary equilibrium in the vicinity of the trading ranges currently in effect." Uncertainties in the money market may cause most banks to delay dropping the prime to 8 ½ per cent as one New York bank has, it adds.

Federal Reserve Chairman Arthur Burns' recent statement that the Fed was "not going to open the spigot" and his subsequent Congressional testimony suggests it may be shooting for a six per cent growth rate in money supply, according to Lionel D. Edie & Co. "Our calculations tell us that money supply will have to grow fast in the next six months—at about a 10 per cent annual rate—to get back on that 6 per cent track," the firm continues. Predicted jump in the money supply and a falling off of business loan demand "leads us to expect further sharp declines in short-term interest rates between now and mid-year," it adds.

MT. BALDY ON SEAL — Mrs. Evelyn Barrett, chairman of the board of directors of the Claremont Convention and Visitors Bureau, and Karen Hooper, associate director of the bureau, admire the bureau's new emblem, designed by Tom Jamieson.

Claremont group adopts first seal

CLAREMONT — It is customary for an organization to have a seal or emblem, and the Claremont Convention Bureau has accepted a suggestion from a Claremont graphic design consultant for its first symbol.

Tom Jamieson and Chamber of commerce manager Alex Turner agreed that such a symbol should be simple and distinct.

Jamieson came up with a symbol which contains three basic elements. The outside shape suggests a Spanish archway, through which is seen a very simplified contour of Mt. Baldy with foothills in the foreground. The sun, one of Claremont's distinct attributes, is seen overhead, although not in the precise location within recall of most citizens, since it normally rises in the east.

The logo now appears on convention badges, stationery, and other bureau literature.

Musical is no comedy

By JOSEPH FIRMAN

The news media these days are yawningly laden with the details of that 20th Century phenomenon, The Great Gas Search, photos of jammed service stations, interviews with oil company presidents and greasy mechanics, editorials on rationing and odd-even and topping tanks and other gaseous topics. It's a drag.

Since no sociological crisis is assured its proper place in history until it has been immortalized on the musical comedy stage, I am at present busy on a multi-million dollar song and-dance spectacular based on the gasoline shortage and set in that once-ignored palladium of petroleum, the gas station, now second in popularity among American institutions only to the welfare office.

"Hello, Ethyl!" (book by J. Firman,music by Learner and Running Loewe) asks the question "can a simple millionaire's daughter find happiness with a tiger in her tank?"

At curtain's raise we see a service station at dawn, lights out, doors locked. It is surrounded by 41 cars bearing licenses ending in an add number. Drivers are dozing, drinking coffee, reading newspapers, knitting. The scene doesn't change for an hour. This is the New Realism in the theater—it may have to be cut to 45 minutes when the show goes on the road. If it can get gas.

Now the lights go on in the gas station, a chorus of nattily clad attendants appears, and the orchestra strikes up the opening number, "Topping Off the Tank." The cars begin to move forward, crunching fenders, the drivers sweating and swearing at each other. The pumps whir into action, gasoline gushes into the tanks, and a Brink's armored car backs up to the office.

The fourtheenth car to edge up to the pumps is driven by our heroine, Joan of Arco, daughter of a wealthy investment banker. She is a voluptuous blonde driving a Cadillac convertible with its top down. She also has her top down, but the hot pants and knee-length white boots give promise of her allure. The handsome young attendant Ron Chevron, oils his way to her side. "Regular or ethly?" he moans. It is love at first sight. (Comic love ballad: "I'm Shell-shocked by You!)

Joan responds with the romantic aria, "You're Supreme With Me." A crisis arises when he discovers that she has more than half a tank of gas already. He is torn between love and duty. "I'm sorry, my beloved, but I cannot serve you." Heartbroken the stumbles off to the grease-rack. Joan is enraged, but she admires his integrity. She sings "How Can I Bridge the Gulf Between Us?" (country-western).

The young lovers must part. With tears in her eyes, Joan puts the car in gear—then suddenly gives a sob of relief. She has been singing so long so long that her gas gauge is now down to a quarter of a tank. Her lover rushes to her side, and they join in the duet, "You Really Charge My Battery!" The other motorists get out of their cars and do a ballet sequence to "I'd Like To Strip Your Gears." The orchestra reprises "You're a Credit to Your Card," and Joan drives off, flattening Ron between the hi-test and the empty oil cans.

Paintings going on exhibit tonight at MSAC gallery

WALNUT — Six purchase awards and 47 other paintings and drawings will go on exhibit in the art gallery of Mt. San Antonio College at the opening of the fourth biennial exhibition of paintings and drawings at 8 o'clock tonight. The prizewinners will be announced at the reception.

Artists whose works appear in the exhibition will be on hand to greet visitors and discuss the many works and styles of art presented.

Jessica Jacobs, gallery director, said the entires offered this year represent a dramatic cross-section of the work being done by the many outstanding artists in Southern California today.

The paintings and drawings submitted last month were juried by Barbara Haskell, curator of painting and scultpure for the Pasadena Museum of Modern Art. She has been with the museum since 1969, following her graduation in art history and philosophy from UCLA.

She has shown her own work throughout the area and has received several awards including the Mademoiselle award for achievement in the field of contemporary art, and the Los Angeles Soroptimist award to encourage leadership among business and professional women.

She selected 53 pieces to be presented in the exhibition and chose the six works for purchase by the college. Awards totaled $975.

The exhibit runs to April 4. Gallery hours are 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. on weekdays.

Add-on sign for inn nixed in Claremont

CLAREMONT — The Architectural Commission by a 6-0 vote has turned down a request from the Rodeway Inn for an additional sign below its freeway-orientd one to advertise its new Valley Racquet Club.

The new club is part of the Rodeway Inn compelex at 840 S. Indian Hill Blvd.

Previously the commission had denied a request from Shell Oil Co. to attach its sign to the Rodeway sign.

Steve Miller, general manager of Rodeway Inn told commission members that when Rodeway Inn was built there had been no idea of putting in a tennis club. He said that there is a possibility that he might drop the Rodeway Inn franchise and rename the development the Valley Inn and Racquet Club.

Commissioner John Esterline was sympathetic to the applicant's problem, but felt the sign was put together hastily.

Commissiner Adele Schoene said there could be a second sign, but it should look like one unit, using the same background color and block letters as the Rodeway sign.

Commissioner Dorothy Goldberg was opposed to the "tack-on kind of sign."

Miller tol dthe commission he did not think it would be possible to redesign the present sign and have it legible.

In other action, the commission denied an application by Stater Bros. for a 15-foot-high, 17-foot-wide free-standing sign at the Towne Avenue entrance to the shopping center.

The city staff had recommended that the proposal be tabled so that applicant could consider relocating the sign from the Towne Avenue entrance to the Foothill Boulevard frontage for greater visibility, but the commission denied the application 6-0.

The commission approve a proposed addition to Manor Lodge at Claremont Manor, 650 W. Harrison Ave.

The present lodge has seven rooms, and after expansion will have 24 rooms and a second story.

The commission denied by a 5-1 margin a request by Thomas Quinn, 234 W. Bonita Ave., for an identification sign over the rear entrance to his office The sign would say his name and "Entrance on Bonita Avenue."

SCOTT H. JENKINS, son of Ivins T. Jenkins, 1027 W. Hollowell Ave., Ontario, has completed the aircraft mechanic course conducted by the Air Training Command at Sheppard AFB, Tex. He has been assigned to Norton AFB for service with a unit of the Military Airlift Command. Jenkins was graduated in 1973 from Chaffey High School.

Chamber urges more gas for West End

MONTCLAIR — The Montclair Chamber of Commerce, fearing a serious loss of profits among small businesses due to the gasoline shortage, has called for increased fuel allocations to the West End communities.

In a statement sent to local congressional representatives, county supervisors, city councils and West End chambers of commerce, the Montclair chamber's board of directors urged that fuel supplies for the West End be increased immediately.

Failing that, the chamber asked that vehicle smog control devices be disconnected by permit to allow increased mileage.

The chamber's action apparently stems from the belief that the fuel shortage is already crippling small businesses and that the controlled sales system in Los Angele County will heighten the supply problem.

Tom Watson, manager of the Montclair Chamber of Commerce, explained that small businesses are being hurt two ways by the fuel shortage. First, the smaller stores are suffering a drop in the volume of customers as West End residents curtail their shopping trips.

Secondly, he explained, small businesses that depend on their own small vehicle fleet for pickup or delivery of goods are unable to conduct business because of the unavailability of adequate fuel supplies.

Because of the even-odd sales system now in effect in Los Angeles County, Watson said, some businessmen believe that gasoline lines in the West End communities have lengthened as Los Angeles County residents cross over the county line in search of fuel.

"We're urging that all of the chambers of commerce in the West End combine with us in an all out effort to get some action in this drastic situation," said Watson.

Car hits pole, passenger hurt

CLAREMONT — A passenger was injured slightly Sunday night when the vehicle she was in hit a curb and a utility pole at Sixth Street east of Brooks Avenue.

Veronica Hart, 54, of 4523 Orchard Ave., Montclair, was released after treatment at San Antonio Community Hospital, Upland. The driver, the Rev. Zachary J. Mbuya, 43, of 435 Berkeley Ave., wasn't hurt. Police reported that Mbuya was brushing an ash from his clothing when the car drifted into the curb.

Nixon asks $432 million hike for vets' disability

In a letter to the chairmen and ranking Republicans on the Senate and House Veterans Committees, Nixon recommended a 12 per cent increase in veterans disability payments and a 14 per cent increase in payments to the dependents of disabled veterans.

Nixon also recommended inclusion of an automatic cost of living increase in disabled veterans benefits based on the Consumer Price Index, as well as structural changes in the disability rating system whereby severely disabled former servicemen would receive higher benefits.

The President estimated the total cost of the increases would be $432 million in the first full year.

World's most boring work

What's the most boring job in the world? That's what researchers at Harvard's Institute for Policy Studies wanted to know. Their intensive investigations resulted in a list of these five jobs as the most boring of all: 1. Assembly line worker. 2. Elevator operator. 3. Pool typist. 4. Bank guard. 5. Housewife. Also listed by this outfit as the most boring of occupations are those of key puncher, copy machine operator and highway toll collector.

Q. "What's Alice Cooper's real name?"

A. Vincent Damon, he says. Says, also, both his father and grandfathers are ministers.

BABYFACE

The good guy is called "the babyface" in the lingo of the professional wrestlers.

Stride of the average woman today is four inches shorter than her husband's stride. About 25 years ago, it was seven inches shorter. How do you account for this change?

How much do you have in your savings account sir? Don't answer, it's nobody's business. Merely mean to mention that two out of three families hereabouts have savings accounts now. And the balance in half of them exceeds $1,300.

Fifty cents is the toll to motor across San Francisco's Golden Gate Bridge. Now and then a driver, who can't come up with the money, will leave some personal item as collateral. That's permitted. At last report, empty-pocketed souls had left among numerous other things five men's wedding bands.

PISCES

Dina Shore, Pat Nixon and Elizabeth Taylor are Pisces. The stargazers say Pisces people are dreamers. That leads them toward success. The hard facts don't tend to discourage them, because they rarely recognize said hard facts when confronted with same. They prefer their own imaginative notions.

Rarely does a woman's snoring rattle the window panes the way a man's snoring does sometimes. But the medical men who make a study of such nighttime noise say the snoring of a woman tends to be pitched higher than the snoring of a man, so therefore carries farther.

Those two automotive accessories which have jumped the most in popularity during the last six months, as you might expect, are siphon hoses and gas tank locks.

Only mammal that can't jump is said to be the elephant.

A variety of foods make balanced diet

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 55 and have been a heart patient for the past year. I take Coumadin and other medicines. I walk a mile a day and do my housework.

A year ago I weighed 155 pounds, now 140 pounds. I have to limit myself to 1,000 calories per day to control my weight. What I need to know is, how many of these should be protein, carbohydrates and fat? I know I have to keep the fat low, but I'm afraid I'm getting too much carbohydrate. I drink three glasses of one per cent skim milk a day and eat very few starchy foods. My carbohydrates come from vegetables, fruit, cereals, skim milk and one slice of bread a day.

DEAR READER — You are getting over 150 calories of protein, or about 40 grams, from your skim milk. The new 1973 Recommended Daily Dietary Allowances (from the National Research Council) for women over 51 is only 46 grams a day. So, you can see that you are getting about all the protein you need from the milk alone. I would think, though, that you should get some additional protein from other sources, including some lean fish, poultry and meat. In general, though, I would guess you are already getting enough protein.

The new values for protein requirements have actually been lowered on the basis of the most current research. I'm inclined to think that when you are trying to control your weight, it is wise to have a little more protein, but otherwise, apparently most normal adults don't need more than 60 grams daily (240 calories of protein).

The rest of your calories can, and should, come from carbohydrates and a limited amount of fat. Vegetables, fruit, and cereal are fine foods. I would hope that your condition will permit you to be a little more active and a little less restrictive on your calories intake. A 1,000 calories a day diet for a prolonged time is a marginal intake. I don't recommend this except under a doctor's supervision.

For more information on keeping a balanced diet write to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10022, and ask for the "Balanced diet" booklet. Send 50 cents to cover costs.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Kindly tell me what causes the pressure when one has glaucoma? My doctor said no cataract. I am 75. He told me to use eye drops. Could there be cancer? Should I follow a diet?

DEAR READER — The eye normaly produces a certain amount of fluid inside the eyeball all the time. It should gradually seep out. The balance between the amount of fluid formed and the amount that is leaked out determines how much pressure is inside the eye.

Some people have a defect in the normal drainage mechanism from the eye. It can be caused by many different things. This causes the pressure to increase and results in glaucoma. You do not need to have cataracts to have glaucoma. They are not the same thing.

Anyone who has glaucoma should follow his doctor's advice to the letter. It can make the difference between keeping your sight and losing it.

No, glaucoma is not caused by cancer.

Grouper must work off excess energy

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: The latest addition to my 140-gallon marine tank is George, a sea bass, a grouper. He's got a pleasing personality but he is a terrible pest because he plows up the gravel in the bottom of the tank like a bulldozer. He makes a mess of the tank and keeps the other fish stirred up, too. How can I get them all — George especially — calmed down? — I. N.

Dear I. N.: A grouper has to find some way to work off excess energy on occasion. Even so, George would undoubtedly be more content with aquarium facilities if he is provided with a grouper house of his own. He needs some secure muddy place to call home. This could be stacked chunks of coral or a scattering of clay flower pots creating a secluded corner. Even with this addition, other aquarium inhabitants couldn't be expected to relax completely. If George outweights them at all. Almost any fish not his equal in size is in continual danger of being gulped down. (He has a large mouth and plenty of guts to go with it.)

DEAR DR. MILLER: The only problem we ever had with our cat was her scratching up everything. It took us a year and a half and two sets of furniture before we finally did it, but when we had her declawed it was the answer.

We are going to get her a playmate soon, a puppy, and want to know the best age for having a puppy declawed? — D. J.

Dear D. J.: There are a few circumstances when declawing a cat is the best of the alternatives available. A puppy's declaws (the high, inner claws on the foot) are frequently removed for aesthetic and, occasionally, for practical reasons. This is as far as the declawing process ever goes in a dog. Remember, the canine's claws do not retract and dogs are much more dependent on the nails for support and traction. It is about as common for a dog to be destructive with his nails as it is a cat to tear up things with its teeth.

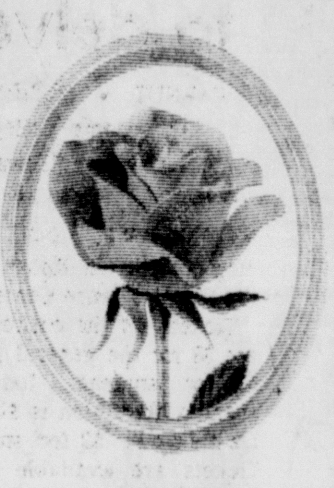
Puppies and kittens are both capable of learning to use teeth and claws in a nondestructive fashion. Begin this training for your new puppy by keeping safe chewables always convenient and immediately discouraging extracurricular chewing. Also, provide plenty of exercise and immediate discipline to avoid digging into lawn, garden, or even carpet.

Patrolmen study brand inspection

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — Nevada highway patrolmen will attend classes on brand inspection in an enfort to catch cattle rustlers.

Patrol Chief James Lafbert said his men will study administration of brand laws and will learn about techniques modern rustlers use. Ranchers say thieves commonly shoot a cow, drag it into a van and butcher it while the van travels to the nearest possible market. Patrolmen routinely will record pertinent information on vehicles and drivers involved in livestock shipments.

When
care
means
everything



There are times when care, and care alone, means everything.

That's why at Rose Hills we are not just another mortuary. We stress the importance of care and understanding above all else.

It was a care for beauty that led to the creation, more than a half century ago, of the world's most naturally beautiful memorial park.

It was an understanding of people's needs that led us to establish a mortuary. We offer every needed service — mortuary, cemetery, chapels, flower shops, mausoleums and crematory — all at one convenient location.

Care . . . and understanding. At Rose Hills, we think they mean a lot.

Cambodia crash kills pilot, boy

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — A Cambodian Air Force T28 fighter crashed on takeoff from Pochentong Air Force Base today, killing the pilot and a young boy on the ground.

The plane's four napalm bombs exploded on impact, sending flames racing through houses northeast of the airport, which is four miles from Phnom Penh.

In addition to the fatalities an elderly woman was injured and four homes destroyed.

The cause of the crash was not immediately known.

Air Force officials said the fighter plane was heading for a bombing mission northwest of Phnom Penh.

The Cambodian Air force has a total of about 200 aircraft, including about 20 of the propeller-driven T28s.

Novel racing idea

Kids like Krisiloff

By CURT WEBSTER
P-B Correspondent

ONTARIO — Steve Krisiloff is a race driver without a sponsor, but one with a lot of potential fans.

Krisiloff, a 27 year-old qualifier for Sunday's California 500 at Ontario Motor Speedway, explained his predicament for the 1974 season during last weekend's qualifying for the March 10 500-miler.

"We didn't come up with a sponsor this year," Krisiloff related. "So what we decided to do was to dedicate it to the kids. It's for all the kids out there who would like to be race drivers some day."

Hence the title of the No. 18 Eagle, The American Kids Racer. It's a novel publicity idea that's bound to draw some added parade lap cheers for the Parsippany, N.J. native.

The pink, blue, and silver car is owned by Richard Beith and, while it does carry an "associated sponsorship," there is litte of the financial clout that backs the Olsonite Eagles or the Vel's-Parnelli "super Team."

Thanks to a third place finish in the second of Sunday's Twin 100 qualifying races, Krisiloff will be within striking distance of the lead when the green flag drops (though it's goinng to take some kind of mistake by pole-sitter A. J. Foyt before the rest of the field can begin to think of victory.)

Under the complicated qualifying procedure, Krisiloff will be making his start in the middle of the second row—or the fifth best spot of the 33-car field.

It's understandable, perhaps, that Krisiloff would feel an affinity for the Soap Box Derby set. His extremely youthful appearance leads one to believe he just came off the sandlots of Parsippany himself.

Yet, in the short time that Krisiloff has competed on the USAC Championship trail, he has logged a pretty fair amount of mileage.

Some of Krisiloff's bigger moments have come at Ontario. After early magneto failure relegated him to 29th at the inaugural California 500 in 1970, Krisiloff came back in 1971 in a King TCO that almost carried him to victory before a long, late pit stop pushed his final standing all the way back to fifth.

Running in a new Grant King-Kingfish Offy in the '72 500, Krisiloff was in one of 10 cars still running at the end of the race, good enough for an 11th place showing.

Krisiloff had his best Indianapolis finish ever last year, placing sixth in the rain-shortened 500.

In the intervening months since last September, Krisiloff has left the King stable to venture forth in his new Kids Racer. His respectable finish last Sunday will give him his best starting position ever.

And while Krisiloff is only one of a number of young drivers that various publicity machines assure us is "on the verge of superstardom," he is, by the same token, in the best position of any to enhance his reputation on Sunday.

He's sure going to have the kids on his side anyway.

Lakers don't lose ground despite loss

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — After the Los Angeles Lakers lost a 107-102 decision to the struggling Portland Trail Blazers Tuesday night, they received some good news from San Francisco.

The Golden State Warriors, the Lakers' rival for leadership in the Pacific Division, dropped a 95-93 decision to Detroit, keeping the Lakers only one-half game back of the all-important race.

The Lakers had a seven-game winning streak snapped by the Blazers, the last place team in the Pacific Division. Sidney Wicks paced the Portland attack, scoring 12 of his 28 points in the final period.

The Lakers held a 55-50 lead at the half, and were still ahead 73-71 at the end of three periods. Paced by Wicks and center Lloyd Neal, the Blazers pulled away with seven minutes to play in the half and then held off a late Laker comeback.

The Lakers, trailing 101-94 with little over two minutes left, reduced the margin to 101-98 with 1:25 to play. Guard Geoff Petrie then came down the floor, faked his way past Jim Price and calmly sank a 19-footer that put the Lakers away.

Wicks also had 14 rebounds while Neal had 19 points and 17 rebounds. Happy Hairston had 19 for the Lakers, reserve Stan Love added 16 and Gail Goodrich, who averaged 32 points in his previous meetings with Portland this year, was held to 14. Jerry West, still recovering from an abdominal muscle injury, watched the game from the sidelines.

"We're just going to have to run more plays for Gail (Goodrich)," he said. "Gail has to score 25 or so for us every night if we're going to win."

The Lakers are now 39-31, with 12 games remaining, while the Warriors are 38-29 with 15 left. The winner of the Pacific Division will probably be the Western Conference's last playoff representative.

Los Angeles begins a grueling eight-game span against Boston at the Forum tonight. They meet the Celtics, the New York Knicks and the Warriors twice each between now and March 17.

Bonita product looking sharp in Angel camp

HOLTVILLE, Calif. (UPI) — Three rookies—Bob Allietta, Morris Nettles and Sam Ashford—accounted for the only score in the California Angels' first intrasquad game of the spring Tuesday.

The game was a scoreless tie going into the bottom of the ninth when Allietta and Nettles singled. Allietta scored on an infield grounder by Ashford.

Nine pitchers worked an inning apiece in the contest. Angel manager Bobby Winkles said he was pleased with the work of Bill Singer, Dave Sells, Bruce Heinbechner and Frank Kenyon of Bonita High. Mickey Rivers had two hits, a double and an infield single.

"The youngsters looked good, especially defensively," Winkles commented.

After normal workouts here Wednesday and Thursday, the Angels open their Cactus League schedule at home Friday against the Chicago Cubs. The team moves its camp to Palm Springs on Saturday, to host the world champion Oakland A's.

49ers sign Troy's Moore

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The San Francisco 49ers have announced the signing of USC fullback Manfred Moore, a ninth round draft choice.

The 6-1, 189-pound Moore failed to show up for rookie orientation two weeks ago and the 49ers feared he had signed with the World Football League's Hawaii franchise.

"However," a club spokesman said, "he got in touch with us later and we finished negotiations today."

Azusa, Poets clash tonight for K.C. trip

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

LA MIRADA — Will Azusa Pacific College finally make it to the NAIA national basketball playoffs at Kansas City or will the Whittier jinx prevail again?

Those questions will be answered tonight when the Cougars (27-4) clash with Whittier College (20-7) tonight at 8 p.m. in the final round of the District Three Playoffs at Biola College.

The Poets have turned back APC bids four times in playoff competition. But the situation may have begun to change last year when the Cougars knocked Whittier out of the playoffs with an 82-69 victory last year. That marked the first time APC had beaten the Poets in the playoffs.

But it was Whittier again this year that dealt the Cougars their first loss, a 78-69 defeat at Whittier, in the fourth game of the season.

In that game, Dennis Vanzant was recovering from an ankle injury and scored just six points in a part-time roll. Vanzant finished the regular season with a 19.8 average and scored 24 Monday night as APC defeated Westmont.

Whittier was without the services of Paul Caldwell in that game. Caldwell had a knee injury at the time. The 6-5 forward went on to lead the SCIAC in scoring with a 17.5 points-per-game average.

Both Vanzant and Caldwell are at their peak now.

"We're going to have to hold Vanzant and (Rick) Reed to 20 points apiece in order to win," said Whittier coach Dave Jacobs.

Reed averaged over 25 points a game for APC and tossed in 28 Monday night against Westmont.

Reed and Vanzant both are all-district first team selections.

"Defense will be the key," continued Jacobs. "We've got to play the same type of tough defense we played against Fresno Pacific Saturday."

Whittier defeated Fresno Pacific 70-63 to earn the right to play in the finals. Bernie Hoskin, who has been bothered by a sore ankle, scored 17 points against Fresno. Guards Jack Smoot and Al Hardin played the FP guards extremely well.

APC coach Cliff Hamlow is already on record as saying, "We have to contain Smooth and Hardin. If we don't we're in deep, deep trouble."

The Poets backcourt aces are excellent penetrating guards. Both are two-time first-team all-conference. Hardin, who averaged 13.5 points per game this year, is also an all-district selection.

Hoskin was all conference last year but slipped to the second-team this year.

"Whittier is a guard-oriented team," said Hamlow. "We can't allow them to penetrate and then pass off to one of their big men inside."

Whittier's front line of the 6-5 Caldwell, 6-4 Rod Van Vliet at center, and the 6-6 Hoskin is much shorter than the Cougars front line of the 6-9 Vanzant, 6-8 Roger Cahoon, and 6-7 Mike Leatherby.

Digger Phelps Coach of Year

NEW YORK (UPI) — Richard "Digger" Phelps, an energetic, dapper young man who in only three seasons has raised Notre Dame's basketball program from the doldrums to national prominence, today was named Coach of the Year by the United Press International.

The 32-year-old Phelps, who guided the Irish to a 24-2 regular season record, including a stunning 71-70 upset of UCLA that snapped the Bruins' record 88-game winning streak, was an easy winner in a balloting of 241 sports writers and sportscasters across the nation.

Phelps received 107 votes to easily outdistance six-time Coach of the Year John Wooden of UCLA. Wooden, whose club was beaten three times this season after going undefeated the previous two years, polled 43 votes. Buzz Ridl of Pittsburgh was third with 23 votes followed by Roy Skinner of Vanderbilt with 18 and Norm Sloan of top-ranked North Carolina State with 17.

Others receiving at least two votes were Lute Olson of Long Beach State, Eddie Sutton of Creighton, Ted Owens of Kansas, Johnny Orr of Michigan and Bob Boyd of Southern California.

Phelps is the first Notre Dame basketball coach ever to be awarded UPI's Coach of the Year honor, and he achieved it by combining high-powered recruiting with an abundance of court knowledge.

When Phelps arrived at Notre Dame three seasons ago after one outstanding season as the head coach of Fordham, everyone agreed that it would just be a matter of time before he turned the Irish into a national power.

"If anyone can rebuild your basketball program, Digger Phelps can. He is one of the best young coaches in the country," said Marquette Coach Al McGuire at the time Phelps took over.

In Phelps' first year the Irish, young and inexperienced, suffered through a 6-20 campaign, but Phelps' recruiting and patience began to pay off last season as Notre Dame finished with an 18-12 record that included a second place finish in the National Invitation Tournament.

This year the Irish blossomed into one of the nation's most powerful clubs and pulled off the biggest victory in college basketball over the last three seasons when they upended UCLA at South Bend, Ind. A week later UCLA avenged the loss by beating Notre Dame at Los Angeles, but the Irish then reeled off 12 straight victories before losing their season finale to Dayton.

Phelps, who took Fordham to a third place finish in the NCAA East regionals in 1971 before walking out on the remainder of a five-year contract to take the Notre Dame job, will lead the Irish into action in the NCAA Mideast regionals Saturday.

Phelps, regarded as one of the best recruiters in the country, has concentrated his recruiting efforts largely to the East coast — considered a hotbed of talent—and has corralled such stars as All-American John Shumate (Elizabeth, N.J.), Gary Brokaw (New Brunswick, N.J.), Adrian Dantley (Washington, D.C.), Bill Paterno (Lincroft, N.J.) and Ray Martin (Long Island City, N.Y.).

Kings just edge Seals but enjoy fourth place

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — After a tense 2-1 win over the lowly California Golden Seals Tuesday night, Bob Murdoch offered an explanation.

"We seem to have problems getting motivated against the lower teams in the standings," said Murdoch, whose 40-foot goal with 2:18 left to play won the game. The win pushed the Kings into sole possession of fourth place in the NHL West, two points ahead of idle St. Louis.

"At this point we shouldn't have this trouble, because every point counts," Murdoch added.

It appeared the Kings were headed for a tie when Murdoch, while both teams were a man short, slapped in the long-range shot. The puck went between the legs of goalie Marv Edwards.

Mike Corrigan gave Los Angeles a 1-0 lead early in the second period. While the Seals were a man short, Corrigan took a pass from Frank St. Marseille and scored from four feet out.

Kings goalie Gary Edwards, making his first start since Dec. 15, made the goal stand up until seven minutes remained in the game when Walt McKenchie knocked in a rebound of a shot by Hilliard Graves.

The Kings remained one point behind third-place Atlanta. The Flames knocked off Boston 4-1.

Murdoch expects no motivational problems this week with the Kings next two opponents, the Chicago Black Hawks on Thursday and the Bruins on Saturday, both at the Forum.

"We'll have no trouble getting up for Chicago and Boston," he said. "It's not tough to get up for teams like that."

The Seals, who still have won only two on the road, come home tonight to host Chicago. A rested Gilles Meloche will be back in the nets for that one.

Rick Auerbach impressive in Dodgers' practice game

VERO BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Rick Auerbach, acquired last October as a backup man for Los Angeles Dodger shortstop Bill Russell, slammed a triple and a double in an intrasquad game Tuesday.

"If I can pick out the best looking player, I'd have to say Rick Auerbach has pleased me," assessed manager Walter Alston after the drill. "Also a couple of youngsters —Hector Cruz and Ivan Dejesus-have looked good too."

Auerbach, a 24-year-old native Southern Californian, came to the Dodgers in a deal with the Milwaukee Brewers. He is expected to play behind Russell, who played in all 162 games for the Dodgers last season.

Auerbach's hits sparked a team coached by Tommy Lasorda to an 8-0 comp over squad coached by Jim Gilliam. His triple started a two-run rally off Greg Shanahan in the first inning. His run-scoring double kept alive a four-run rally in the second inning. Tom Paciorek contributed a two-run double in the inning.

Just how good is Long Beach?

By United Press International

One of the sad aspects of this basketball season is that the fans will never know just how good the Long Beach State team is.

The 49ers lost a couple of close games early in the season but as frosh flash Clifton Pondexter adjusted to the big time, they became just about unbeatable.

But while Long Beach compiled its best-ever season record, it also drew the full wrath of the NCAA for alleged recruiting violations and cannot play in post-season action for the next three years.

Long Beach blasted Fresno State 84-61 Tuesday night to finish 12-0 in the Pacific Coast Athletic Association, 24-2 for the season, and extend its home court win streak to 77.

A team linked to Long Beach State also finished in fine style. Nevada-Las Vegas, which lured away Coach Jerry Tarkanian from Long Beach, wound up with a 20-6 record by taking Loyola 84-73 in the last WCAC contest. Bob Florence scored 23 to take over second in the all-time conference scoring derby with 895 points in three seasons. Only William "Bird" Averitt of Pepperdine tallied more.

In the Big Sky playoff at Missoula, Mont., Idaho State took a 60-57 win over Montana with frosh center Steve Hayes leading the way. Idaho State meets Western Athletic champ New Mexico and independent Dayton faces PCAA representative Los Angeles State Saturday night at Pocatello.

The winners must play West Coast Athletic Conference king San Francisco and the Pac-8 champ, which will be determined by Saturday night's UCLA-USC confrontation at the Sports Arena.

Otherwise, small school playoffs dominated Tuesday's action.

Far Western Conference co-champ Sonoma State got 21 points and a dozen rebounds from Bill Belander in a 60-54 win over San Diego, which saw Neil Traub score 16 and grab 17 rebounds.

That sets a Friday field in the NCAA College Division regionals of Chico State (18-8) against UC Riverside (19-7) and Sonoma (17-9) against Cal Poly-San Luis Obispo (17-9).

Central Washington earned a trip to the NAIA with a 75-60 win over St. Martin's despite Ron Sheets' 30 points for the losers. Grand Canyon, now 27-1, also will go to the NAIA after a 62-48 win over Southern Utah. Azusa faces Whittier at La Mirada tonight for another NAIA berth and Oregon Tech won the West's other spot in the small school playoffs Monday night.

Meanwhile, latest Pac-8 scoring statistics with one game to go show Ron Lee of Oregon pulling ahead in the scoring derby with a 19.5 average to 17.7 for runnerup Rich Kelley of Stanford. When all games are considered, Lee is averaging 18.96 and Bill Walton of UCLA 18.95.

Walton and Kelley are 1-2 in rebounds while Dan Anderson of USC is tops in free throws at .884 and Walton the most accurate shooter with 81 for 120 from the floor for .675.

UCLA is tops in five departments out of six with 75.9 points per game, 58.9 points allowed, for a difference of 17, along with a .735 free throw per cent and a 10 rebound margin per game. The Bruins are hitting half their shots from the floor but arch-rival USC is at .513.

Skidding Sharks can't hold lead

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Ray Clearwater ignited a four-goal burst in the second period Tuesday night that carried the Cleveland Crusaders to a 6-3 World Hockey Association win over the floundering Los Angeles Sharks.

It was the sixth straight loss for the Sharks, who have now dropped 15 of their last 16 games.

After Cleveland's Jim Wiste and the Sharks' Gary Veneruzzo traded goals in the first period, Los Angeles spurted ahead early in the second period on goals by Steve Sutherland and Marc Tardif, taking a brief 3-1 lead.

Two minutes afer Tardif's goal, Clearwater scored from in front of the net to ignite the Crusaders' rally. His goal was followed by scores by Russ Walker on a breakaway, Gerry Pinder on a shot from the point and a short shot from in front of the net by Skip Krake.

Tom Edur slammed in a 40-footer in the final period to end the scoring.

WESTERN SHOOTER — Western Christian guard, Bruce Sider, the team's top scorer, shoots for two points in Lancers' 70-65 win.

Lancers come from behind

WC heads to semis

By CRAIG TRAVIS
P-B Staff Writer

GLENDORA— The Christians scored another victory over the Lions (Panthers) Tuesday night, but it took a miracle.

Norm Moline, Sam Shumaker and Bruce Sider sparked a fourth - quarter rally that saw Western Christian hit eight of nine from the floor en route to a 23-12 advantage in an exciting 70-65 come-from-behd victory over Perris in the quarterfinals of the CIF 1-A basketball playoffs.

Coach Les Holstein's Lancers, now 24-2 on the season, will play undefeated Elsinore, a 69-64 winner over Banning, Friday night with the site to be decided today.

The contest was a strangely played see-saw battle that saw the Panthers maul the Christians in the first half only to have the hosts dominate second half play.

Perris (15-11) shot 50 per cent (25 for 50) over the first three periods, holding a 53-47 lead entering the final eight minutes of play.

Then Moline, Shumaker, Sider and the defense of guard Ken Neilson took its toll.

The Lancers rattled off 11 straight points to take the lead for the first time in the game, 58-53.

Moline and Shumaker collaborated for most of the scoring with 'Stormin' Norman scoring five points, grabbing three steals and contributing three assists — all to Shumaker for six points in the four minute span.

Perris' Anthony Battle hit the first points of the period for the visitors on a pair of free throws to cut the deficit to 58-55.

Moline and Shumaker hit buckets to extend the lead to seven points.

The Panthers, Western's 20th consecutive victim, took a final run by scoring five straight points to make it 62-60 with 1:09 to play.

That's when Sider took over.

The 6-1 senior hit a bucket to extend the lead to four again only to have Perris' Ken Nipper hit a field goal with 21 seconds left to make it 64-62.

In the next four seconds it was give and take.

Perris gave away a foul that resulted in a four-point play and the Lancers gladly took it.

Panther Ron Hooks committed a foul and was charged with a technical for disputing the call.

Sider sank the charity toss, Moline sank the technical, the Lancers got the ball out of bounds, Moline was fouled again — sank two more free throws — and the Panthers were sunk.

Sider added two more free throws with 11 seconds left to give the Lancers a 70-62 lead.

The final three Perris voints were put in by Sweeney.

The Christians looked doomed in the first half as the visitors sprinted to a 37-31 lead, 22 of those came in the first period as Jimmy Bryant tallied eight points and Battle added three markers and four assists.

Sweeney, who coach Holstein feels is the best opposing player the Lancers have faced this year, tallied 24 points, 19 through the first three periods. Hooks added 10 and Bryant finished with 14 markers.

Sider paced Western with 21 points, 11 rebounds, four assists, three steals and a blocked shot. Moline had 19 markers, six assists, six steals and a blocked shot. Shumaker had 18 points eight in the fourth period, and 10 caroms.

Nielson didn't score but the 5-9 junior played Sweeney, Perris' 6-2 senior scoring machine, man-to-man in the final stanza and held him scoreless until the final 11 seconds.

Pack defense stops S.A.

By JIM McCONNELL
P-B Staff Writer

SANTA ANA— Claremont High used a little luck and a lot of defense Tuesday to down Santa Ana High 1-0 in the CIF soccer semifinals and advance to a championship showdown for the second straight year.

On a day when the vaulted Wolfpack scoring attack had trouble getting untracked, it was a near flawless execution of defensive skills that paced the narow Claremont Triumph.

The win was the thirl shutout in a row for the Pack in the playoffs, and never has their defense looked as good as it did Tuesday. Ralph Hawes, Brian Smith, and goalie Casey Roberts rose to the occasion to shut off a fast-breaking Saint team.

The little bit of luck coach Otto Rieger's crew needed came midway through the first half. Gregg Kaufman booted a shot on Santa Ana goalie Hector Mendez from 25 yards out. Mendez had no trouble stopping the shot, but lost the handle on the ball and an alert Jim Van Zee banged it into the net for the only score of the contest.

After Van Zee's goal, the Pack offense was much quieter than usual the rest of the way, but the Claremont defesne made that lone score stand up.

Santa Ana led by speedy Abel Dorado, went into a full-scale offensive attack in the second half in an attempt to knot the game up at 1-1. But some spectacular saves by Roberts in goal and Hawes kept the margin of victory for Claremont.

Claremont now has the unenviable task o ftackling South Torrance, th CIF's number one ranked team, in Friday's finals. South triumphed over West Torrance, 2-1 Tuesday in a contest that stretched into six overtimes.

Claremont school officials are lining up a bus convoy to go to Torrance for the finals, which are slated to begin at 7:30 p.m. Friday at South Torrance High. All interested parties are welcome to travel on the chartered buses. Cost will be $1 for a round-trip fare and the seats are available on a first-come, first-served basis. Buses are slated to leave Claremont High 5:30 p.m. Friday.

Those interested are requested to contact the Claremont High ASB office for further information and reservations.

Ganesha spikers prepared to defend SAL championship

By CRAIG TRAVIS
P-B Staff Writer

Ganesha High begins defense of its San Antonio League track championship Thursday when the Giants visit the always tough Upland Highlanders.

But Petersen's Giants, who went unbeaten in nine meets last year, once again have to be the preseason favorites.

Ganesha has 18 returning lettermen led by Cleve Porter, Glenn Harter, Ron Jacques, Pat Staley and Charles Stewart.

Porter, who finished seventh in the triple jump in the finals of the California State finals, will once again head up the field events. He will be a triple threat in the high jump, long jump and triple jump.

Harter and Staley look impressive in the middle distances with Stewart being a double threat in the low and high hurdles. Jacques heads the list of sprinters.

Ganesha's strength will once again lie in its depth in each event.

Upland, 7-2 overall and tied for second with a 5-2 league slate last year, will once again be a competitive team other SAL clubs will have to worry about.

As usual, Bob Loney's Scots who dropped an 80-38 decision to Palos Verdes Tuesday, have strength in the middle and long distance events, lead by the defending SAL one mile champ—Steve Scott.

The rest of the distance lineup features Mark Sorenson, Bob Berry, Steve Lucero, Bill Henke, Frank Guevara, Scott McKeon and Jim Ems.

Clark Sanders is the team's top triple threat in the pole vault, long jump and quarter mile.

In other SAL track action Thursday, Garey visits Chino, Claremont hosts Damien and Pomona entertains Montclair.

Garey has 10 returnees but once again lack the necessary depth to be a contender, as only 27 athletes turned out for the season.

Larry Rodriguez will handle the distances with Greg Johnson a contender in the 100, 220, 440 and long jump.

Steve Trenholme, Tom Hunter and Steve Benson will compete in two events each.

Stanley Webster paced the Vikings to a tri-meet victory over Nogales and Edgewood Tuesday afternoon. Coach Ernie Prentice's troops whipped the other two teams with 66 points, as compared to Nogales' 43 and Edgewood's 41.

Webster took victories in the 100 yard dash in 10.5 seconds and the 220-yard sprint in 23.6 seconds, while also anchoring Garey's winning 440-relay team.

Trenholme won the two-mile with a time of 10:21.5 minutes.

Claremont has 16 returning lettermen on its squad this year, including pole vaulter Jon Powers and long jumper Toby Swick.

Joe Hillstock, who holds the junior varsity school records in the 100 and 220, will be the key man in the Wolfpack's sprint team. The distance men will probably be paced by Scott Sauer and Garey Ardrey.

Damien has just nine returnees and five top newcomers, so lack of depth will be a problem for Barry Gray's team.

Sprinter Rob Lamb, hurdler Ron Ramirez and John Roach are the threats as double winners along with Paul Broadway, Lorenzo Hearns, Steve Beck, Joe Kiszeli, John Fridenbach and Keith Armstrong.

Pomona boasts a large field of 28 returning lettermen and looks strong in the sprints.

The fleet-footed crew includes Garry Honest, Lloyd Landry, Raymond Butler and Scott Price.

The Red Devils also promise to be strong in the distance events, paced by Barry Boettcher, Ken Dent, Ed Davila and Mike Abbott.

All meets get underway at 3:15 p.m.

Pomona captured its division Tuesday at the Shorty Smith Relays at Santa Ana College, and Ganesha finished third in the same division.

The Red Devils won five of the nine relays, copping the shuttle hurdles, the four-man 440, the eight-man 880, the four-man 880 and the distance medley.

Pomona finished with 33 points, while Ganesha picked up 22.

San Dimas begins defense of its Hacienda League title by hosting Alta Loma while Walnut hosts Ontario in 3:15 p.m. action Thursday.

Jim George's San Dimas Saints are coming off an unbeaten season and will have nine double and triple winners returning.

Distance runner Frank Diaz is the triple threat, with Mike Bailous, Dan Hitchens and Tim Shepard the top sprinters. Shelley White, Jim Waters and Darrell Craig offer a threat to sweep the hurdles, while Ed Martin and Perez Shoemaker are the top field performers.

Walnut remained unbeaten this season in track when it whipped Rowland, 78-40, Tuesday.

Sprinter Bob Fausel and hurdler Dorian Hubert posted double wins for the Mustangs. Fausel clocked a 10.6-second 100 and a 53.5 quarter mile.

Hurbert won the 180 low hurdles in 20.9 seconds and the 120 high hurles in 15.8.

In the only other local Hacienda track action Thursday, Bonita will travel to Gladstone.

Stags beat 'Tech; 'Hens lose to SCC

Claremont-Mudd won easily and Pomona-Pitzer lost a game it probably should have won Tuesday in College baseball.

The Stags rolled to an easy 18-2 win over hapless Caltech in a conference opener for both teams. That makes C-M 5-1 for the season and 1-0 in conference play.

Pomona-Pitzer outhit, outpowered, and outfielded Southern California College in its season opener at Costa Mesa. Unfortunately, Sagehen pitchers also outwalked their opponents.

The 'Hens got 12 hits to SCC's seven. They had four extra base hits including a three-run homer by Biff Sherman. SCC had no extra base hits. There were four SCC errors to two by the Pomonans.

However, starting pitcher David Jones have up seven walks in three and two-thirds innings. SCC scored twice in the first on two leadoff walks, a double steal and a hit. Two walks and a hit led to another run in the second. In the third, Jones was tagged for four hits while giving up one walk as two more runs came in. The sixth and winning run came in the fourth inning on a hit and three walks.

The Sagehens scored once in the third. Greg Hogan singled. Sherman doubled, but Hogan fell down and was caught in a rundown Sherman getting to third on the play. Paul Miller's sacrifice fly scored Sherman. Sherman singled in the ninth and scored on Miller's double for the final run.

Jim Mullowney, with two doubles, led Claremont-Mudd over Caltech. Mullowney batted in three runs. Wynn Moore had a home run and two rbi's Steve Lopez a double and two ribbies, Bill Vasek a triple and two rbi's Gary Burger and Tom Condon also batted in two runs apiece.

Sophomore Ruben Watkins was selected as the most improved variety performer, while Harlan Watkins was given a special coaches' award for his play. Also on the varsity level, Mark Kusler was picked as the top defensive performer.

Henry Clinkin was the choice as the Most Valuable Player of the Pomona junior varsity team.

Mounties fall in SCC opener, 4-3

By MIKE RAWLINSON
P-B Staff Writer

FULLERTON — Pre-conference records don't mean a thing in the South Coast. Mt. San Antonio College, sporting the winningest record of the six conference teams, found out the hard way in the campaign opener at Fullerton JC Tuesday.

The 10-1 Mounties absorbed their first loss in almost a month at Fullerton (8-6) put together an 11-hit offensive and a six-hit pitching performance by Brian Hall to pull out a 4-3 SCC victory.

Now 10-2 overall and 0-1 where it hurts the most, coach Art Mazmanian's club hopes to get back on the right track in a home and away series with Orange Coast Thursday and Saturday.

The Mounties had it their own way through five innings at Fullerton Tuesday, but the scrappy Hornets fought back from a 3-0 deficit to tie the score on single tallies in the second, fourth and sixth innings, and finally won it on a two-out, ground-rule double in the ninth by Jeff Mathieson off loser Charlie Fallon.

Fallon worked himself in and out of trouble through nine innings and was apparently okay after retiring the first two men in the ninth. But Mike Hollato's single and a walk to Andy Schardt set the stage for Mathieson who made his first appearance in the game as a pinch runner for designated hitter Mike Wolfe in the eighth.

In his only seventh plate appearance of the season for the Hornets, Mathieson stroked Fallon's pitch to left and it caromed over the fence to allow Hollato's to score the winning run.

Fallon struck out four and walked six to gain credit for his first loss of the season in four starts.

The Mounties jumped on Hall early, scoring two runs in the first on walks to Pat Corcoran and Jeff Corkill, a single by Frank Marini and an error by the third baseman.

They picked up one more in the second frame as Corcoran singled Mike Parkinson home after another error by the Hornet third baseman, Brad Liedthe. Corcoran collected half of MSAC's six hits on three singles and a walk in four trips to the plate.

Panthers bop Owls, 9-3

AZUSA — Chaffey College kept its share of the lead in the Mission Conference baseball standings Tuesday afternoon with a 9-3 victory over cross-valley rival Citrus.

The loss dropped the Owls to 2-2 in conference play and a game under .500 for the season at 5-6. It was Chaffey's third consecutive Mission win. The Panthers are 8-3 overall.

Freshman righthander Steve Gibson (4-1) allowed seven hits, struck out four and walked four in going the distance for Chaffey, and teammates David Chavez, Dave Hill and Mike Wolters combined for six of the Panthers' 11 hits off four Owl hurlers.

Chaffey returns to action Thursday by hosting Palomar, while Citrus entertains Saddleback. Both games begin at 2:30 p.m.

Upland, Chino win

Chino and Upland highs warned each other on the evening prior to the Chaffey Baseball Tournament championship by posting non-league victories Tuesday afternoon.

Chino used a three-run seventh inning to tun away from South Hills and post a 7-2 victory, while Upland scored once each in the last two innings to knock off Azusa, 4-2.

The two met today at 3:15 p.m. for the championship of the Chaffey Tourney.

In other prep games played in the valley Tuesday, Montclair nipped Ontario 4-3, Claremont lost to Alta Loma by a 5-1 count, Damien held off Canyon, 9-6, Garey was blanked by Redlands, 8-0, San Dimas clobber Nogales, 9-2, Walnut tripped Charter Oak in 10 innings, 3-2, Bonita fell to Covina, 8-3, and Rowland sneaked by Wilson, 4-3.

Chino, now 4-0 for the season, had two hits from Robert Townzen, Paul Briones and Randy Hobbs. Townzen picked up the victory on the mound, his first of the season.

With Upland only leading by a 2-1 margin over Azusa, Mike Perry slugged a home run in the sixth, put the Highlanders up by two and gave the Scots the run needed to win.

Ontario rallied back to tie Montclair in the top of the sixth at 3-3, but the Cavaliers came to bat in the bottom of the inning and tallied the go-ahead run to win.

Claremont could only pile up four hits against three Alta Loma pitchers, while A.L. hit two Wolfpack hurlers for eight base hits and five runs.

Damien grouped all nine of its runs in the fourth, fifth and sixth innings to defeat Canyon.

Garey committed eight errors and collected only two hits in the loss to Redlands.

San Dimas pitcher Paul Willman lost his bid for a shutout when Nogales scored two runs in the bottom of the seventh inning. Willman went the distance and fanned five batters, while also going two-for-four at the plate.

Walnut's run in the bottom of the 10th inning against Charter Oak came on a C.O. error during a force play, which scored Bob Flores.

Rowland pitcher Mitch Culp lost his shutout and then had to be relieved in the seventh inning while Wilson scored three runs.

Money chief reason claims McAlister

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — "There was really only one reason that Kermit (Johnson) and I signed with the World Football League before the NFL draft—money," former UCLA football and track star James McAlister told the Southern California track writers Tuesday.

"We made a survey of what the NFL paid its running backs," he said. "It came to just half of what we signed for."

"We learned that there are only three NFL running backs being paid the amount of money for which we signed, and I'm not a fool."

UCLA track coach Jim Bush said the Bruin meet with Arizona, San Diego State and the Beverly Hills Striders Saturday at UCLA will be a strong meet.

"We will have the world's greatest sprinter in San Diego State's Steve Williams and probably the greatest sprint relay team."

The first women's outdoor meet of the season is scheduled for Mt. San Antonio College Saturday.

USC 'walks' to win over Poly

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

POMONA — Bases on balls cost Cal Poly's baseball team an upset win over mighty USC Tuesday on the Broncos' home field.

Seven Poly pitchers gave up nine walks and hit a batter as USC went home with a 5-3 win that should have been a 3-1 loss.

Four of the five Trojan runs were direct results of bases on balls.

"I talked to the players about walks yesterday," moaned Poly coach John Scolinas, "and today bases on balls killed us. I thought we did a good job in coming back like we did. We could have given up when they got out in front 5-0. But we didn't. I'm pleased with that. I think we'll be ready for SLO."

The Broncos, now 4-8, travel to San Luis Obispo for a single game Friday and a double header Saturday.

The Trojans scored twice in the third when John Riddle walked Marvin Cobb with one out. Creighton Tevlin forced Cobb for the second out. But Rich Dauer picked on a 1-2 pitch and slammed it over the left field fence.

The other three runs came in the sixth. Bruce MacPherson threw 12 balls out of 14 pitches to the first three USC batters. That loaded the bases with nobody out.

John Kistner relieved MacPherson.

Robb Adolph lifted a fly ball to right field that Steve Herter allowed to drop in front of him and then threw to second baseman Kevin Thornhill for a force out. But Kistner hit Tevlin to force in a run. Anthony Davis struck out, but Dauer lashed a single to left field to score two more runs.

The Broncos got a run back in the last of the sixth off George Milkey. Monty Cloward beat out an infield hit, Thornhill drew a walk and scored on Herter's single.

Ii the eighth with Steve Redford pitching for USC, Steve Ludewig beat out an infield hit and advanced to second on Marvin Cobb's throwing error. Herter worked the count to 3-2 and lined a double to right centerfield scoring Ludewig. Herter scored on a single by pinch hitter Dave Metkovich.

Poly was without regular second baseman Dennis Rodgers. Rodgers was hit in the left eye by a pitch off the pitching machine Monday and underwent surgery Tuesday.

MEETIN' & EATIN' at BETSY ROSS

By Gene Neighbors

Hi, Neighbors

We are always pleased to have somebody celebrate a birthday at Betsy Ross, but Sunday night, February 24th, we had an especiallly happy task EVELYN SHERMAN, waitress, told us of the party of 29 from St. Luke's School in Temple City, who drove over to Claremont Coffee Shoppe to celebrate the birthday of PATTI BUBICH, who was 14. How about that for a nostalgic sitch a wa shun?

Winners of half-gallons of ice cream at the Pomona Main Betsy Ross were MYRTLE ELLIOTT, SIDNEY CONE, HERMAN JELDEN, and JUETH GORGE, all of Pomona. Have you dropped your winning entry blank into the barrel for Your Free half-gallon? DEE LANDRELL of Pomona, and SANDY BRUINO of Chino were winners at the Pomona Valley Center Coffee Shoppe last week.

In Claremont there were ANN MORGAN of Fontana, JOHN MYRA, SAM LISKEY, MRS. H. O. BOVEY, and JACK SAPIENZA of Claremont and ILENE DONALDSON of San Dimas.

Upland Coffee Shoppe was the scene of a 9th birthday party for JOHN CHANDLER, given by his family. CHRISTY WOODS, 8, celebrated her birthday there with a party of seven.

We are properly proud of a former cook at Upland Betsy Ross, LELAND WARNICK, who made the Rick's College honor roll in Idaho, for which a 3.5 or above grade point average is required. Betsy Ross Upland salutes RICHARD ROGERS, lead fountain boy since our opening there, who is on honor roll at Claremont Mens College and is graduating in June with a degree in Economics. He produces and announces for K.S.P.C., the Claremont College radio station.

Upland winners of half-gallons of ice cream were NANCY ROLEDER, FRANCES BROCKIE, and JACKIE DINEEN of Upland, and MELODY BAKER of RIALTO. Glendora Coffee Shoppe announced its winners as CAROLYN PEARCY, of Azusa, MEILE WALDON and HOWARD BEEM of Glendora, and MARY LEWELLEN of Upland.

Well, folks, that's all the lucky names we have so far, but wait 'til next week . . . Wow! Hope ya see your name in this column.

Remember, even with the gasoline shortage, or whatever, there's a Betsy Ross near for you to enjoy. See you there?

About being neighborly, thank you KATHY EDGERTON.

Occurrence at Owl Creek to open new night spot

CLAREMONT — The Occurrence at Owl Creek, a local quartet specializing in bluegrass and country-western music, will appear Thursday through Sunday at the opening of The Boiler Room, new night club in the Griswold complex at Foothill and Indian Hill boulevards.

The group is made up of Jim Cope of Whittier, and Gil Frazee, Dave Brock and David Firman, all of Claremont. Their repertoire ranges from country rock of "Mr. Spaceman" to traditional bluegrass numbers like "Orange Blossom Special" to works they compose themselves such as Cope's "Cowboys and Indians."

Brock plays banjo, fiddle and guitar; Frazee six-string guitar, bass and electric guitar; Firman bass, guitar and drobro, and Cope six-string and 12-string guitar, fiddle, autoharp and electric guitar.

The Occurrence at Owl Creek has performed widely throughout Southern California in the past two years from the Calico Days Celebration at Calico Ghost Town to the Penny University Music Hall in San Bernardino.

The group will perform at The Boiler Room from 8 p.m. to 2 a.m. all four days. Asio on the program is the rock group, the Sage Brush Dusters.

French film to screen at Scripps

CLAREMONT — The controversial French film, "La Religieuse (The Nun)," will be shown in the Humanities Center Auditorium at Scripps College at 7:30 p.m. next Wednesday. Admission is free.

Based on Denis Diderot's novel of 18 Centrury convent life, the movie, in French with English subtitles, was made in 1965 but banned for two years by the French government because officials felt it was an extreme attack on the church.

Rock group to play at La Verne

LA VERNE — Champion, a six-man rock group, will present a concert in the new Student Center at La Verne College at 9 o'clock tonight. Tickets are $1.50 general, $1 for students.

The group was acclaimed last year as the top rock band in Southern Califonia by the committee selecting performers for the Newport Jazz Festival.

Recognized for their treatment of highly polished, lowkey rock, Champion avoids the gimmicks of many contemporary groups, such as make-up and props.

During the evening guests will hear piano solos by Daniel Cabrera combined with Roddy Timbrook's artistry on percussion and David Demeter's on the drums.

Imogene Coca to perform in 'Prisoner'

SAN BERNARDINO — Neil Simon's comedy, "The Prisoner of Second Avenue," will be presented in the California Theater of Performing Arts at 8:15 p.m. Thursday.

The play, presented by Empire Productions, stars Imogene Coca and her husband, King Donovan.

Tickets are on sale at Mutual agencies and at the Ontario Chamber of Commerce.

"Prisoner" is the 11th of 12 Broadway hits by Simon, who also wrote "Barefoot in the Park," "The Odd Couple," "Plaza Suite," "Sweet Charity," "Promises, Promises," "Come Blow Your Horn" and "The Sunshine Boys."

Miss Coca and Donovan appeared on the California Theater stage in "You Know I Cant't Hear You When the Water's Running" several years ago.

One of television's leading comediennes during the 1950s, Miss Coca played opposite Sid Caesar on "Your Show of Shows." She won an Emmy for her performance in the "Sid Caesar, Imogene Coca, Carl Reiner, Howard Morris Show," and appeared in the series, "Grindle," and "It's About Time."

On Broadway she starred in "The Billy Rose Concert Revue," "Janus," and "The Girls in 509." She also toured in such hits as "Plaza Suite," "Once Upon a Mattress," "No, No Nanette," and "The Fourposter."

UC San Diego to stage play at Pomona

CLAREMONT — The drama department of UC San Diego will present Lorca's "Blood Wedding" in Holmes Hall, Pomona College, at 8 p.m. Friday.

The 20-member cast, directed by Michael Addison, associate professor of drama, currently is completing its run at UCSD before departing on a one-week tour of Southern California colleges. Pomona College is one of four colleges where the players will perform the Lorca play.

Due to the nature of the three-act play no seating will be permitted after a performance beings. Admission is $2.50 general and $1 for students. Tickets are available at the Bridges Auditorium box office, and the Pomona College drama department.

"Blood Wedding" is the story of a young girl in love with a man who is poor. Her father refuses to let them marry. The young man marries someone else and the girl's father later arranges for her to marry the son of the wealthiest woman in the village. The bride runs away on her wedding night with her former love; the groom pursues, and the two men kill each oher.

Soprano schedules recital

CLAREMONT — Soprano Belinda Busteed, a Scripps College senior, will present a recital in Pattison Hall at 8:15 p.m. Sunday.

Miss Busteed, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Busteed of Pasadena, has been studying voice with Val Stuart, assistant professor of voice, and piano with Audrey Grigsby, assistant professor of music.

For her senior recital, she will sing three songs by Purcell; five songs by Greig — four in Norwegian and one in German; Mahler's "Songs of a Wayfarer"; two French songs; Bernstein's "La Bonne Cuisine" and Mary Howe's "Hokku Songs." She will be accompanied by Scripps freshman Karen Clark on the piano.

"AMERICAN GRAFFITI" (2-B)

In a man's world

Television has discovered women--at last

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Television has discovered women.

I'd better explain that.

It used to be that almost all the authority figures in video were men.

That meant behind the cameras as well as in front of them.

Despite television's women stars, the home medium was essentially a man' world.

And though men still hold most of the cards in video, things are definitely changing.

Once upon a time, for instance, you almost never saw glamorous women reporting serious news events on television.

Now there are quite a few such reporters, and it certainly makes the bad news a lot nicer.

Production of programs was another video area in which women's names were virtually never heard or seen.

But now there are plenty of women's names turning up in the behind-the-scenes credits.

We see women listed as writers much more than before. Every so often there is also a woman producer or director.

And these breakthroughs are really just in their initial stages.

In the old days, women work executives were all but unheard of. And there still aren't too many. But they are coming on in this area too.

The fact is, television might be a lot livelier and more up-to-date if modern women controlled more programming jobs at the networks.

I'm personally looking forward to the day when there is a woman network president.

Television is trying to offer more contemporary views of women in its programming.

From westerns to stories set in the present, women have more authoritative roles than before—though still not enough.

But one problem is that they generally continue to reflect the values of a man's world— because video remains male dominated.

Television's basic position is: Uphold the status quo.

So minorities—and women are one minority in video—are given the semblance of new freedom in portrayals, but usually through traditional eyes.

In short, the status quo is still where the plots take women and other minorities in most cases.

And the traditional view comes from most of the men in charge of the networks.

There should be more women in direct and absolute control of programs trying to present realistic views of women.

This should especially be the case regarding programs that attempt portrayals of the new breed of women.

Most men tend to fantasize about the realities concerning women — the new breed and others.

It's no wonder the women's liberation movement struck a responsive chord even among females who are not basically militant.

Did women's lib have an important effect on television? Did it affect the network attitude toward women in fictional portrayals, production and corporate roles?

You bet it did.

And it will have a lot more effect.

Some people may think it's not ladylike to go on the attack.

But it's one of the only ways to get a television network to change its practices.

Organist to offer recital at church

POMONA — Dr. Ralph R. Travis, organist of the La Verne Church of the Brethren, will present an organ recital at the Pilgrim Congregational Church at 12:15 p.m. Friday.

The program will include Fanfare on "Old Hundredth" by Clarence Parker; Choral Prelude on an Old English Folk Tune by William Blanchard, Tone Peom by Mildred Turney, Adagio in the Sowerby Style by Travis, Variations on "Liebster Jesu" by Loren Adiar, "Quiet Piece" by Gail Kubik, and Prelude and Fugue by Donald Jones Jr.

Traivs is the retired head of the music department of La Verne College. A graduate of Jamestown College, N.D., he studied organ with Gaston Dethier at the Institute of Musical Arts, New York, with Marcel Dupre at the University of Chicago, and with Clarence Mader in Los Angeles.

Travis is past dean of the Pasadena chapter of the American Guild of Organists and past president of the Musicians' Club of Pomona Valley.

Dist. attorney kills himself

GREENSBURG, Pa. (UPI) — Allegheny County District Attorney Robert Duggan was found dead of a gunshot wound today shortly before he was indicted by a federal grand jury at Pittsburgh on eight counts of income tax fraud.

State Police Capt. Robert Hauth said Duggan apparently took his own life.

Duggan, 48, district attorney of Allegheny County for the past nine years, was indicted on charges of failing to report more than $137,000 in income for the years 1967 through 1970.

He was found dead of a revolver wound on the head at his summer home in nearby Ligonier.

Make ice cream like the Italians

On street corners of Venice, Florence or whatever Italian city one picks as favorite, vendors sell gelati (ice cream) that wins accolades from travelers.

Whether through first-hand tasting or from reading travel literature, fans everywhere affirm that Italian ice cream is the best. The warm climate of the city of Naples has led its chefs to develop further ice cream variations that have won gastronomic fame, one of them being the natural fruit flavored ices.

To make a unique frozen Italian Prune Gelato, midway between a water ice and a sherbet, can be a relatively simple home project that offers delicious results. No special equipment is needed, just reserve space in the freezer section.

Pick a day when errands will not take you from the house for longer than two hours, about the time needed for the basic mixture to freeze to a mushy state. At this point the remaining ingredients are beaten, combined and the gelato is returned to the freezer, which does all further work of freezing the delicate dessert.

Sauterne wine, orange and lemon juice are the liquid basis of the ice, with chopped pitted California prunes adding texture and flavor contrast. Stiffly beaten egg whites are blended in before the final freezing.

Prunes are popular in Italy, too, where they often find their way into cookies and pastry specialties. Since prunes are an excellent source of minerals and vitamins, such as the essential vitamin B group, their addition to this light dessert brings in a bit of extra nutrition that health-conscious homemakers will approve.

ITALIAN PRUNE LATO

½ cup sugar
1 cup water
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
Grated rind and juice of 1 lemon
2 cups orange juice
4 cups sauterne wine
2 egg whites
¼ cup sugar
2 teaspoons vanilla
2 cups chopped pitted prunes

In a small saucepan mix sugar and water and cook at a boil for 5 minutes. Stir gelatin into rind and lemon juice. Stir gelatin into hot syrup. Stir in orange juice and sauterne. Pour into a freezer container and freeze for about 2 hours or until mushy.

Remove from freezer and beat until fluffy. Beat egg whites until stiff. Beat in sugar, 1 tablespoon at a time until mixture is stiff and glossy. Fold egg whites and vanilla and prunes into frozen mixture. Replace in freezer container, cover and freeze until hard.

PRUNE GELATO

Tangerine smuggling problem in Russia

If you are a tangerine lover, be thankful you are living in the United States and not in Russia. According to an Associated Press news release, illegal merchandising of tangerines is causing a serious problem this year. The fruit-starved Russian citizens would gladly pay 53 cents for one kilogram (2.2 pounds) of tangerines, which is what they would cost in Russia if they could find them in their state-operated markets.

However, they cannot and so must go to the free market where they are willing to pay as much as $4 for the same amount. Russian tangerine growers at the collective farms are using ingenious methods of smuggling. One had stashed the precious fruit in barrels marked "Fish Paste".

Another had hidden more than seven tons under a layer of gravel in a dump truck. Existing scarcity of fresh fruits is a real Russian problem.

The U.S. consumers have only one problem: Which tangerine variety they prefer. They are currently enjoying the familiar Kinnow and Minneola variety of tangerine. Both are plentiful and reasonable in price.

In addition to these two favorite western-grown varieties, consumers are discovering a new tangerine treat in their markets-the Temple. With their thin skins, juiciness and exotic flavor, Temples are enjoying a wider market exposure. Their acceptance by consumers over the past few years has caused more growers to plant this increasingly popular tangerine in California and Arizona.

Because it takes five years before a citrus tree begins bearing fruit in profitable marketing quantities, consumers can expect to find Temples more and more as well as a continuing supply of Minneolas and Kinnows. The Temple is recognized by its vibrant red-orange and slightly rough peel. It is round with a flat stem end and is fairly easy to peel. It is packed with juice that has the tart sweet flavor of tangerines, but with its own unusual flavor personality.

Be sure to ask the produce man if he's carrying Temples. After you've tasted them you'll look forward to their yearly appearance. The desert growing area will be shipping during January and February and will be followed by coastal and interior groves supplying Temples during March.

Soda bread for Irish celebration

What better way to observe St. Patrick's Day than to have at the ready some tasty Irish Soda Bread? This goes well with a hearty Irish stew, of course, or some corned beef and cabbage for those who take the wearing of the green seriously.

IRISH SODA BREAD

4 cups unsifted flour
2 teaspoons baking soda
2 teaspoons salt
2 teaspoons sugar
1¼ teaspoons caraway seeds
½ cup dark seedless raisins
¼ cup chopped peanuts
1½ cups buttermilk
1 tablespoon milk

In large bowl mix together flour, baking soda, salt, sugar, caraway seeds, raisins and chopped peanuts. Make a hole in dry mixture and pour in buttermilk, mixing from the sides to form a ball of dough. Turn out onto floured board and knead about 5 minutes. Shape into a ball. Place on ungreased baking sheet. With a sharp knife, make a shallow cross-shaped slit across the top of the loaf. Brush with milk. Bake at 400 degrees for 50 minutes, or until done. Makes 1 loaf.

Antique milk bottle

The quart milk bottle is becoming a relic of yesterday. More than 80 per cent of America's fluid milk is now sold in paper or plastic cartons and nearly nine out of ten are half-gallon and gallon sizes.

St. Paul plans opera season

ST. PAUL Minn. (UPI) — The Saint Paul Opera Association's 1974 Summer Festival will feature Bizet's "Carmen'', Puccini's "Gianni Schicchi" with "The Happy Prince" by William Fisher, Massenet's "Manon", the American premiere of Werner Egk's "Engagement in Santo Domingo", and Wagner's "Siegfried."

"Engagement in Santo Domingo," which is being translated from the German, deals with a slave uprising in French Haiti around 1803.

Liked phonograph

Enrico Caruso was the first singer to leave his voice to posterity through the phonograph, and he was the first leading singer of his time to recognize the value of this invention.

CHEESY CORN OLE

Vegetables, often the quiet corner on a plate, can add a bright note to any meal. Their unique shapes, sizes and textures, as well as their bright colors, can take the ho-hum out of dinner. Here is a vegetable dish in the Spanish mood, a welcome dish to the table and a welcome addition to the recipe file. Cook a 10-ounce package of whole kernel corn frozen in butter sauce, according to directions on the package. In saucepan, saute until tender a 2½-ounce jar of sliced mushrooms, ¼ cup diced onion and ½ cup diced celery in 2 tablespoons butter. Add ¼ cup sliced, stuffed olives and 1-3rd cup diced pasteurized process cheese spread. Stir until heated through and cheese is melted. Serves 3 or 4.

HOT FRANKFURTER SALAD

Core, rinse and drain large head of lettuce, then refrigerate. Blend 1½ tablespoons flour, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1 tablespoon seasoned salt, ½ teaspoon onion powder, ½ teaspoon dry mustard, ¼ teaspoon caraway seed and dash of white pepper in double boiler or small pan. Add 1 beaten egg and stir in scant cup of beer. Gradually stir in 2 tablespoons vinegar and cook about 5 minutes until thickened. Add 1 tablespoon butter. Cut 8 thin wedges of lettuce and arrange on salad plates. Heat 4 frankfurters, split lengthwise and arrange between lettuce wedges with thin slices cut from a red apple. Serve with the dressing which has been kept warm or covered well and chilled. This will make 4 servings.

Phthalates no hazard, technologists claim

"The present use of phthalates in food packaging appears to present no health hazard to consumers," according to a Scientific Status Summary released here by the Institute of Food Technologists.

"Human experience over a quarter of a century of use suggests an extremely low toxic potential," the summary points out. Phthalates are used in the food industry only as additives to plastic packaging materials that may come into contact with certain foods. Thus, the IFT Summary concludes, "Phthalates could enter the food supply only in minute quantities by migration from the package to the food involved, or as contaminants from the environment."

The Institute is a scientific professional society representing 12,000 scientists and engineers working in all areas of food management from harvest or slaughter to consumption. The current report is one of a series produced by IFT's Expert Panel on Food Safety and Nutrition.

The report describes the use of phthalates as plasticizers, used primarily to make vinyl plastics more flexible and versatile. Phthalate-modified vinyl plastics are widely used in construction, home appliances, apparel and transportation. The total annual production of phthalates is in the neighborhood of a billion pounds; food-related packaging materials consume about two percent of this total.

The majority of plastic food packaging film uses other, non-phthalate modified materials, including polyethylene, polypropylene and polystyrene. Hence, the report points out, "The amount of vinyl packaging materials used by the food industry is relatively minor," although it goes on to point out that the reasons for this are principally economic, and not related to the presence or absence of phthalates.

Fried liver is dish fit for royalty

Fried liver with onions and mushrooms becomes Beef Liver Stroganoff when sour cream is added. This is a main dish fit for royalty. In fact, it was named by a 19th century Russian diplomat, Count Paul Stroganoff.

Flavor, nutrition and easy preparation make this a 3-star solution to the puzzle of what to serve family or guests. Including beef liver once a week in the menu plan will help insure that needed nutrients are provided. That's because liver is an excellent food source of protein and iron. It's also a good source of vitamin A, riboflavin and niacin.

The savory combination of crispy thin sliced liver, sauteed onions and mushrooms in sour cream can be served equally well over cooked rice or noodles. Buttered beets, a tossed salad with Russian dressing and hot rolls will complete the main course. For dessert, try fruit compote alone or over ice cream or pound cake.

BEEF LIVER STROGANOFF

1 pound beef liver
Flour
Salt and pepper
½ stick (¼ cup) butter or margarine
½ cup sliced onions
½ cup sliced mushrooms
1 cup sour cream at room temperature
Cooked rice

Cut liver into 1 inch strips. Dip in flour and season with salt and pepper. Melt butter in large heavy skillet. Lightly saute onions and mushrooms. Add liver and brown on all sides. Cover and cook over low heat about 10 minutes. Blend in sour cream and serve over cooked rice.

Round them up with coffee cake

The fragrance of Granola Coffee Cake baking is bound to bring the whole family to the breakfast table.

For natural foods fans, the bread-like "cake" is made with whole wheat flour. The glorious Granola Topping is crunchy with slivered almonds. Serve with bacon or cheese and fresh fruit for a highly nutritious — and delicious — breakfast or brunch.

GRANOLA COFFEE CAKE

1 and 2-3rds cup whole wheat flour
¼ cup brown sugar (packed)
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 egg
1 and 1-3rd cups milk
¼ cup vegetable oil
Granola Topping (recipe below)

Mix flour, sugar, baking powder and salt in bowl. Beat egg with milk and oil in another bowl, then mix into flour mixture, stirring just until blended. Pour into oiled 8-inch square pand and sprinkle Granola Topping over. Bake at 375 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes or until a pick inserted into center comes out dry. Serve warm.

GRANOLA TOPPING: This may be prepared the night before; if so, refrigerate overnight. Mix ¼ cup whole wheat flour with ½ cup brown sugar (packed) ½ cup granola, ½ cup slivered almonds and ¼ cup melted margarine. Add some cut up prunes or raisins if you wish. Makes 9 servings.

Breakfast can be a luxury with these hot breads

Hot bread adds a touch of luxury to any breakfast. Try these hot breads featuring peanuts and peanut butter. The U. S. Department of Agriculture reports that peanuts and peanut products are in good supply through March.

PEANUT CRESCENTS

1 package crescent rolls
1 cup toasted ground peanuts
½ cup orange juice
9 marshmallows
½ cup brown sugar
Glaze:
½ cup orange juice
½ cup peanuts
½ cup brown sugar

Roll marshmallows in orange juice, brown sugar and then peanuts. Wrap with the crescent rolls. Bake for about 10 minutes at 375 degrees. While still hot, top with glaze made by mixing together orange juice, peanuts and brown sugar. Makes 12 rolls.

PEANUT BUTTER-BACON BREAD

½ pound bacon, cooked and crumbled
2 cups flour, sifted
1 cup sugar
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup peanut butter
1 teaspoon butter, melted
1 cup milk
1 egg slightly beaten
1 cup chopped peanuts

Cook and drain bacon; crumble into small pieces. Sift together flour, sugar, baking powder and salt. Cut in peanut butter until it is consistency of corn meal. Combine butter, milk and egg. Pour into peanut butter mixture and mix thoroughly. Stir in crumbled bacon and chopped peanuts. Pour into a greased and floured 9x5x3-inch loaf pan. Let stand 20 minutes. Bake at 325 degrees 1 hour and 15 minutes, or until loaf tests done. Cool on rack. Makes 1 loaf.

PEANUT BUTTER CINNAMON TOAST

½ cup peanut butter
½ cup dark brown sugar
1 tablespoon butter
½ teaspoon cinnamon
6 to 8 slices bread

Combine all ingredients except bread. Spread on bread and toast in 400-degree oven about 8 minutes or until bottom of bread is brown. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

PEANUT BUTTER MUFFINS

1 cup milk
1 egg, slightly beaten
¼ cup oil or melted fat
2 cups flour, unsifted
1 tablespoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
¼ cup sugar
½ cup peanut butter

After preheating oven 400 degrees and greasing muffin tin, blend milk into egg and add fat. Mix dry ingredients thoroughly; mix in peanut butter only until mixture is crumbly.

Add liquid and mix slightly, leaving batter lumpy. Half fill muffin tin with batter and bake 20 to 25 minutes, or until golden brown. Makes 12 muffins.

The fries have it

Whether it's french fries, crinkle cuts, shoestrings, potato puffs, or potato patties, Americans are eating more frozen potato products than ever before.

In 1954 we ate less than half a pound of frozen potato products per person. Today, the average American eats over ten pounds a year. In fact, more potatoes are frozen than any other vegetable.

Some of the new types of potato products—such as preformed patties and puffs—are increasingly popular, but the traditional fries are still by far the favorite.

When buying frozen french fries, look for the grade name on the package. "U. S. Grade A" or "U. S. Fancy" fries are the very best in color, size, shape, and texture. You may find packages marked "Grade A" or "fancy" without the U. S. prefix. These should meet the same standards as packages marked "U. S. Grade A" or "U. S. Fancy", but the U. S. designation is extra assurance of quality. It means a grader from the U. S. Department of Agriculture has inspected the product and certified its quality for you. Although there are two other general levels of quality—Grades B and C—these are not usually seen in retail stores.

Neither federal grading nor grade labeling are mandatory.

If there is no grade designation on the label and the french fries are in see-through packages, you can check the quality yourself—using some of the criteria that USDA graders use. The best fries are a uniform, light color. The pieces are uniform in width—not necessary in length—and have few, if any, dark spots or other defects.

Texture can be checked only by heating the product. Federal graders make this check and you can too. When the french fries are heated they should be moderately crisp on the surface, cooked throughout, tender and not soggy.

When heating frozen french fries, it is important to follow the directions on the package. Time and temperature are very important. If frozen french fries are not prepared properly, the results are likely to be unsatisfactory even if they were top quality to begin with.

This is particularly true when you are using a deep fat fryer. If you have a small deep fat fryer, be sure to cook only a small batch of frozen french fries at a time. Let the oil heat up between batches. Low oil temperatures will cause the french fries to become soggy and to cook improperly.

The oven method is the simplest and most often-used method of cooking french fries at home. Be sure the oven has reached the proper temperature before putting in the french fries. Overcooking—either in the oven or in a deep fat fryer—makes the french fries too crisp. Serve them promptly after preparation.

For those who prefer deep-fat-fried french frfies but don't want to bother with a deep fat fryer, there is an alternative heating method. Put the frozen french fries in a skillet with just enough oil to cover the bottom of the pan. Keep shaking the frying pan—as you would for popcorn—until the frozen french fries reach the desired color. Then, before serving, blot them with paper towels to get rid of excess oil.

FRESH SPINACH TIPS

A delightful change of pace in salads and a welcome cooked vegetable, fresh spinach is in good supply right now. To help you choose the highest quality — follow these tips from the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Marketing Service:

Look for fresh, young, crisp leaves which have a good green color.

Avoid spinach with coarse leaves, fibrous stems, yellowish-green in color, or in a wilted condition.

To prepare spinach cut off root ends and any damaged leaves. Wash at least three times to remove sand. Refrigerate in plastic bag.

Use within 1 to 2 days for highest quality.

Try these spinach ideas:

SAVORY SPINACH SQUARES

2 tablespoons dry parsley flakes
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1½ teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon thyme

2 pounds fresh spinach, cooked and chopped

Panel to seek cuts in Nixon military budget

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., said that the Senate Appropriations Committee would try to cut $3.5 billion from President Nixon's $85.6 billion military budget.

McClellan, chairman of the committee, stressed in opening hearings on the Pentagon's request that reductions would be made "only when we are convinced they can be made without unduly diminishing or weakening defense posture."

Detente with the Soviet Union does not "relieve us of the need to maintain a strong defense," said McClellan.

"We must not equate or confuse detente with disarament. Even with detente we must maintain —pending hopes for effective arms limitation agreements —a military force that provides a sufficient deterrent to insure peace and our security."

Guild honors Martha Raye

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Martha Page has been awarded the Screen Actors Guild Award "for outstanding achievement in fostering the finest ideals of the acting profession" for her part in entertaining U. S. troops in Vietnam during the late war.

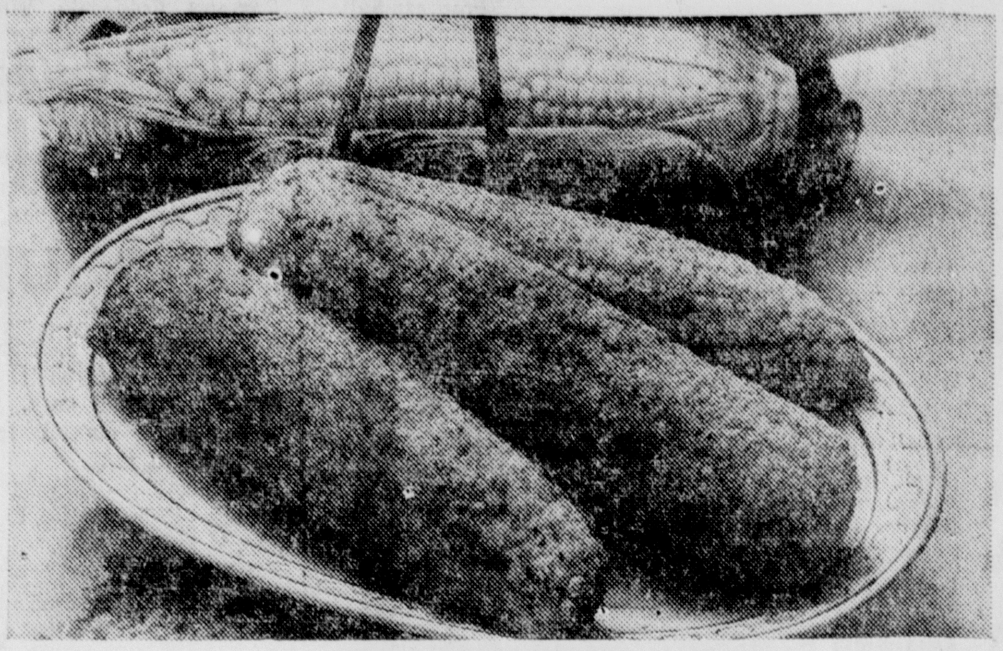
Something new for corn on cob

One of the most pleasurable taste sensations is crunching along buttery rows of fresh, sweet corn on the cob. During the winter-spring season, corn grown in Florida reaches many major markets to make corn on the cob is to coat it with an herb seasoned bread crumb mixture and bake it.

CRUMBLED CORN

6 ears fresh corn
¼ cup butter or margarine
1 teaspoon salt
¾ cup packaged flavored dry bread crumbs

Remove husks and silks from corn. Set aside. In a medium saucepan melt butter. Stir in salt. Sprinkle bread crumbs on waxed paper. Brush each piece of corn with salted butter. Then roll in crumb mixture. Place on a rack in a shallow open pan. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven for 15 minutes or until corn is cooked. Makes 6 portions.



MUNCH CORN

From boxes to table in a jiffy

The tempting smell of freshly baked, banana walnut bread is a welcome addition to any coffee klatsch or holiday activity. It can be baked and frozen until needed.

This special taste treat begins with convenient, banana walnut cake mix and takes only minutes to assemble for baking.

The bread is baked in a copper, aluminum foil tube pan; it can be reheated in the container and served warm with a cinnamon glaze dripping alluringly down the sides.

Have whipped cream cheese and butter on hand, too, for accompaniments to the bread.

If a strong banana taste is desired, add mashed bananas to the quick, convenient recipe.

CINNAMON GLAZED BANANA BREAD

2 boxes (14.5 ounces each) banana walnut cake mix
1½ teaspoons baking powder
2¼ cups water
1¼ cups flour
3 eggs

CINNAMON GLAZE

2 cups sifted confectioners' sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons soft margarine or butter
2 to 3 tablespoons milk
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
8 English walnut halves

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Empty two boxes of cake mix into a large mixing bowl. Add baking powder, water, flour and then eggs in center of mix. Beat vigorously for almost 3 minutes with fork until the batter is of uniform color and consistency. Pour batter into aluminum foil bundtform pan. Bake in 350 degree oven for about 1 hour, 15 minutes. Prior to serving, combine glaze ingredients and spoon on cake allowing glaze to drip down sides. Decorate top with walnut halves. Yields 16 to 20 servings.

Ice-laden Greenland got its name from Eric the Red, as a bit of real estate promotion to induce immigration.

A new twist for an old favorite

Almond-Orange Cake is essentially an upside down cake, but unlike most, this one is split and filled with a pleasing piquant filling flavored with fresh orange juice and rind.

The crunchy topping is made with butter, sugar and roasted diced almonds. All in all, this is a delicious, homey cake that seems just right for a spring-like day.

ALMOND-ORANGE CAKE

Butter or margarine
Sugar
1-3rd cup diced almonds, roasted
1½ cups sifted cake flour
1½ teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon vanilla
2 eggs
½ cup milk

Orange Filling

2 eggs, beaten
½ cup sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
¼ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons grated orange rind
1 cup orange juice

Melt 1 tablespoon butter in bottom of 9-inch square baking pan. Sprinkle with 1 tablespoon sugar and the almonds. Sift flour with baking powder and salt. Cream 1-3rd cup butter with 1 cup sugar; add vanilla and eggs, then beat well. Add flour mixture alternately with milk, beating well after each addition. Pour batter carefully over almond mixture in pan. Bake at 375 degrees 25 to 30 minutes. Turn out onto wire rack to cool. Split cooled cake crosswise into 2 layers. Spread Orange Filling between layers.

ORANGE FILLING: In a saucepan, combine eggs, sugar, cornstarch and salt. Stir in orange rind and juice. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until filling comes to boil and is thickened. Cool. Makes 9 servings.

Coed sues station for not delivering

SANTA MONICA (UPI) — A suit was filed in Superior Court here Monday by a Long Beach State College coed alleging fraud and breach of contract by radio station KROQ for not delivering a car she allegedly won in a contest.

Kathy McKenzie, 18, of Westchester, named the station and its executive officer, Gary Bookasta, in the suit. She is seeking $10,000 in general damages and $10,000 in punitive damages.

The suit said the station refused to deliver a new Mazda to her, but offered her either a less expensive model or a cash settlement instead.

Beware of the 'infamous four' in food poisoning

You don't feel good. Your stomach is upset. You have abdominal pains, diarrhea, perhaps a headache.

You may think you are coming down with a cold or the flu. That's possible. But, it's also possible you have fallen victim to one of the "infamous four."

These are four common causes of food poisoning — Salmonella, Clostridium perfringens, Staphylococcus, and Clostridium botulinum. Don't be floored by big names. They are simple, little bacteria organisms — one-celled organisms that multiply by dividing. To divide they need food, warmth, and moisture.

These bacteria may be present in all foods because they are everywhere in the environment. It's up to you to protect yourself and your family from them.

The "infamous four" can cause illness or in extreme cases even death.

Many people from the farmer through the retailer work to protect you from these bacteria. The U.S. Department of Agriculture or a state agency inspects your meat and poultry for wholesomeness. The Food and Drug Administration inspects plants where all other foods are produced.

But, from the supermarket shelf to the dinner table you are the one responsible for protecting your food. Your reponsibility begins in the supermarket. Don't buy any food in containers — cans or packages — that are outdated, broken, bent, or leaky. Especially avoid bulging cans — the food could contain lethal botulism toxin. Let the store manager know there is something wrong so that he can take the package or can off the shelf.

Another thing you can do in the supermarket is to make sure meat, poultry, and frozen foods are kept cold. Buy them last so they don't warm up or defrost in the cart while shopping.

Make the grocery store your last stop so you can go right home. On arriving home, immediately put your meat and poultry in the refrigerator, which should be at 40 degrees, or in the freezer at 0 degrees. Put frozen foods in the freezer right away. This prevents any bacteria in the food from growing.

When you take your fresh meat, poultry, or frozen foods out to cook, don't do any favors for the "infamous four." Thaw them in the refrigerator, or cook them frozen. If you must thaw in a hurry, do so in a water-tight plastic bag submerged in cold water.

Never thaw frozen food uncovered on a kitchen counter at room temperature. Remember, there are bacteria everywhere, and room temperature lets them grow.

The way the "infamous four" usually strike in the home is through cross-contamination. Since the bacteria are killed under proper cooking temperatures, an illness from cross-contamination can take the right precautions. Here's how that can happen:

Your chicken has been thawed and you have cut it up on your cutting board. You put the chicken into the frying pan and began preparing your other foods. If you use the same knife and cutting board without first washing the utensils and your hands in soap and hot water, you could contaminate whatever else you prepare.

Pets are also carriers of the "infamous four" bacteria. After handling pets, wash your hands before working with food. Don't allow pet feeding dishes, toys, or bedding in the kitchen. Don't let pets touch food, utensils, or food-working surfaces.

Salmonella (sal, mo-nel, a) is one of the most common causes of food poisoning. While it is not often fatal, it is widespread. More than two million cases of illness from Salmonella poisoning are believed to occur in the U.S. each year.

Salmonella is most commonly found in raw meats, poultry, eggs, milk, fish, and products made from them. Other sources can be pets, such as dogs, cats, turtles, birds, and fish.

There is no way to tell by looking at, tasting, or smelling the food whether Salmonella germs are present. To avoid them, however, do not handle the food excessively and keep it below 40 degrees or above 140 degrees.

Salmonella germs in food are destroyed by heat. So, use a meat thermometer and cook food thoroughly. You can have your beef rare and Salmonella free.

Also, heat leftovers thoroughly. Broth and gravies should be brought to a rolling boil for several minutes when reheating.

Symptoms of Salmonella infection are fever, headache, diarrhea, abdominal discomfort, and occasionally vomiting. These appear in 24 hours after eating contaminated food. Most poeple recover in two to four days. Children under 4, elderly people, and people already weakened by disease could become seriously ill.

Clostridium perfingens (klos-trid' i-um per-fringe'-ins) is widely distributed in nature — in the soil, dust, on food, and in the intestinal tracts of man and other warmblooded animals. They are more widespread over the earth than any other disease-causing micro-organism.

Disease outbreaks frequently occur when foods are held in large quanitities at improper temperatures for several hours or overnight. Perfringens outbreaks are closely associated with restaurants or other large feeding establishments where foods are held for long periods of time on steam tables or other warming devices.

To avoid perfringens, meats should be properly cooked, held hot (above 140 degrees) and served hot. If you cook meat for later use, cool the meat rapidly in small containers in a refrigerator to 40 degrees or below. Thoroughly reheat leftover meats or meat dishes before serving — and bring leftover gravy to a rolling boil before serving. Maintain cold cuts and cold sliced meats below 40 degrees and serve them cold.

Large numbers of perfringens bacteria can cause diarrhea and abdominal pain in from four to 22 hours — usually in about 12 hours.

Staphylococcus (staf' y-lo-kok' us) — known as staph — is quite common. Staph organisms are in your respiratory passages and on your skin. They usually enter food from a human or an animal.

Staph germs grow in a wide variety of foods — all meats, poultry and egg products, egg, tuna, chicken, potato, or macaroni salads, cream filled pastries, and sandwich fillings. If staph germs are allowed to multiply to high levels, they form a toxin which you cannot boil or bake away.

Symptoms of staph food poisoning are diarrhea, vomiting, and abdominal cramps. They appear two to four hours after eating and may bother you for 24 to 48 hours. Staph food poisoning is rarely fatal.

Clostridium botulinum (klos-trid' i-um bot' u-li' num), while rare, is usually fatal. A tiny amount of the toxin poison from botulism germs can kill you. Botulism spores are found throughout the environment and are harmless. However, in the proper environment, and when not destroyed by heat, the spores divide and produce poisonous toxins. When you eat food containing the toxin, you can become ill or die. Heat makes the toxin harmless.

Only five deaths from botulism in commercially canned foods have been reported since 1925. But poisoning from home-canned foods happens more often. About 700 people

Undercooking is the real culprit in home-canning. In general, high acid foods may be canned by boiling; but all other, including meats and poultry, should be canned in pressure cookers at the appropriate heat level for the required length of time.

Signs of botulism poisoning begin 12 to 36 hours after eating the food. They include double vision, inability to swallow, speech difficulty, and progressive paralysis of the respiratory system.

Medical help must be obtained fast. If botulism is suspected, call your doctor immediately.

To guard against botulism, inspect all food containers before opening and serving — whether commercially canned or home canned. Avoid food in containers with leaky seals, and bent, broken, or bulging cans. Do not taste the contents! Do not even open a bulging can. It takes only a small amount of botulism toxin to be fatal.

Salmonella, perfringens, and staphylococcus are invisible and can be detected only by a bacteriological test. Botulism may provide its own clues in canned foods. Bulging cans, an off color, unusual odor, or suspect appearance are the tipoff. If in doubt: Don't eat it; don't even taste it! If it's home-canned, throw it away where no person or animal can get to it. Save any commercially canned product you may suspect and report it to the Food and Drug Administration, or your local public health officials.

The "infamous four" are everywhere, but with proper food handling practices, you can prevent them from causing illness in your home.

Hot breads make luxury breakfast

bined with butter, onion, parsley flakes, Worcestershire sauce, salt, thyme and nutmeg. Mix well. Combine remaining ingredients; add egg mixture and mix well. Pour into a greased, shallow, 2-quart baking dish. Bake in a 325 degree oven about 1 hour. Cut into squares and serve. Makes 8 servings.

SPINACH SALAD WITH BACON DRESSING

- 6 slices bacon
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 2 teaspoons cornstarch
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- 1 tablespoon reserved bacon drippings
- ¼ cup mayonnaise
- ½ cup water
- ¼ cup wine vinegar
- 2 tablespoons minced onion
- 1 10 ounce bag fresh spinach, washed and torn into bite-size pieces
- ¾ cup fresh mushrooms, washed and sliced
- 2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped

Cook bacon until crisp and reserve drippings. Blend sugar, cornstarch, salt and pepper into reserved drippings in skillet, then blend in mayonnaise. Combine water and vinegar. Slowly stir into mixture in skillet. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, 3 to 5 minutes or just until bubbly. Sprinkle onion and bacon over spinach. Add mushrooms and egg; pour in dressing and toss until spinach is well coated. Serve immediately. Makes 5 servings.

COOKING WITH PEANUTS

Here's a tip for using peanuts in cooking: Because peanuts absorb moisture readily, to retain their crispness always add peanuts to the other ingredients just before serving, or sprinkle the peanuts on top of the dish at the last moment prior to serving.

When is a nut not a nut? Why, when it's a peanut. Although popular usage classifies the peanut as a member of the nut family, the peanut is actually a legume. As such, it is closely related to the pea family.

There is disagreement among historians as to exactly where cabbage originated—but there's a disagreement among nutritionists that cabbage makes an important contribution to healthful diets. It's a good source of vitamin C, which we need every day. And cabbage is low in calories—a cup of shredded cabbage has only 20. It's good—good for you—and fresh winter cabbage is in heavy supply through March, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Here's a cabbage shopping tip from the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Look for firm hard cabbage heads that are heavy for their size. Avoid cabbage with wilted or decayed outer leaves—or with leaves turning yellow. Now's a good time to buy cabbage—supplies are abundant.

Solon receives letter threat

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Boise, Idaho, office of Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, has received a threatening letter purportedly from the Symbionese Liberation Army.

Church's Washington office said the letter was turned over Monday to the FBI.

It was typewritten in capital letters, was signed with the typewritten name of "Field Marshal Cinque," arrived in a plain envelope with a stick-on address label and an upside-down, pre-cancelled 8-cent stamp.

Last week, a number of New England governors said they received similar letters.

Paris crash the first for jumbo jets

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — The crash of a Turkish Airlines Jetliner Sunday near Paris was the first fatal crash of a DC10 produced by McDonnell Douglas Corp. of St. Louis.

All 344 persons aboard the wide-bodied plane were killed in the worst air disaster in history.

The 130 DC10s in service across the world have carried 23 million passengers and logged 185 million miles since the plane was first introduced in 1971, a McDonnell spokesman said this week.

The Trijet Transport has a cruise speed in excess of 600 miles an hour and can accommodate up to 345 passengers. The 182-foot-long plane costs about $20 million.

The jetliner is produced in Long Beach, Calif., by the Douglas Aircraft CO. division of McDonnell Douglas. Major components and parts are provided by an international network of subcontractors and other suppliers.

The McDonnell spokesman denied "categorically" a British press report that since August 1972 DC10s in service were being inspected with Xray equipment after every 30 takeoffs. The inspections reportedly were carried out because of two incidents in which the tail-mounted DC10 engines shattered in flight.

The spokesman acknowledged that some airlines may be conducting such tests on their own without McDonnell's knowledge, but said the company has received "no complaints about the engines."

Two foreign dishes prove money-savers

Cassoulet is a famous French dish concocted from pork and white beans. Alsatian choucroute is equally famous—pork and sausages with sauerkraut, cooked in wine.

Now, lower-cost counterparts of these international favorites have been developed. Good, hearty main courses for brisk weather, both are made with pork shoulder-thereby, the food-dollar savings.

In its American version, the Pork and Potato Cassoulet combines pork with a package of scalloped potatoes instead of beans. The potatoes come with their own packet of seasoning, which steps up the rich pork flavor with onions and herbs. Use of convenience food items cuts the cooking time to less than an hour.

Alsatian Pork Stew, the offshoot of choucroute, consists of pork shoulder with sauerkraut. Rinse the sauerkraut before using, to cut down the tartness. Then, simply bake in a lively sauce made from an envelope of gravy mix for pork. Add some Rhine wine, if you choose, for a gourmet touch.

Serve either dish with buttered carrots, a green salad, hot baking powder biscuits and glasses of milk, ending with canned sliced peaches for dessert. This economical but amply satisfying meal provides foods from the 4 groups needed daily for good nutrition.

PORK & POTATO CASSOULET

1 to 2 pounds boneless pork shoulder, cubed
1 cup chopped celery
1 package (5⅜ ounces) scalloped potatoes
2½ cups boiling water
1 can (4 ounces) pimientos, drained and coarsely chopped
1 tablespoon butter
¼ cup fine dry bread crumbs
1 tablespoon grated Parmesan cheese

Brown pork with celery in large skillet, stirring frequently; spoon into two-quart casserole. Stir in potato slices and seasoning mix from package of scalloped potatoes, boiling water, and pimientos. Cover and bake at 350 degrees for 40 minutes. Melt butter in small pan; stir in bread crumbs and cheese. Sprinkle over casserole. Bake, uncovered, at 400 degrees for 10 minutes, until browned. 5 to 6 servings

ALSATIAN PORK STEW

1 to 2 pounds boneless pork shoulder, cubed
1 tablespoon oil or melted shortening
1 envelope (¾ ounces) gravy mix for pork
¾ cup water
¼ cup Rhine wine or add extra ¼ cup water
1 can (1 pound) sauerkraut, drained and rinsed
1 onion, peeled and thickly sliced
Whole cloves

Brown pork cubes in oil in large skillet. Stir in contents of gravy mix envelope, water, wine, and sauerkraut. Spoon into 1½ quart casserole. Insert 2 or 3 cloves in each onion slice; place on top of casserole. Cover and bake at 400 degrees for 30 to 40 minutes, until pork is tender and well cooked. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Heart attacks claim couple within hour

BEAUMONT (UPI) — An elderly couple died of heart attacks within 57 minutes of each other after the wife ran for help when her 73-year-old husband became ill in their mobile home.

Annie O'Quinn, 69, ran to her daughter's nearby trailer when her husband William was stricken. He was taken to Pass Memorial Hospital in Banning where he was pronounced dead.

Shortly after, Mrs. O'Quinn suffered a heart attack in her daughter's home. She was taken to Pass Memorial Hospital where she died.

'Handbook for Home' is invaluable tool

These are the times that try men's souls . . . and pocketbooks. Every cent spent for the American household today must count in value, effectiveness and workmanship. The new "Handbook for the Home" helps solve some of these problems.

It is the 1973 Yearbook of Agriculture (388 pages, illustrated and written by experts.) Subjects include everything from managing money, safe handling of food, insurance for health, life and car, modern nutrition, well water, indoor lighting and outdoor recreational projects.

"With short supplies ahead in plastics, canned goods, appliances, textiles, etc., the articles in this book will help you buy wisely despite shortages and inflation," says Jack Hayes, Year Book editor.

"It is particularly valuable to this year's young marrieds who must face the problems of our crisis times—home or apartment choosing—and all the situations that result from these dicisions," Hayes adds.

"Handbook for the Home" is thoroughly modern in approach.

"Sound, down-to-earth advice in every way," Hayes says. The illustrations are clear and often actually inspire one to go out and start buying a home because it looks so appealing. But don't do this until you have read about how much money it should cost."

The articles on nutrition are geared to the modern family.

Beatrice Paolucci, professor of Family Ecology at Michigan State University, writes the lead article which sets the tone for the general approach to the suject of "home." She states in part:

"Evidence does exist of marked changes in the way of life in today's families. Different attitudes regarding sexual relationships, size of family, ways of rearing children and male and female roles prevail."

Families are on the move and this results in the breakdown of traditional stereotypes. "We can see for ourselves that our neighbors, even though they may eat and rear their chidlren differently, are in many ways like us. Use of the same consumer markets and educational institutions will reduce the differences and encourage acceptance of diversity in family standards, attitudes and life styles," she continues, adding:

"Present day biomedical advancements are changing the family. Separation of sexual activity and procreation have made family planning possible. More effective contraceptives, more easily obtained abortions and genetic counseling provide the knowledge and the mechanics for child spacing and birth control.

"Along with biomedical advances, technological gains in both industjy and agriculture are changing the family. Technology has made it possible for machines rather than people to produce an abundance of material goods. Technology also makes it posible for a small number of farmers to produce an abundance of food."

The basic and honored pattern of the American family is changing, but the traditional family pattern will remain, probably dominate, except for changes in personnel — because of divorce, separation and remarriage.

The family with dual careers, both husband and wife working, will increase, particularly among the young and better educated. The husband and wife family, with no children, also will increase.

Calm that sweet tooth with something nourishing

As long as children are going to eat candy, why not provide them with candy that contains nutritive values? Candy containing peanuts, for example, offers solid nourishment along with sweetness that youngsters crave to replace the large amounts of energy they burn up in normal play.

Peanuts are 26 per cent protein and contain important amounts of thiamine, niacin and phosphorus. Consequently any product including peanuts or peanut butter as an ingredient gets an automatic boost on the nutrition scale no matter what its non-peanut food value is.

Store-bought peanut candy is of course delicious fresh from the box or wrapper but it is also a remarkably versatile dessert-dramatizer in the hands of a homemaker who prepares home-baked foods.

If you fancy pretty little pastries that the kids can help make, for example, try Peanut Butter Daisy Cups. They are attractive enough to come from a specialty bake shop, but actually can be prepared with just a few ingredients most people have on hand all the time, plus a package of small-size chocolate covered peanut butter cups. These little goodies are extra rich in nutrients because protein-rich peanut butter is blended into the dough mixture, as well as packed inside the candy cups.

The homey American apple pie gets a touch of glamour with the simple addition of crushed peanut brittle. Place the brittle in with the pie filling, and then sprinkle more brittle over the filling to make a streusel-like topping. The finished pie has an exotic look and flavor.

Peanut Polka Dot Cookies are made with colorful candy-coated peanuts. Simply press the peanuts into the cookies before baking. This can be the kiddie contribution because it's so easy and youngsters will enjoy doing it.

PEANUT BUTTER DAISY CUPS

¾ cup vegetable shortening
1 cup sugar
½ cup peanut butter
1 egg
2 cups unsifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 package (11 ounces) peanut butter cups (small size)

•

Cream shortening until fluffy. Stir in sugar, peanut butter and egg. Stir in flour and then vanilla. Knead dough a few times to make a smooth ball. Roll out 2-3rds of the dough on a floured surface ¼ inch thick. Cut dough into 40 2-inch rounds using a cookie cutter or a glass. Place rounds on a greased cookie sheet. Top with peanut butter cups placed upside down. Pinch off pea-size pieces of the remaining dough and roll each piece into a rope 2 inches long. Place two ropes in a crisscross on top of peanut butter cups. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) for 12 to 15 minutes or until cookies are lightly browned. Cool on cookie sheet and then store in a cool dry place.

STREUSEL PEANUT APPLE PIE

1 package (11 ounces) pie crust mix
2 cans (1 pound, 5 ounces each) apple pie filling
Grated rind of 1 lemon
1½ cups crushed peanut brittle

Prepare pie crust mix according to package directions. Roll out 2-3rds and use to line the bottom and sides of an ungreased 9-inch pie pan. Mix pie filling, lemon rind and 1 cup of the peanut brittle. Pour mixture into lined pie pan. Roll out remaining crust and cut into ½-inch wide strips. Arrange a lattice of strips over filling. Crimp edges of crust. Bake in a preheated hot oven (425 degrees) for 25 minutes. Sprinkle top of pie with remaining peanut brittle and bake for another 10 minutes. Cool thoroughly before cutting into wedges. Delicious with vanilla ice cream on top.

PEANUT POLKA DOT COOKIES

1 cup butter or margarine
1 pound light brown sugar
2 eggs
½ cup peanut butter
1 cup nonfat dry milk crystals
3 cups unsifted all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon baking soda
2 teaspoons vanilla
1 large bag candy covered chocolate covered peanuts

Cream butter until light and fluffy. Beat in sugar, eggs and peanut butter. Stir in dry milk crystals, flour, baking powder, baking soda and vanilla. Beat until well blended. Drop mixture in olive-size pieces onto a greased cookie sheet. Press 5 peanuts on each cookie. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (375 degrees) for 12 to 15 minutes or until lightly browned. Cool thoroughly on a rack. Store in an air-tight container in a cool dry place.

Makes 6 dozen.

Mariner may prove Russ Mars finding

PASADENA (UPI) — American space experts hope Mariner 10's forthcoming flyby of Mercury can confirm what the Russians recently learned—that the tiny planet may have a thin hydrogen atmosphere.

A spokesman at the Caltech Jet Propulsion Laboratory said Sunday the presence of hydrogen might remotely indicate Mercury has some form of water.

Mariner 10 is expected to fly within 625 miles of the hot planet during the the last week of this month, scanning Mercury for the elements of its mysterious atmosphere.

Russian Prof. Nikolai A. Kozyrev said last month that their spectral analysis indicated that Mercury may be wreathed in a thin ribbon of light gas, such as hydrogen.

American space ventures so far have been unable to confirm the Russian findings.

Dr. A. Lyle Broadfoot, a NASA investigator, said he thought the most likely elements in Mercury's environment would be hydrogen and helium.

Mark St. Patrick's Day with a bit of red and green

Of the many customs that have been brought to America and become a part of its "melting pot", none is perhaps more vibrant and gay then the celebration of St. Patrick's Day. Whether our native origin be Italian, Scandinavian or Chinese, somehow on March 17 we all find a spark of that special Irish spirit within us. We even put on a touch of green, and are enchanted by the lilting sounds of Irish tunes as the parade marches by. Sure 'tis true, all the eyes that smile upon the scene are not necessarily Irish.

So celebrate the occasion with hearty and wholesome food that might very well be served in an Irish cottage. To the glow of the green add the sweet tart taste of cranberries in a bag full of recipes which will spark the appetite and not stretch those green bills too far.

Cassidy's Mutton Chops glazed with cranberry jellied sauce are easy and quick to prepare. Served on a platter surrounded by sliced boiled potatoes and onions, they'll please the palates of all the colleens and lads in your house.

CASSIDY'S CRANBERRY GLAZED MUTTON CHOPS

6 mutton chops
Salt, pepper and onion powder
1 can (1 pound) jellied cranberry sauce, cubed
2 tablespoons prepared mustard
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 small onion, minced

Sprinkle mutton chops with salt, pepper and onion powder on both sides. Broil chops slowly until cooked to desired degree of doneness. In a saucepan combine remaining ingredients and heat until bubbly and sauce is melted, stirring occasionally. Spoon sauce over chops and broil again until glaze is bubbly. Serve chops on a bed of cooked, sliced potatoes and onions. Serve remaining glaze in a sauce dish to spoon over chops.

Nothing could be more traditional to Irish fare than soda bread, and with the addition of cranberry-orange relish it would indeed be lapped up by a leprechaun before you could say 'Erin Go Bragh'.

CRANBERRY SODA BREAD

3 cups biscuit mix
1 cup all-purpose flour
1-3rd cup butter or margarine
¼ cup sugar
½ cup raisins
1 tablespoon caraway seeds (optional)
½ cup cranberry-orange relish
1 egg
½ cup milk

Combine biscuit mix and flour. Cut in butter until particles are very fine. Stir in sugar, raisins and caraway seeds. In a bowl mix relish, egg and milk. Add cranberry mixture all at once to dry ingredients and stir until well blended. Place dough on a heavily floured board and knead until smooth. Shape dough into a large smooth ball and place into a greased 9-inch pie pan. Cut a large cross about ½ inch deep in top of dough. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (375 degrees) for 40 to 45 minutes or until loaf sounds hollow when thumped and is richly browned. Cool loaf thoroughly before cutting into thick slices. Spread with butter or with more cranberry-orange relish.

For a dazzling salad, a fruitful relish mold made with jellied cranberry sauce and mint jelly will cooly complement the piquant flavor of the mutton chops. Its shimmering brightness will be a sight to behold even by the "little people."

CRANBERRY MINT SHAMROCK MOLD

2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
1 cup water
1 can (6 ounces) frozen concentrated lemonade, thawed and undiluted
2 cans (1 pound each) jellied cranberry sauce, sieved
1 jar (10 ounces) mint jelly, sieved
2 apples, peeled cored and chopped
1 can (13-¾ ounces) pineapple tidbits, drained

Mix gelatin and water in a saucepan. Stir over low heat until gelatin is dissolved. Beat in lemonade, cranberry sauce and jelly until well blended. Chill until mixture thickens slightly. Fold in apples and pineapple into gelatin mixture. Pour into a 1-½ quart shamrock-shaped mold or bowl. Chill until firm. When ready to serve, dip mold into lukewarm water for a few seconds, tap to loosen and invert onto a platter.

To top off your Irish feast, serve Cranberry Irish Coffee. The spirit of St. Patrick will happily linger long after the last drop is sipped.

CRANBERRY IRISH COFFEE

2 cups hot strong coffee
1 cup cranberry juice, heated to boiling
4 teapoons sugar
½ cup Irish whiskey
¾ cup heavy cream. whipped

In a saucepan mix coffee and cranberry juice. Heat to boiling. Stir in sugar and whiskey. Pour into mugs or heatproof glasses. Top with whipped cream and serve at once.

Americans shift budgets to buy meat

Meat on the table—that is what most people still demand despite steadily rising costs.

There is no doubt that we will eat more lentils, dry beans and soy products to keep down costs and to get essential protein. But to most people there is a limit to these foods in their diet. Even with the cruel financial pressure of the cost of steaks and roasts most people will not adjust to going without them constantly. They will give up something else instead.

"Meat, like gasoline for our car, is absolutely essential to our daily way of life. For most people's way of life. I'd rather give up shoes than think of giving up steak. We need physical stamina just as we need means to drive to work. Take these things away and what have you got?" asks Ruth Lundgren, a widow with two sons in college who is president of her own food promotion company.

"Certainly we try to cut down on food waste. We now buy 10 pounds of potatoes instead of more costly instant potatoes. We eat fruit for dessert instead of cakes made from mixes. We try to cut out every unnecessary food expenditure. But meat — no. We eat less expensive but good cuts and have meat on our table in face of rising meat costs. My sons need it and so do I," Mrs. Lundgren explains.

"Where does the extra meat money come from? It comes from one less movie a month, from not buying a new blouse for me or a new shirt for the boys. These things we can postpone," she insists.

Another working mother explains why she is still serving meat to her family, despite the sky-rocking prices.

"The situation is dismal. Meat costs are frightening. Yet we do buy it less expensive cuts—but meat," reports Anita Fial, a director of home economics.

"Every Sunday I try to cook for the family. Usually I broil meat. But last Sunday, instead of the customary sirloin steak, I used round steak. Not so tender but it tasted good," she says. "And the cost was much less."

Working all day she has no time to prepare a nourishing meat course for her husband and two young children every night. One Sunday a month she cooks meals for the rest of the month. She wraps these in meal-size packages and freezes them.

"In this way I have dinner mostly prepared in advanced. Also I save money by buying larger quantities of meats at one time," she explains.

Brisket of beef, meat loaf, meat sauce for noodles, chicken casserole, breast of chicken are a few of her advance frozen dinners.

"I still buy regular milk but I've cut out delivery of it. I go to a drive-in store and buy in half-gallons. I cut down on wasting food but not on quality."

Eileen Taylor, of the U. S. Department of Agriculture Economics Research Service, lives with her husband and two children.

"At the supermarket I see women striving to cut down on other purchases to buy meat. Meat is the first thing they think of when they go shopping for the family," she observes. "They simply can't or won't eat lentils and spaghetti all the time."

Picasso's paintings increase in value

BREMEN, Gerfany (UPI) — In the year since Pablo Picasso's death, the Spanish painter's works have experienced a "specttcular increase in value," according to Michael Hertz, West Germany's best-known Picasso dealer.

Even Picasso's prints are rising in price, with the best of the work of his last years costing as much as $19,400 each, Hertz reported.

"Picasso has become too expensive for many museums and private collectors," Hertz said. "And I can see no slackening of the price in sight."

Hertz said he is convinced Picasso left more finished works than are generally believed but added he has no idea when these will be placed on the market.

MRS. JEFFREY DOWLING

Miss Joni Lee Harrison and Jeffrey James Dowling were married in an afternoon ceremony at the Little Chapel of the Flowers in West Covina.

The bride's grandfather, the Rev. Edward C. Spruill, officiated at the double-ring rites uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Harrison of Claremont and the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Dowling of San Dimas.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an empire gown of candlelight satin fashioned with a high collar and long, fitted sleeves with an overlay of imported lace and seed pearls. A small crown of lace and pearls held the bride's floor-length veil.

She carried a cascade of white roses, baby's breath and fern.

Miss Debi Harrison was maid of honor for her sister. Miss Karen Laird was bridesmaid.

The best man was Dan McCleary and Bill Pallatoo was the usher.

Mr. and Mrs. Dowling will make their home in North Lake Tahoe.

Couple to live in Upland

The Claremont First Baptist Church was the setting for the marriage of Phyllis Morrison Jones and Ronald D. Tenoglio.

Officiating at the double ring rites was the Rev. Edmund Irvin.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Darrell T. Morrison of Claremont was given in marriage by her father. The groom is the son of Mrs. Bette Tenoglio of Upland.

The bride wore a turquoise chiffon gown trimmed with lace. She carried a white Bible.

Mrs. Carol Watson was matron of honr.

Nancy Tenoglio, daughter of the groom, was flower girl and Matthew Jones, the bride's son, was ring bearer.

John Hall was best man.

Reception at the home of the bride's parents honored the couple before they departed for a honeymoon in San Diego.

Mr. and Mrs. Tenoglio will reside in Upland.

Fellowship rummage sale scheduled

The Christian Women's Fellowship of the First Christian Church, 1751 N. Park Ave., will hold a rummage sale and bake sale on March 14 in the church fellowship hall, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Mrs. Kenneth Watson is general chairman.

Business education loans are available

The establishment of a revolving loan fund to assist women in obtaining graduate business education has been announced by the Buisness and Professional Women's Foundation and the Sears-Roebuck Foundation.

The Sears-Roebuck Foundation will provide nearly $300,000 in grants during the next five years to the BPW Foundation which will administer the loan program. Beginning with the 1975-76 academic year, $70,000 will be available for loans each year. Repayment and nominal interest payments will begin after graduation and will be used to replenish the loan fund.

A survey of graduate business schools recently conducted by the BPW Foundation and the American Assembly of Collegiate Schools of Business showed that 90 per cent of the deans believe that more women would be attracted to graduate business education if loan funds were available.

Replayment of loans will be scheduled over a five-year period beginning one year after graduation.

Graduate schools accredited for the program in Southern California include USC, UCLA, and California State Universities at Fullerton, Los Angeles, Sacramento, San Diego and San Jose.

Information concerning the program may be obtained by writing the BPW Foundation, 2012 Massachusetts Ave., NW, Washington, D. C., 20036.

Opti-Mrs. club meets Thursday

The Opti-Mrs. Club of Pomona Valley will hear a talk by Mrs. Fred Krebs when the group meets at 8 p.m. Thursday in the home of Mrs. Gilbert Brookings in Claremont.

Mrs. Krebs, a volunteer for the American Cancer Society, will present a film on self examination for detection of cancer.

Chapter O to elect officers

Chapter O, PEO Sisterhood, will meet Thursday for a luncheon and election of officers at the home of Mrs. William H. Kohl, 1329 Holly Leaf Way, Diamond Bar.

Members are asked to meet at the parking lot behind Pilgrim Congregational Church at 10:30 a.m. to form car pools.

Artist and furniture maker—his medium is bread

PARIS (NEA) — At dawn every day, 10 delivery trucks set off from the small baker's shop on the rue de Cherche-Midi on the Left Bank of the Seine packed with a Parisian favorite—Poilane bread.

Lionel Poilane, 28, is proud to be a third-generation baker and the youngest master-baker in Paris.

Some two tons of bread are baked daily in his ovens and there are three shifts of men working on a 24-hour schedule. Of 50 employes, 20 are bakers.

There is nothing "fancy" about Poilane bread. It comes in four-pound loaves and is made of the best quality flour, specially milled and rich with all the wholesome qualities flour should have. It costs 20 per cent more than white flour.

For the Poilane family, bread is what potter's clay is to the sculptor or wood to a cabinet maker. They firmly believe this is indeed the staff of life as well as a religious symbol. There are, incidentally, over 20 proverbs and aphorisms in the French leanguage regarding bread.

Outside of the immediate neighborhood, the Poilane clientele is scattered all over the city. Madame Pompidou is a faithful client, so is Brigitte Bardot, not to mention clients in the United States, Mexico, Japan, Africa and other remote points of the globe accessible by airplane. In the backroom of the shop hang some 40 paintings, all representinng the Poilane loaf and presented by artist-clients.

The first U. S. astronauts to touch down on the moon received a personalized loaf which represented a space ship, stars and an astronaut floating into space.

"My package took as long to reach Austin (Texas) as it did the astronauts to come back to earth," said Poilane.

Has the current slimming craze caused a drop in the bakery business?

"Not at all," according to Lionel, "bread is no more fattening than any other food eaten in moderation."

An unusual object in the back roon is a large five-arm chandelier—made of bread, of course. And Lionel is now working on a complete bedroom suite for Salvador Dali, king of the surrealists. Already completed is a wardrobe. This had to be baked in sections and fitted like any pierce of furniture. The result is somewhat astonishing and Lionel Poilane swears that each item is no more brittle, than, let's say, glass. He next is going to experiment in plates made of bread.

All the Poilane bread is kneaded by hand as it has been since time immemorial. Only the leavening, or yeast, is "worked" by a large electrical mixer.

Then there is another master baker—on the other bank of the Seine—who has devoted his life to bread. He is Marcel Sarrau. He comes from a long line of bakers going back to 1429—the year of Joan of Arc. But he is not content to bake bread, he also bakes history.

Some years ago he held an exposition, "Bread Throughout History," which caused something of a sensation. He can tell you all about the bread baked by the Egyptians, Greeks, Romans, Gauls and others since the beginning of history.

The fact is that for 65-year-old Marcel Sarrau, the origin of bread and the baking of it has, since his early school days, been an all-absorbing passion. His research has been extensive and his knowledge is great. He is considered the No. 1 historian of bread and French and foreign universities often consult him on the subject.

"In ancient times and for many centuries bread was considered an essential food, also a complete food," he points out.

From the first flat "pancakes" cooked between two heated stones, it graduated to flour mixed with honey, dates, nuts and condiments. During the Renaissance, bread was baked in large, flat, round or oval loaves on which the viands and sauces were served. The lord of the manor usually gave the order for the "platters" at the end of the meal to be distributed to the poor — a greatly appreciated gift. Every social class had its own bread, the fancy loaves for the rich and the four-pound loaves for the working classes.

In the book, "The Book of Bread," Marcel Sarrau points out that for 5,000 years the history of bread is bound to that of man and the various civilizations. It proves that bread existed 600 years B.C. and that in the Rome of Augustus, 63 years B. C. and 14 after, there were 329 master-bakers, all Greek, who produced a great variety of shapes of loaves.

Records show that the average daily consumption of bread has dropped from 12 ounces in 1970 to less than eight ounces today. The largest bread eaters today are the Greeks with 12 ounces, followed by West Germany, Ireland and Japan with six ounces daily. And in the Middle Ages, bread was the food of the rich envied by the poor who often went short of it.

Today, French bread is appreciated by connoisseurs the world over. But Sarrau agrees that it's not what it used to be.

"It's all in the kneading. Also, we used to leave bread to ferment four hours before putting it in the oven. Now, everything has to be done in a hurry and we only let it ferment for two. Soon the neighborhood baker will be supplanted by automated factories. People will eat packaged bread rather than the crcisp 'baguette' or yard of bread of yesteryear," he ruefully concluded.

RTIST AT WORK — Master baker Lionel Poilane orks away at his craft in the back room of his Paris bake shop. The artwork and even the chandelier are testimonies to his devotion to his work.

Some lean words on fat: cut down

An average American obtains approximately 45-50 per cent of his calories from fat. Many physicians feel this is too much. The American Heart Association recommends limiting this to 30-35 per cent.

Some easy ways to reduce fat in the diet include:

1. Select only lean meat, poultry and fish. Trim off any excess, visible fat.

2. Substitute skim milk for whole milk in cooking, as well as in beverages.

3. Use whipped instead of regular "stick" butter or margarine on toast or bread. It goes further, and you will use less.

4. For snacks, serve raw vegetables (carrot slices, stalks of celery, green pepper wedges, or cauliflower florets), instead of nuts or potato chips.

5. Try dry cottage cheese instead of sour cream in the preparation of dips.

Fat should not be eliminated entirely from the diet because, in addition to serving as a carrier for the four essentiial fat-soluble vitamins (A, D, E, and K), it is also an essential component of tissues and necessary for many bodily processes.

Besides reducing the amount of fat in the diet, many physicians feel most Americans should eat less saturated and more polyunsaturated fat.

Saturated fats are usually solid at room temperature and are mainly of animal origin: meat, cheese made from cream and whole milk, eggs, and butter. Polyunsaturated fats are normally liquid at room temperature and from plant sources: corn, cottonseed, safflower, and soybean. One exception is coconut oil which is highly saturated.

Fat is not cholesterol. Cholesterol is a "fat-like" substance found only in foods from animal sources: egg yolk, meat, whole milk, and cheese. It is never found in plants: fruits, vegetables, and cereals. In addition to being supplied by foods, cholesterol is also manufactured in the body.

Although an excessively high level of cholesterol in the blood may be one of numerous factors implicated in the development of coronary heart disease, some cholesterol is essential for the maintenance of good physical health.

Mansfield says

Senate to try Nixon quickly, if impeached

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If the House impeaches President Nixon, the Senate will begin to try him immediately and probably reach a verdict within two months, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said Tuesday.

Mansfield told reporters that if Nixon is impeached —an action comparable to an indictment in the courts —the Senate would begin the trial "right away" and lay aside all legislation except vital appropriations bills.

He said a trial would take about two months because "it would have to be thoroughly aired."

Not only auto workers idled by slump in car sales

Business World

By EDWARD S. LECHTZIN

UPI Auto Writer

DETROIT (UPI) — The accountant in Kansas City who decides not to buy a car this year because he doesn't know if there will be enough gasoline may help put a laundress in Detroit out of work.

The real victims of the auto sales slump are not the 60,000 U.S. auto workers who have been laid off indefinitely—not knowing if they'll ever be called back to the plants. Most have a wage guarantee that gives them up to 95 per cent of their take-home pay.

But a laundress at the White Tower Laundry in Detroit, just around ehe corner from the huge Chrysler Corp., Jefferson Avenue Assembly plant, is making just better than $3 an hour. If she loses her job, all she has is unemployment compensation.

In the first three weeks of January, the laundry idled 65 of its 175 employes—most of them women who sort, clean and repair the shop aprons, gloves and uniforms worn by workers in the auto plants. The company handles all of the commercial laundry dirtied by Chrysler and Pontiac plants in the Detroit area.

"We're dependent wholly on the auto plants. If they slow down, so do we," says Harry Krause, White Tower owner.

"We'll call some of these workers back when the plants pick up and we're beginning to notice that now," he says.

At first, the women kind of were glad to think they'd get a little time off after a lot of overtime just like in some of the auto plants, said one worker.

"But then they realized this could mean their jobs—and not for just a couple of days," he said. "A lot of these women don't even speak English. Losing their job means they're altogether out of a chance of earning enough to feed their families."

From around the country, UPI correspondents report the slump in sales is affecting workers in many of the related industries—auto suppliers, mechanics, salesmen and car washers.

A salesman for McInerey Chevrolet, one of Chicago's largest, reported one salesman laid off and others to follow.

"It's about the same all around the city and suburbs," he said. "We have a big operation here and our business is way down."

Car washers have been affected by the shortage of working hours since many service stations close on Sunday and in the early evening.

In Dallas, employers still are in the "wait-and-see" period, not knowing how the cutbacks will affect them. The largest auto plant is General Motors' assembly operation at Arlington, between Fort Worth and Dallas, that builds the fast-selling Monte Carlos, Chevelles and Cutlasses.

Kelley Sayre, district director of the State Employment Service in the eight-county area around Dallas, says he has seen no sign of fallout from the auto plant layoffs in other areas— indeed the whole energy crisis —so far.

"We haven't seen any significant layoffs whatever we could lay to the energy crisis," says Sayre. "We surely would assume that in time we would, but to this time they are insignificant. We get reports from employers saying it's too early to tell."

In Flint, Mich., where nearly 40 per cent of the area's work force of more than 200,000 is employed by GM, the unemployment rate has soared to almost 12 per cent. The area has the highest concentration of auto workers in the country.

The big car plants in Flint— those building full-size Buicks, bodies for Buicks and big-car parts—have had several short shutdowns. About 5,000 workers have been idled indefinitely and 80 per cent of those are able to collect Supplemental Unemployment Benefits (SUB) payments that give them as much as 95 per cent of their take-home pay.

One of every six jobs in the United States is directly dependent on the manufacture, distribution, maintenance and commercial use of motor vehicles.

A slowdown means an eventual or immediate reduction in the work force of steel mills in Pittsburgh, a layoff of rubber workers in Akron and reduced markets for the fabric mills of the Carolinas. It can mean economic disaster for cities with major auto plants or the hundreds of small towns whose main industries center in supplying vehicle makers with components or parts.

Some 500 American suppliers in plants from New Hampshire to California are involved in producing parts for Ford's new compact Mustang II. Michigan leads the nation with 217 Mustang component suppliers, but small communities throughout the country depend on the car.

Alternator belt adjustment arms are built by Teer Wickwire & Co. in Adrian, Mich. while tire valve extensions are produced by A. Schrader & Son of Dickson, Tenn., and the safety standard certification decal shield is turned out by the Avery Lable Co. of Monrovia, Calif.

Government statistics said as many as 100,000 jobs were lost in December because of the energy crisis. The largest declines were in industries that are dependent either directly or indirectly on gasoline.

The economic impact can best be seen if you can picture a single auto plant with 1,000 workers—not particularly large in the auto industry.

The U.S. Chamber of Commerce estimates the plant supports 1,000 households, involving 3,100 persons, with more than $10.3 million in personal income each year. These families in turn support 30 retail establishments and through the expenditures of $4.7 million create 650 additional jobs.

Sharing in this expenditure will be grocery stores, $1,060,000; auto dealers, $840,000; eating and drinking establishments, $350,000; clothing and shoe stores, $250,000; lumber, building material and hardware stores, $220,000; general merchandising stores, $660,000; and miscellaneous stores, $1,038,000.

Prof believes dinosaurs died eating poisons

LONDON (UPI) — For 80 million years dinosaurs munched their way happily around the world they ruled by sheer size or by unmatched ferocity.

Then, according to a new theory, they fell victim to their own taste buds and now all that remains of the mightiest beasts that ever strode the globe are collections of bones in museums or in their last graveyards.

There have been many theories to explain the disappearance of the dinosaurs but Prof. Tony Swain of the Royal Botanical Gardens at Kew believes the clue may lie in the fact that the modern-day tortoise, also a reptile, is 40 times less sensitive to the taste of alkaloids than is a mammal.

From this he creates this scenario for the last act of the dinosaur drama:

The final curtain rises some 120 million years ago when the first flower plants began to displace the ferns and evergreens which formed the diet of the herbivarous dinosaurs, whose flesh formed the diet of their carnivorous cousins.

Some of the flowering plants developed the bitter and poisonous alkaloids that led insects and mammals to avoid them.

Unable to take the clear evidence of the poison they contained, the dinosaurs ate them, often in prodigious amounts. For example brachiosaurus may have weighed 50 tons on the hoof with a daily intake of about a ton of vegetable matter.

Experiments with tortoises at Kew show that the tortoise does taste and react to the presence of tannin in its diet but is much less apt to turn away from food containing alkaloids.

And there were ancestors of the tortoise around in the age of reptiles, so some similarity in taste is postulated.

If the great beasts did ingest poisons it might help explain, according to Swain, the contorted postures—suggesting agony —in which their fossils are frequently found. In addition they may have laid eggs with shells too thin for healthy offspring.

Carnivorous dinosaurs presumably were poisoned by eating the flesh of the dead and dying grazers.

Arizona gypsies have moved on

PHOENIX Ariz. (UPI) — The U. S. Border Patrol and the Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS) are absorbing the lesson that keepers of national boundaries have relearned through the centuries:

Gypsies don't believe in lines on a map.

Somehow or other they cross them. Sometime or other they vanish down a darkening road.

The band of 104 Gypsies from Europe that startled the Border Patrol by appearing out of the southern Arizona desert Feb. 24 has moved on.

Freed by the INS—maybe only temporarily the service thinks or says it thinks—the Gypsies dispersed by bus private car and jet plane.

They said they were going to St. Louis to see relatives and friends.

Or Minneapolis.

Or is it Chicago?

The destinations varied. Some may change on the road.

Although they entered the country illegally, crossing a barbed wire barrier in the desert at night, the INS agreed with the band's mustachioed leaders, Ivan Gorg Konovolov, that there isn't much, in practical terms, that the United States can do about it.

"There is no way we can be deported because we have no country" Konovolov said through an interpreter. "You cannot deport us because we belong where we are."

Grove Callison, district director for the INS, agreed that perhaps they can't be deported because "it would be difficult to arrange for their return to any particular country."

Some were born in Yugoslavia but haven't been there for 15 years or more, he said and some families consist, for example, of a father born in Germany, a mother in Italy and children born in France or Spain or Holland.

The INS has scheduled a hearing for March 12 on what to do about the Gypsies. The Gypsies were told before they moved on, Callison said that when they get wherever they are going they should report their whereabouts to the nearest INS office.

Callison was asked whether he believes the Gypsies, with their unfettered tradition, will do that.

"I think so" he replied. "They have no reason not to. I think they're convinced we can't deport them anyway, because we have to get consent from some country to send them there."

The Gypsies told the Border Patrol when they were picked up in groups in the desert near the Mexican border and trekking along the highway to Phoenix that their journey began in Holland.

They flew to Montreal, Canada, and took a plane to Mexico City, the Gypsies said, then went by train to Nogales, Mexico on the Arizona border.

The Gypsies said they found some smugglers in Nogales by asking taxi drivers, and were driven across the border in a remote place by the smugglers, who then pulled guns and robbed them of about $48,500.

Immigration officials were skeptical that the border crossing as such was a happenstance affair and openly worried that the Gypsies were the clients of a major international alien smuggling operation.

More Gypsies are apparently in the same "pipeline" Callison said. Mexican authorities refused entry to 70 Gypsies who arrived in Mexico City on flights from Europe and a plane carrying 30 Gypsies from Europe to Mexico City passed through New York recently.

The Gypsies seem to have no money problem despite their story of being robbed by Mexican smugglers. The women had large sums in U.S. currency in their voluminous skirts, authorities said.

"Whenever they run short a woman heists her skirts and pulls out a large roll of bills" said Lee Miskill operator of a motel where the Gypsies were quartered.

Utah suing U.S. over oil shale land

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — The state of Utah today filed suit against Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton for title to more than 157,000 acres of valuable oil shale land in Eastern Utah.

The suit, filed is U.S. District Court for Utah, charges that Morton acted illegally and in excess of his authority in denying Utah's claim to the lands.

The land in question includes two 5,000-acre tracts which the federal government plans to lease for prototype oil shale development.

The Utah suit asks the court to order all funds received in lease fees and bonuses the government receives from lessees to be deposited in interest-bearing accounts until the suit is decided.

Utah is claiming the land "in lieu" of acreage deeded to the state when Utah achieved statehood, and later taken over by the federal government for national forests, Indian reservations and other preserves.

Federal law, according to the suit, specifically says that repayment to the state of lands taken for federal preserves must be on an "equal acreage" basis, and may include mineral lands when the land taken by the government was "mineral in character."

Police hunting clock cleaners

LONDON (UPI) — Police are hunting a gang of burglars operating in nearby Surrey and Sussex counties who specialize in stealing the works from grandfather clocks, leaving empty cases behind.

The gang has struck 20 times in recent weeks, a Surrey police spokesman said Monday.

He said police believe the gang puts the stolen works into different cases and sells them for cash in a current antique clock boom.

PUBLIC NOTICE

NOTICE OF DATE FIXED FOR SUBMITTING ARGUMENTS ON SCHOOL DISTRICT MEASURES

NOTICE is hereby given that, at an election to be held in POMONA UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT on the 4th day of JUNE 1974, there will be submitted to the voters the following measure(s):

"Shall there be authorized an increase of the revenue limit per unit of average daily attendance in the amount of Sixty Nine and 33-100 Dollars ($69.33), such increase to be effective in the Pomona Unified School District commencing July 1, 1974, and continuing for an unspecified period of time, the revenues of which are to be used for general fund school purposes? This would constitute an increase for the school year 1974-1975 from approximately Nine Hundred Eleven and 62-100 Dollars ($911.62) to approximately Nine Hundred Eighty and 95-100 Dollars ($980.95) per unit of average daily attendance.

"The proposed increase of the revenue limit of $69.33 per unit of average daily attendance will, if authorized, result in an increase in the estimated maximum general purpose tax rate of the District in the first year 1974-1975 from approximately $3.50 (the approximate maximum general purpose tax rate which would be applicable in 1974-1975 in the event this proposition is not approved, although the maximum general purpose tax rate of the District for 1973-1974 was approximately $4.22) to approximately $4.22 for each one hundred dollars of assessed valuation of property."

Arguments for or against any or all of these measures may be submitted to the Registrar-Recorder's Office, 808 North Spring Street, Room 100 (Rear), Los Angeles, California 90012 not later than 5 p.m. MARCH 26, 1974, which has been determined by the Registrar-Recorder's Office under the authority of Section 1462 of the Education Code to be a reasonable date based upon the time reasonably necessary to print and distribute the arguments to the voters. No argument shall exceed 300 words in length. Arguments may be submitted by the governing board of the district or any member or members authorized by the board, or any individual voter, or bona fide association of citizens or any combination of such voters and associations.

In accordance with Education Code Section 1465 any argument submitted must bear the statement "I (We) declare under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct".

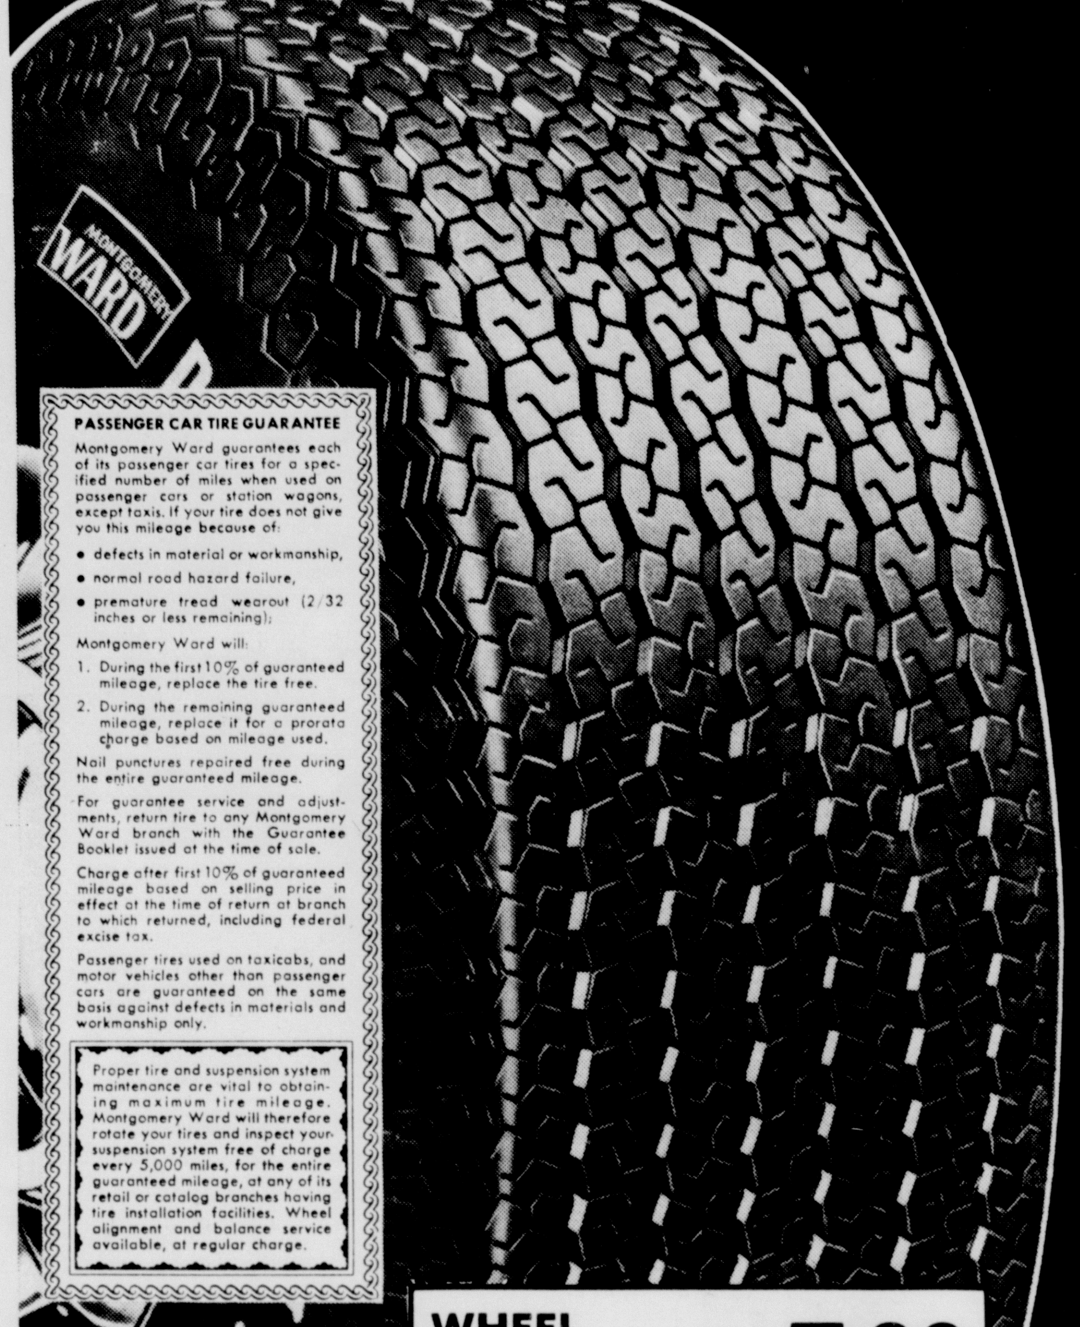
4-PLY POLYESTER CORD POLY-TRACK HIGHWAY HANDLER

20,000 MILE GUARANTEE



PASSENGER CAR TIRE GUARANTEE

Montgomery Ward guarantees each of its passenger car tires for a specified number of miles when used on passenger cars or station wagons, except taxis. If your tire does not give you this mileage because of:

- defects in material or workmanship,
- normal road hazard failure,
- premature tread wearout (2/32 inches or less remaining);

Montgomery Ward will:

1. During the first 10% of guaranteed mileage, replace the tire free.
2. During the remaining guaranteed mileage, replace it for a prorata charge based on mileage used.

For guarantee service and adjustments, return tire to any Montgomery Ward branch with the Guarantee Booklet issued at the time of sale.

Charge after first 10% of guaranteed mileage based on selling price in effect at the time of return at branch to which returned, including federal excise tax.

Passenger tires used on taxicabs, and motor vehicles other than passenger cars are guaranteed on the same basis against defects in materials and workmanship only.

Proper tire and suspension system maintenance are vital to obtaining maximum tire mileage. Montgomery Ward will therefore rotate your tires and inspect your suspension system free of charge every 5,000 miles, for the entire guaranteed mileage, at any of its retail or catalog branches having tire installation facilities. Wheel alignment and balance service available, at regular charge.
